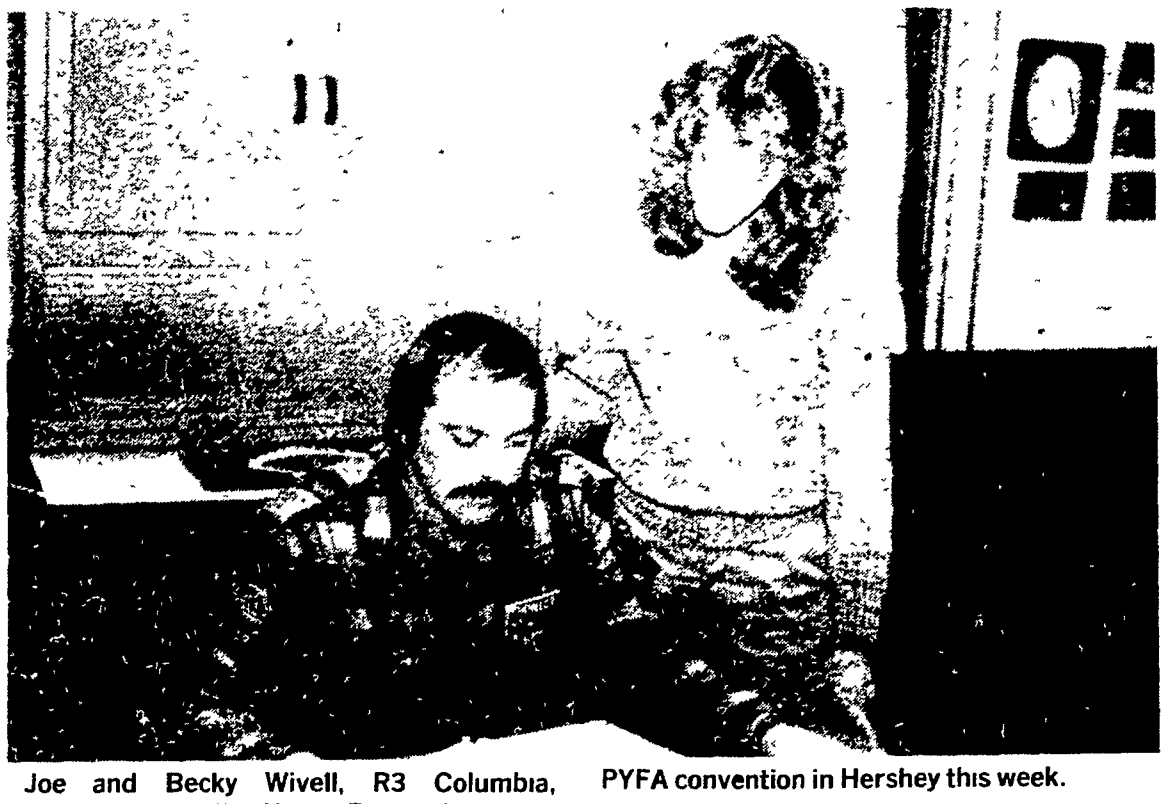
VOL. 26 No. 16 | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, February 14, 1981 | $7.50 Per Year



Joe and Becky Wivell, R3 Columbia, received Outstanding Young Farmer honors at PYFA convention in Hershey this week.

Young Farmers present awards

HERSHEY — Lancaster and York Counties were in the forefront of recipients of awards and honors that were presented at this week's Pennsylvania Young Farmers' convention at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center

Joe and Becky Wivell, R3 Columbia, representing Region II and the Elizabethtown Chapter, received Outstanding Young Farmer honors in the Under 30 category

The Dover Young Farmers Chapter from York County collected three major awards

William Fleet, advisor to the Dover Chapter, was presented the Outstanding Young Farmer Advisor Award

The Outstanding Chapter Award for 1980 went to the Dover Chapter

And, Lorne and Ailean Etter, of the Dover Chapter, were honored as recipients of the Outstanding Community Service Award

In addition to the presentation of these and other awards, the two-day PYFA convention featured the election of officers for the coming year and continuing plans for the 15th National Young Farmers Educational Institute to be held at Hershey on Dec 5-9

Named Outstanding Young Farmer in the Over 30 category were Paul and Grace Hornbaker, of Shippensburg, representing Region IV

The Wellsboro Chapter was credited with both the largest increase in membership and the largest chapter membership.

The top represented chapter at the convention was Ephrata

The Honorary PYFA Degree for 1980 was bestowed on Milton Hoffman, of Muncy Chief Seeds

Heading the slate of officers for the coming year is Earl C Stauffer, of R1 Ephrata, who received the presidential gavel from Caleb Williams, of Wellsboro, who moved into the Past President's slot

The passing of the gavel and presentation of the Past President's gavel took place at Tuesday's awards banquet attended by 268 Young Farmers and guests.

The new President-Elect is Terry E Martin Sr, of Chambersburg.

Other officers include Henry Sanders, R1 Millmont, who was returned to a second term as secretary, George Musser, R1 New Bethlehem, who also was re-elected to a second term as treasurer, and William B. Homan,

Leaders review Extension during annual meeting

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

LANCASTER — Nearly two hundred Lancaster County farmers and homemakers gathered Thursday evening at the Farm and Home Center for the annual meeting of the Agricultural and Home Economics Extension Association. Reports on the Extension Service and its impact on the community were given by four county leaders active in extension-sponsored programs

District Attorney Michael Ranck spoke on the difficulties arising from a greater emphasis being placed on procedural problems in the judicial process than on the guilt or innocence of an individual

He said, "Guilt is losing its importance and it is my belief that we are getting off the tract by concentrating on the procedural aspects Guilt or innocence has to be our primary objective in the search for truth and justice"

Ranck also urged his audience to become familiar with Operation Identification, in which homeowners engrave their Pennsylvania operator's ID number on their belongings. This makes the items easily traceable and therefore a difficult item for burglars to fence.

In areas where Operation Identification has been in effect on a wide scale, Ranck reported that burglaries dropped drastically He urged citizens to contact their local officials to encourage police officers to get active in getting people to participate in the program He said engraving tools are available at most local police departments

Ranck said, "By a concentrated community effort, we can put a bigger risk in the burglary business I would be very happy if we cut the crime rate in half in Lancaster" He pointed out that if the number of burglaries were

Marketing to highlight Keystone Pork Congress

LANCASTER — Concerned about the price of hogs these days? Need some quick remedies for depression?

If these symptoms are plaquing you as a hog producer, plan to attend Thursday's Third Keystone Pork Congress. The Pennsylvania Pork Producers' Council will be sponsoring this annual event at the Host Farm Resort, east of Lancaster along Route 30 — doors will open at 8 a m.

For the past two years, close to 1500 pork producers turned out for the workshop, and this year should be no exception, according to John Henkel, Strasburg

Henkel pointed out there will be a lot of new ideas put into play at this year's Congress For instance, the session is scheduled for only one day — last year it ran two days And, the topics to be covered by experts in the pork field will deal primarily with marketing rather than production, since hog producers seem to have more problems with the former than latter.

"We hope to strengthen the marketing awareness of both the feeder pig and market hog

Multiflora, ag bargaining bills move on Capitol Hill

BY CURT HARLER

HARRISBURG — The introduction of a multiflora rose bill and continued reaction to the proposed state budget and HB 143 dominated the Harrisburg ag legislative scene.

HB 467, a measure to declare multiflora rose a noxious weed in Pennsylvania, was introduced by House Majority Leader Samuel E. Hayes, Jr

The measure, coming out of the local government committee, is the result of a meeting held in mid-December with a group of Huntingdon County farmers, Hayes, the Agriculture Department, and the State Game Commission.

At that time Game Commission Executive Director Glenn L Bowers agreed the Commission would go along with having multiflora rose declared a noxious weed. The Commission has sponsored multiflora plantings for about 30 years throughout the Commonwealth

All three major farm groups in the state, the Farmers Association, Farmers Union, and Grange support the measure

"We intend to throw the Grange's full support behind this measure," said State Master Charles Wismer

With their support, Agriculture Department agreement, Hayes' backing, and no Commission opposition, there seems at present to be little doubt multiflora rose will be declared a noxious weed before its red and pink flowers bloom again this summer.

HB 467 deals only with multiflora rose, not autumn olive or any other potential candidate for noxious weed status.

Noxious weeds in Pennsylvania currently include Canadian thistle, Johnsongrass, chicory, and marijuana

A measure to assure good faith bargaining between growers and buyers also started to move in the House

HB 499, the Fair Agricultural Practices Marketing Bill, would

From chick to cage, we formulate feeds and feeding programs with your profit in mind.

At Pennfield Feeds, our basic goal is to help our customers make more money. We believe we can accomplish this for you, too.

Unlike many other feed companies, we develop custom feeding programs for each individual operation.

It all starts with a Pennfield man reviewing your operation with you. Your goals. Your records. The health and overall condition of your birds. Whether you grow chicks or buy pullets. The type of equipment you use. The production potential of your flock. Your management practices. And other factors that have an effect on your profit potential.

With the aid of computers, we then design a feeding program specifically tailored to your birds' needs — a program that can improve your profits by reducing expenses, increasing production, or both.

And we're a local company. We buy our feed grains locally. Shipping savings are passed on to customers. Our feeding programs are developed through test work and field trials based on local conditions.

These and other Pennfield advantages are helping hundreds of customers increase their profits. We can do the same for you. Phone or write us today.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

FEB. 16-22, 1981

Crystal clear, mercury seems to disappear.

Put a little sand or gravel out with your birdseed George Washington's Birthday observed Feb 16 (Mon) Full moon Feb 18 (Wed) Average length of days for the week, 10 hours, 49 minutes Lincoln County, N M, ranch war began Feb 18, 1878 Kansas prohibited alcoholic drinks Feb 19, 1881 The first half of our lives is ruined by our parents, and the second half by our children

Ask the Old Farmer: I purchased a device to roll newspapers into logs for the fireplace, but the instructions that came with the gadget called for the rolled newspapers to be impregnated with kerosene That way, if you keep one in your wood basket, your living room smells of kerosene C L, Cleveland

You can burn rolled newspapers without putting anything on them if you do not roll them up too tightly We have burned them for years, without kerosene, or a gizmo to roll them.

Home Hints: Toys and small objects won't drop through furnace registers in the floor if you affix a piece of window screen to the underside of the grating

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Sunny and cold, then snow middle of week, rest of week is partly cloudy and cold, possible snowstorm

Greater New York-New Jersey: Cold temperatures start the week, then sunny and warm, cold resuming weekend

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Week begins snowy, then sunny and warm, cold remainder of week and weekend

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Rain central at start of week, dwindling to sprinkles midweek, cool temperatures for weekend

This pig reached 221 lbs. in just 150 days on the Agway swine feeding program. And that's not unusual.

It's no secret that feed is the single biggest cost in producing pork. That's why it pays to make sure your feeding program gets your pigs to market weight in the shortest possible time.

From Agway Squealer Pellets to Agway Pork Finisher, there's a farm-tested Agway feed nutritionally formulated for each stage of a pig's growth. Agway complete swine feeds provide all known nutritional needs, including energy, protein (amino acids), minerals and vitamins.

COMPLETE AGWAY SWINE FEEDS	% Protein	% Fat	% Fiber
Squealer Pellets (MX)	18	4 0	3 0
Pig Starter Pellets (PT MX)	18	3 5	4 5
Hog Feed (T 20)	14	3 5	5 0
Pork Finisher (T 20) 4	12	3 5	5 0

1 of 8 Agway swine feeds available

The farm tested Agway swine feed program can help make each of your pigs an ideal pig

BACKED BY FEED TRIALS ON 1800 PIGS ANNUALLY.

Agway, in conjunction with other cooperatives, runs feed trials on 1800 pigs annually at the Agway Swine Research Farm in Lexington, Ill.

New feed ideas are constantly tested and proven, and the results incorporated into the Agway swine feeding program.

The ideal hog as defined by the American Pork Congress attains a weight of 220 lbs in 150 to 165 days It requires no more than 3 lbs of feed per each pound of gain and delivers a loin 30 inches long with a loin eye of 5 square inches.

In the past, Agway Squealer Pellets and Agway Starter Pellets were developed as the direct result of this program.

YOUR AGWAY SWINE EXPERT CAN TELL YOU MORE.

Lancaster Farming says...

A change of mind or heart?

President Ronald Reagan had either a change of mind or heart last week when he declined to lift the grain embargo against the Soviet Union

Despite repeated pledges during the campaign to end the embargo, and pleas from Ag Secretary John Block to keep his promise, Reagan bowed to the wishes of the State Department The embargo will continue for the forseeable future, the President said

Two groups will benefit, and neither includes farmers

First is the consumer bloc Keeping grain from going overseas keeps domestic supplies heavy That, in turn, keeps consumer prices down

Indeed, there is strong evidence that without the grain embargo domestic supplies would be depleted before the new corn crop hits the market this fall Last year's poor crop coupled with already low reserves means the system might not be able to withstand another short crop without severe price pressure on domestic markets

The second group to benefit will be speculators who play the grain market Many speculators have pulled their heads into their shells fearing Russia will invade Poland That certainly would end any hope of resumed grain sales

Reagan's move takes a lot of the guesswork out of speculators' moves Without any hope of resumed sales, they stay safely out of the market and farm prices remain low

John Block should be congratulated on his stand against his boss No national group favors continuation of the embargo Except for the initial shock, the embargo has had little effect on Russia—its troops still are in Afghanistan

American farmers, meantime, have lost markets to other nations Farmers languish under low prices while high-technology firms still sell to Russia Should Russia invade Poland, far more drastic steps than a grain embargo will be required, since there already is an embargo

Is Reagan's decision a change of mind influenced by the State Department, or a change of heart against farmers?

Reconsider prompt milk payment

The Pennsylvania Milk Security Fund is in trouble Only 31 of 120 dealers are in the Fund The others have opted out

Co-ops, responsible for many recent assessments on dairy producers, all voted themselves out of the Fund

At present the kitty is only a few dollars over $73,000, barely enough to cover the $50,000 annual operating costs

A meeting last Wednesday brought forth loads of suggestions ranging from increased funding to all bonding and no funding

Lancaster Farming once again would like to push for prompt payment by buyers for all milk sold in Pennsylvania

The intent of the lawmakers, as voiced last year, was eventually to work toward prompt payment by dealers and co-ops for milk

No longer would farmers wait three to six weeks for checks, giving the dealer free interest for that period and exposing farmers to financial ruin They'd be paid in 10 days and their potential risk in case of failure would be cut by four-fifths

If a bank or bonding firm won't handle a dairy, surely the farmer can't afford to lend interest-free money against poor security

The problems of milk price can be worked out by paying the past month's blend plus a correction when the Order figures final blend

Interest is too high, farmers too far out on financial limbs, to expect anything less than prompt payment for services or goods

Prompt payment will cut the bureaucracy needed to get dairy producers' security, end farmers' roles as unpaid bankers, treat dealers and co-ops equally, and slash the cost of bonds

It reaches to the heart of farmers' needs for security rather than treating 55-day old symptoms

IN THE REAL WORLD

February 15, 1981

Background Scripture:
Matthew 16 through 17
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 58:5-12

We've never really known what to do with some of Jesus' teachings. They are easy for us to recite, but many of them just don't fit into what you and I think of as "the real world." For some people, these conflicts are troubling. Others explain them away, suggesting that they were not meant to be applied in this life Others of us avoid the problem by never thinking about it

A case in point is Jesus' concept of success. The conflict is a very sharp disagreement as to what constitutes success and failure After Peter confessed him as the Christ of Caesarea Philippi, Matthew tells us: "From that time Jesus began to show his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and suffer many things from the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and on the third day be raised" (Matthew 16 21) Peter responded the way most of us would have "Peter began to rebuke him, saying 'God forbid, Lord! This shall never happen to you'" (16:22)

Saving and Losing

Who would quarrel with Simon Peter? After all, he was telling it like it really is What Jesus was describing was nothing less than a losing game-plan Think what it would do to the Master's image everyone would mark him as a "loser," and you can't achieve anything in this world that is worthwhile unless you're a "winner." We may not always know what "winning" is, but suffering at the hands of one's enemies and being killed by them is definitely not 'winning" Not in the real world anyway

And so, Christianity has often chosen the world's standards of "winning" and "losing" because it has had to live in the real world, instead of the world of 'pie-in-the-sky-sometime!" For example, a "successful" man in our congregation is the one who has achieved a certain degree of material and/or professional position The "unsuccessful" person is one who may never get anywhere economically of socially "Success" in the ministry is to become a bishop or serve a very large and influential church. The "unsuccessful" pastor is a clergyperson who has spent his or her whole life with small rural churches

Real And Unreal

Yet, this is so different from Jesus' own statement of values 'For whoever would save his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life for my sake will find it" (16 25) What Jesus is saying to us is that in the real world, the world where values are determined by God instead of his creatures, what appears to be "winning" may actually be "losing," and what smells of defeat may, in fact, be victory. The apparent "loser" may be the real "winner" as God judges

The fact is, that which we think of as the real world may be only a distorted reflection and our ideas of "success" and "failure" may be equally out of focus And the key to real success" may be nothing less than the largely untried concept of our Lord. "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me"

TO EVALUATE CORN GROWING PRACTICES

In recent years many farmers have been growing corn on the same ground year after year. This has been a common practice in the mid-west for many years. Now, there is some research being done that could raise a some question about this practice. One piece of work showed that by changing the variety of hybrid corn from year to year will increase yields Some other work reflects the use of crop rotations and the greater use of legumes in the rotation This might not meet the desire of some corn growers to inject another crop in the rotation, but might be the best thing to do in the long run. Fertilizer prices are soaring and the presence of a legume sod prior to corn will add 125 pounds of nitrogen per acre from a good alfalfa sod, and 40 pounds from a red clover sod This could reduce the fertilizer bill and still give increased yields. Even though corn will be in strong demand in the next few years, some of these findings might make it more profitable

TO INVEST IN A RESPIRATOR

No doubt you have noticed this suggestion in various pieces of farm press However, it is still a good gesture to reduce health hazards. Under modern farming practices the farmer is exposed to more dusts, gases, and chemicals than a generation ago In order to

made with fiberglass, the material of the future — and proven in the past —

The Fiberdome chute is designed and engineered to be installed on most types of silos. Its structure allows it to withstand the toughest beating the weather elements or silo unloading systems can possibly dish out.
The chute is constructed in full 7½' sections to minimize the number of joints. Connecting joints have a 2½" tongue and groove design to keep feed in and water out. The large ribbed construction adds stability and strength.
Fiberglass is durable, corrosion-proof, attractive and translucent, allowing sunlight to pass through. Sunlight quickly dries interior moisture in the chute. The hard gleaming gelcote surface will remain for many years.

Berks SCD to hold tree sale

LEESPORT — The Berks County Conservation District has announced their annual tree sale has begun. Orders for tree seedlings are presently being accepted and will continue to be available until the March 31 deadline.

This year nine varieties are available.

Austrian Pine, Colorado Blue Spruce, Douglas Fir, Mugho Dwarf Pine, Norway Spruce and Scotch Pine are available at three and four year old seedlings at a cost of 10 for $2.50 or 100 for $17.

Arborvitae will be available as three year old seedlings for a cost of 10 for $3.50 or 100 for $27

Also available this year are one year old seedlings of Red Maple and White Birch. The cost of these seedlings is $1 each for the Red Maple and $1.75 each for the White Birch.

The seedlings will be available for pick-up at the Berks County Agricultural Center, located across from the Berks Heim, on Friday, April 24 between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m., and Saturday, April 25 from 9 a m until 4 p m., at the rear of the building.

Notices will be sent about two weeks prior to the pick-up date as a reminder.

Order forms and checks made payable to: Berks County Conservation District, should be mailed to the Berks County Conservation District, Agricultural Center, Leesport, Pa 19533

Lancaster District to offer tree seedling sale

LANCASTER — The 7th Annual Tree Seedling sale will be sponsored by the Board of Directors of the Lancaster County Conservation District on April 25, 1981

Trees help purify the air, act as windbreaks and sound buffers, provide cover for wildlife, produce products like Christmas trees, nuts, lumber and firewood, and provide aesthetic appeal

Evergreen species being offered in 1981 are Scotch pine, Norway spruce, blue spruce, white pine, Douglas fire and hemlock. Hardwoods include white flowering dogwood, red oak, black walnut, black locust and tulip poplar

The cost for tree seedlings are as follows: hardwoods, $1.00 each; evergreens, $2 50 for a packet of 10 seedlings of the same variety; $5.00 for a packet of 10.

To order seedlings, contact the District Office at the Farm and Home Center, Room 6, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA 17601, Telephone No. (717) 299-5361, to receive an order blank Fill in the order blank and return it along with payment for trees before March 27, 1981.

Seedlings can them be picked up on Saturday, April 25, 1981 at Longs Park.

Pork Congress

producers," Henkel explained

John Saunders, Vice President of the National Pork Producers' Council, will be visiting with the Keystone producers during the evening's banquet He will be setting the stage for a motivating and inspiring presentation called 'My America' by Charles Plumb, a war veteran.

Commercial exhibits for the trade show have dropped slightly this year due to economic trends, confessed Henkel But eighty-one exhibitors still will provide plenty for producers to sample and study.

Mabel Strock, Porkette President, is enthusiastic about this year's women's program during the Congress.

"We're going to be concentrating our topics on the main goals of the Porkettes — promotion and nutrition," she said. "Penn State's John Ziegler will be talking about the nutritive value of pork. And Joanne Ketterer, a home economics teacher at Shippensburg High School, will be demonstrating how to prepare pork hors d'oeuvres "

Strock emphasized the need for more in-store promotion of pork by the Porkettes, and noted this will be one of the topics discussed during the annual business meeting. Other topics will include the need for more organization in the western part of Pennsylvania along with the possibilities of a commodity representative — queen or king

The Porkette's day will close with Abe Landes of Hatfield Packing Company discussing the use of pork in the school lunch program.

"We're trying to keep our women's program short so that it doesn't fill up the day," Strock concluded. "A lot of women are involved in pork production — taking care of the farrowing barn and other areas — and they are just as interested in the producer's program "

So, no matter what gender of pork producer you are, the 3rd Pennsylvania Pork Congress is a sure bet for learning how to push pork for profit.

The Agway DNI feeding program gives these hens the nutrients they need. And without wasting dollars.

The Agway Daily Nutrient Intake (DNI) feeding program gives your birds the nutrients they need for maximum production at the lowest possible cost The simple and efficient DNI system prevents overfeeding of expensive protein while meeting your hens' daily requirements for amino acids and other nutrients

Today there's no need to put more nutrients in your hens than your hens need

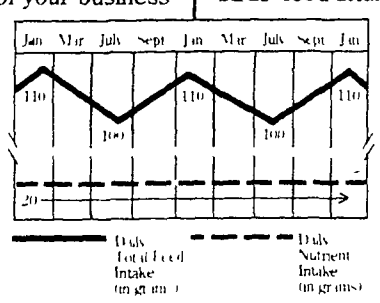
MAINTAINS A CONSTANT NUTRIENT LEVEL AS DAILY INTAKE CHANGES

The idea behind the DNI program is simple: as feed intake varies, change feeds to avoid paying for more nutrition than your birds require.

Suppose, for example, your flock is eating 100 grams of feed per bird daily (22 lbs /100 birds) Under the DNI program, your feed would be Agway High Layer 1000

During cold weather, when the birds moved up to 110 grams of feed daily, you'd switch to High Layer 1100+ to maintain daily nutrient intake at the required level Paying for more protein than necessary can significantly affect the profitability of your business

By monitoring your flock's intake, you'll know when to change feeds (such as Agway High Layer 900 when birds are eating just 90 grams of feed/day, or High Layer 1100+ when birds are consuming 110 grams of feed/day)



Even though your birds' feed intake varies seasonally on the Agway DNI program nutrient intake remains constant provided you change feeds based on intake

YOUR AGWAY POULTRY SPECIALIST CAN HELP SET UP A DNI PROGRAM FOR YOUR OPERATION.

Agway Poultry Enterprise specialists are available to help you set up a DNI program for your operation You'll find that DNI is simple. All you do is watch your birds' feed intake and adjust feeds accordingly

So contact your local Agway today for more details on the DNI program —the system that makes sure your birds get the nutrients they need without wasting dollars

Coble, Bomberger top 5-Acre Corn Clubs

HERSHEY — The winners of the 5-Acre Corn Club for Dauphin and Lebanon Counties were announced Thursday during the Corn and Soybean Day, held here at Founders Hall.

The top grower in Dauphin County was David Coble, R1 Hershey with his 136.5 bushel per acre yield of ear corn. Coble planted Pioneer Brand 3382 at the rate of 22,626 plants per acre with an 8 7 inch spacing His three-year average was 135 1 bushels per acre

Cyrus Bomberger, R5 Lebanon, received a blue ribbon for his winning 165.7 bushels per acre of shelled Pioneer Brand 3382. He planted at a rate of 21,944 plants per acre with 9 5 inch spacing Bomberger's three year average was 148 bushels per acre.

These top yields were attained despite the drought conditions that plagued the two counties last summer

Milton Hershey School Farm came in second in Dauphin County with a 126 1 bushels per acre yield on Pioneer Brand 3184 shelled corn for 1980. However, they did take a blue ribbon for their three-year average of 162 7 bushels per acre.

Other Lebanon County winners included

— Galen Boyd, 160 2 bushels per acre of 897 Schlessman SX802 ear corn, with a three-year average of 157 4 bushels per acre,

— Mark Hitz, 149 9 bushels per acre of Pioneer Brand 3382 shelled corn;

— Henry Royer, 146 1 bushels per acre of Pioneer Brand 3184 ear corn,

— Daryl Alger, 138 5 bushels per acre of DeKalb XL55A shelled corn, with a three-year average of 145 bushels per acre;

— Mark and J Richard Bomberger, 136 6 bushels per acre of O's Gold 5500AB ear corn, with a three-year average of 139 bushels per acre;

— Gerald Hoffer, 131.5 bushels per acre of DeKalb XL53 shelled corn;

— Amos Balsbaugh, Jr , 125 4 bushels per acre of Pioneer Brand 3382 ear corn;

— Floyd Moore, 121 1 bushels per acre of DeKalb 55A ear corn; and

— Richard Kreider, 118 9 bushels per acre of Pioneer Brand 3382 ear corn

WE'RE NUMBER ONE!

Per Bale or Per Silo

Preserve Hay and Haylage Nutrients with BEACON PRE—SERV* Products!

If you use hay by the bale, Beacon Hay Pre-Serv lets you bale it at 25% moisture. This allows you to bale earlier in the day, later at night, and well before rain can damage it while drying. Baling at higher moisture levels means you get tougher hay with less leaf shatter . . .hay that cows definitely prefer, with as much as 20% more nutritional value!

If you ensile hay into hay crop silage, Beacon Silage Pre-Serv controls the fermentation process by speeding it up. Therefore, a stable silage condition is reached much sooner. Less heat is produced during the fermentation process. The reduced temperatures can lessen the chance of protein being heat-damaged.

That means more nutrients in the haylage where they can be used to make more milk And that means less feed to buy.

Hay Pre-Serv. Silage Pre-Serv. Both are blends of food-grade mold inhibitors, anti-oxidants and flavors. They improve palatability and digestibility while they reduce spoilage. And both are easy and inexpensive to apply. Find out more about these great products now. Per bale or per silo, you'll get more milk production, and that means more profits!

Here are Act 147 changes in truck weight law

HARRISBURG — Act 147 passed in the previous session of the legislature, changed the following requirements in the law regarding trucks

It lowered the maximum gross weight allowed on a two axle truck from 44,800 pounds to 38,000 pounds

With a 22,400 pound rear axle, a driver probably can only legally load approximately 33,000 pounds on this truck and be within the legal axle weights, according to the Pennsylvania Farm and Power Equipment Assn

On the three and four axle trucks, the front axle is limited to 18,000 pounds and each of the rear axles can be 21,400 pounds

However, the three axles together cannot exceed 60,000 pounds. These weights can only be used on highways other than interstates

On interstate highways drivers still are limited to 18,000 pounds per axle for each of the rear axles.

If the truck tractor is registered for more than 73,280 pounds, but you are operating a combination with an overall gross weight less than 73,280 pounds, then the old axle weights prevail .not the bridge formula

However, whenever a driver is registered for more than 73,280 pounds and is transporting more than 73,280 pounds, then the bridge formula prevails, PFPEA says.

Many combinations couldn't achieve 80,000 pounds because on the outside bridge formula you need 51 feet from the center of the steering axle to the center of the rearmost axle on the trailer.

In order to allow shorter combinations, if the outside measurements (that's the center of the steering axle to the center of the rear axle on the trailer) are at least 43 feet and if the internal bridge (that's from the center of the front drive axle on the tractor to the center of the rear axle on the trailer) is at least 32 feet, then an owner can add a third axle under the trailer to get to the 80,000 pounds.

In this instance, the three rear axles on the trailer would be limited to a gross weight of 42,500 pounds, and the tandem drives on the tractor would be limited to 34,000 pounds.

Except when necessary for turning, the truck that is operating under normal load conditions, the lift axle shall be in full contact with the highway under full pressure

Any person violating this subsection is guilty of a summary offense and shall, upon conviction, be sentenced to pay a fine of $250, Act 147 provides.

When a truck tractor is operating under permit, the fine for axle and gross weight violations shall only be applicable to the weight that the vehicle is in excess of the weight allowed on the permit.

A three percent tolerance per axle shall be permitted when a vehicle is weighed on stationary or portable scales. This tolerance shall not apply on any interstate highway, the Act says

Portable scales shall be calibrated every 30 days for the purpose of certification and accuracy by the Department of Agriculture, Act 147 says.

Meat plant loses grading services

WASHINGTON, D C — A U S Department of Agriculture administrative law judge has ordered federal meat grading and acceptance services be withdrawn from Mirman Brothers, Inc., 320 E. Street, S W., Washington, D.C., for three years.

The January 5 decision by USDA Administration Law Judge Victor W. Palmer was based on the firm's violations in 1978 of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 On six separate occasions, Mirman Brothers, Inc , delivered beef and pork products to D.C. General Hospital accompanied by false USDA agricultural produce acceptance certificates.

Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service, said that investigation disclosed that all of the meat products in these shipments were federally inspected for wholesomeness.

However, the firm falsely represented that the products had been officially certified by USDA graders for conformance with contract specifications.

Under the 1946 law and USDA regulations, meat products previously inspected for wholesomeness may receive meat grading and certification services on a fee-for-service basis.

The USDA order will not become effective until 35 days after the firm receives the order. During that time, Mirman Brothers, Inc., may appeal the decision.

N.E. Weed Society holds annual meeting

PHILADELPHIA — The City o Brotherly Love played host to the 35th Annual Northeastern Weed Science Society meeting when more than 300 participants gathered recently at the Philadelphia Sheraton.

The three-day meeting focused on 147 scientific papers, presented in separate sessions including Agronomy; Ecology, Physiology and Soils; Industry, Forestry and Conservation; Ornamentals and Turf A special Biological Weed Control Symposium featured speakers from USDA and Abbott Research Center discussing the use of insects and plant pathogens for weed control

President Garry Schnappinger, of Ciba-Geigy, opened the general session by relating what weed scientists can do to "get involved" in the defense of agricultural chemicals.

Keynote speaker Jack D. Early, president of the National Agricultural Chemicals Assn. followed with a review of his organization's action plan to combat overregulation on behalf of the chemical industry.

Awards Chairman James Parochetti, of the USDA-SEA-Extension, presented awards to three member scientists for their dedicated service and outstanding contributions.

Honored with the Distinguished Member Award were: Robert H. Beatty, retired from Amchem Products, Inc., now Union Carbide Agricultural Products Co., Inc ; Arthur Bing, professor of Floriculture with Cornell University; and John A. Meade, professor and extension weed specialist at Rutgers University, N J.

The Award of Merit — established in recognition of meritorious service to NEWSS members nearing retirement or who have retired — was presented to: Dayton L Klingman, Chief, Weed Science Laboratory, Beltsville, Maryland; Hugh J Murphy, agronomy professor at the University of Maine; and John Van Geluwe, Senior Research Specialist in Plant Protection, Ciba-Geigy

The best paper and graduate student presentation awards, funded by BASF Wyandotte Corporation, were presented to the following:

AGWAY Salvager™

Water Heating System

Imagine using your bulk tank to produce hot water This unique, energy-recovery device does just that by simply transferring latent refrigerant heat to cold water Here's how it works Salvager is installed between the compressor and condenser of your bulk tank's refrigerant system Superheated refrigerant gas flows from the compressor through a jacket surrounding an insulated, glass-lined water storage tank

The result hot water, produced at no extra energy cost, by salvaging otherwise-wasted heat from your compressor

Salvager can operate as a single or dual unit condenser and can be ganged to handle unusually large condensing loads Get the details from Agway Then put the Salvager to work in your milkhouse and start saving money on water heating bills

'Gold' goes to Quarter Horse winners

BY SHEILA MILLER

PARADISE — More than 200 'golden' trophies of assorted shapes and sizes filled a table the length of one wall at the Dutch Town and Country Restaurant here on Saturday evening. Members of the Keystone Quarter Horse Association filled the hall to over-flowing as they gathered in Lancaster County for their Annual Awards Banquet

It was the culmination of a season of hard work and long hours for the 310 members of KQHA, with members hailing from eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey. The top winners in halter and performance competition in the region were recognized for their outstanding accomplishments in the Quarter Horse industry

The first grand champion honored was the top scoring stallion for 1980, Buddy Sweet, foaled in 1977. He was shown by Dark Hollow Farm, owner Alfred Krusa; Wycombe The grand champion mare was Cajuns Wild Fire, a yearling, co-owned by Merrill Shahn and Richard Mentzer of Strasburg And Go With Skip was the 1980 grand champion Quarter Horse gelding, owned by Dave Brechbiel, Waynesboro

Golden-hued trophies will grace the mantels of the following champion's homes Mike McGrane and mother Dee Dee, Collegeville, All Around Performance Champion; Wendy Weatherby, Middletown, All Around Amateur Champion; Rhonda Replogle, Woodbury, All Around Youth.

Grand champion hips in the production divisions of the Keystone Quarter Horse Association went to: Merrill Shahn and Richard Mentzer, Strasburg, grand champion mare; Alfred Krusa, Wycombe, grand champion stallion; and Dave Brechbiel and daughter, Leslie, Waynesboro, grand champion gelding.

The All Around Performance Horse for 1980 was Brush Cut Accepting the award on Saturday were the horse's owner, Mike McGrane, and Mike's mother, Dee Dee McGrane of Collegeville Both mother and son rode the horse to the top honors, taking first in KQHA All Age Trail and All Age Western Riding divisions

Middletown's Wendy Weatherby tied up the All Around Amateur championship in KQHA competition riding Rocket Bar Forcast to first place in four of five divisions Weatherby and mount came in at the top of the list for Horsemanship, Trail, Bridle Path Hack, and Hunt Seat Equitation to earn the championship

The All Around Youth championship went to Rhonda Replogle of Woodbury and her Quarter Horse, Balli Hi On her way to the top, Replogle also was the top equestrienne in the 14-18 age group in Horsemanhip, Barrels, Pole Bending, and Showmanhip, and was named the All Around Youth in her age division youth award sponsored by C.T. Fuller, was Robin Weatherby, Middletown. Riding her Quarter Horse, Bit Of Brick, Weatherby came in first in the season's scoring for Trail and Bridle Path Hack 14-18.

A lifetime membership in KQHA was awarded to Sally Winkelman, Malvern, presented for her outstanding contribution to the Quarter Horse industry Winkelman is the ninth recipient of the special award presented since the Association's formation in 1971

Last year's lifetime membership went to KQHA President Wilda F Carr She will be serving in that office again this year, assisted by Vice President John Glick, Secretary-Treasurer Pat Stephens, and Corresponding Secretary Barbara Spera The 1981 Board of Directors includes: Scott Buckwalter, Dick Herr, Chester Immel, Terry Ressler, Frank Spera, Peter Weatherby, Sally Winckelman, C.T. Fuller and Gary Sayers.

According to Carr, the ten-year-old association was formed in order to save Quarter Horse breeders, striving for high-point awards, from having to travel across the state to sanctioned shows recognized by the Pennsylvania Quarter Horse Association

"There was some initial rivalry between the two separate organizations," commented Winckelman, 'but there isn't any more" She pointed out many Quarter Horse breeders belong to both associations

KQHA holds two shows in Lititz each spring and fall, and sends a youth team to the Quarter Horse Congress in Ohio.

BLUE BALL — Four area dairymen were honored for having high producing herds this past year at the seventeeth annual District 4 Meeting for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative members held Tuesday at Blue Ball Fire Hall.

Receiving Certificates of Merit for having top Dairy Herd Improvement Association averages were Elmer & Kerry Boyd (28 Mixed cows, 14,966 Milk and 541 Fat) and Jerrene & Adam Zimmerman (29 Holstein cows, 19,052 Milk and 670 Fat).

Both herds were at least 15 percent above the state average for milk or butterfat production last year, while at least two-thirds of the cows in these herds are progeny of Atlantic sires

Awards were presented by C. P. Brantley, Atlantic's Field Supervisor for this area

District 4 Director, Clyde Martin of East Earl, informed members that 1980 was the most successful business year in Atlantic's history. Service Technicians provided more than 300,000 services, and semen sales increased to direct-herd breeders and through distributors Patronage dividends will be mailed to all members who used the Cooperative's services last year

A narrated slide program presented by management representative, Alan Bair, Lancaster, covered the topics of proper sire selection, good conception and finances of the organization

Members present voted for District representatives for the coming year. Election results will be announced in the next issue of the Cooperative's monthly newsletter, since more than one meeting is held in most of Atlantic's 16 Districts

Farmers learn sulfur's importance

MT. ZION — Nearly 100 farmers from the Lebanon County area met last Thursday evening, here, for the annual customer banquet sponsored by Lebanon Chemical, Stauffer Chemical, and Monsanto.

One of the meeting's main thrusts was to spell out the fact some farmland could be deficient in the element, sulfur.

It was pointed out that 20 years ago only 13 states, not including Pennsylvania were known to have sulfur deficient soils. Now this number has grown to 35 states, with the Keystone State being one of the statistics

What caused this rise in deficient soils? According to the experts, sulfur deficiency is caused because there is less sulfur being emitted in industrial smoke stacks so less is carried back to the ground by rain and snowfall. Along with that, chemical fertilizers have less sulfur in their make-up And, higher crop yields drain the soil of more sulfur

Years ago, when corn yields averaged 80 bushels per acre, the amount of sulfur needed to grow that crop was 18 pounds Today, with corn yields around 250 bushels to the acre, it takes 50 pounds of sulfur for the crop

Where are these sulfur deficient soils? Most likely, the deficiency is found on sandy soils with low organic matter contents, it was explained

Recognizing whether a soil is sulfur deficient through examining the plants is somewhat difficult because the symptoms are similar to nitrogen deficiency symptoms Chlorosis and stunted growth are evident in plants where sulfur deficiencies are severe. In less severe soils, crop yields are reduced

When sulfur is deficient in the soil, the other soil nutrients are tied up and plants cannot use the nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium put down in regular fertilizer to the optimum Also, a shortage of sulfur decreases the protein content of forage crops, because the element is vital for amino acid synthesis, it was reported.

Plant Industry Supervisor Dave Thompson, of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture advised the group on proper disposal of chemical containers, citing a law passed last November which regulates how empty pesticide containers, hazardous waste, must be handled

"For a regular trashman to pick them up, they must be triple rinsed, with the rinse water poured into the sprayer Then the container must be rendered useless by chopping a hole in it or burning it," he stressed

Proper disposal will be monitored by the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources, he concluded

Farmers were cautioned on selecting the proper herbicide this spring to avoid unwanted carryover into next fall's small grain or alfalfa seeding It was pointed out the dry winter being experienced, following a dry summer last year, may not have moved the herbicides applied last spring As a result, lesser amounts could be called for this planting season, especially in an atrazine program. — SM

Crops and soils day to run

LANCASTER — The 20th annual Lancaster County Crops and Soils program will be held this coming Tuesday, February 17

The session will begin with exhibits and displays, plus donuts and coffee, at 8·30 a m. Event will be held at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster

The actual program begins with an update on small grains, soybeans, and tobacco, to be presented at 9 30 by John Yocum, superintendent of the Penn State Southeast Field Research Lab.

Among the other morning speakers, York County Ag Agent Jim Haldeman will give a talk on weed indentification and control in corn and alfalfa; Lynn Hoffman, manager of the Penn State Rock Springs Farm, will talk about a 10-year study on crops rotation; and Penn State Economist Lou Moore will discuss the feed grain outlook

Following lunch, Agronomist Raymond Shipp will explain soil test changes and methods to overcome heavy manure applications, and Roland Freund, area farm management specialist, will talk about the economics involved in corn, alfalfa, and soybean production.

Lancaster swine producers honor members

INTERCOURSE — Hog producers from Lancaster and surrounding counties turned out nearly 300 strong for the 24th Annual Swine Producers Association Banquet, held here Friday evening at the Harvest Drive Restaurant.

Taking care of business, the Association's members nominated and elected directors for a three-year term. The three chosen to continue serving on the Lancaster County board include Barry Haldeman, R3 Manheim; John Henkel, R1 Strasburg; and Bill Fisher, R2 East Earl Representing Chester County will be Bill Beam, R1 Elverson

Chester County Extension Agent Cheryl Moran presented the Association's James E Martin Swine Award to 4-H'er Nelson Beam

Beam has been a member of the Chester County Baby Beef and Swine clubs for the past nine years. In his years with 4-H, Nelson has attained the honors of champion showman three times — twice in

reduced, it would reduce the need for lawyers to get the cases through the judicial system and would therefore save money and lives

Ranck said the "habit" of giving probation for a first burglary offense is encouraging many young people to 'go into the business" he added We should stop giving probation and give jail time even as a first offender "

Reporting on behalf of the 4-H program, Joanne Enders, organizational leader for the Mountville Community 4-H Club, called the 4-H program 'exciting, unique and rewarding " Mrs Enders said that it was a unique program because it appeals to a wide age span and offers coeducational opportunity which facilitates positive interaction among youth She said, "It is a sound program, based on knowing, feeling and doing What better philosophy than to learn by doing?"

Mrs Enders said 4-H offers the feeling of self-worth and a feeling of achievement for its members as well as teaching personal commitment and an ability to follow through

She called the program unique in that it teaches "young people how to handle competition constructively and very creatively " The wide variety of projects and their flexibility is another unique feature of this youth program, according to Mrs Enders

Giving credit to the understanding, dedicated and well-trained staff," Mrs Enders said individual leaders can assess the needs of their area and develop a program which meets those needs

She added, 'It gives skills necessary to live life and to use and enjoy the world and find time for happiness "

Saying that an estimated $6 50 is spend per member per year, Mrs Enders says it is a good investment as a 'preventative measure" in developing good citizens

Opal Ruhl, president of the county's 33 Farm Women Societies, said "Many of our members are touched by programs offered by the extension service " She cited the newsletter, individual classes, the Christmas in October programs as examples of ways in which the extension program "enriches the lives of all persons "

Larry Weaver, livestock producer and former 4-H member, said, 'A nation is only as prosperous as its agriculture Extension plays a big part in this prosperity "

Weaver pointed out that agriculture is big business and that in 1979 farms in Lancaster County produced products worth $560,000,000 totaling one-eighth of the state's total value of agricultural products He said, "In addition to producing food, we provide jobs for the many other necessary services We have both the supply and demand, and the rural atmosphere of Lancaster County and the work ethic makes it attractive to others "

Weaver also noted that the real estate which provides the riches also provides a large tax base which requires few services

He said the need for services from the Extension office will continue to grow. Complimenting the Extension Service for providing up-to-date information on current problems as they arise, the Junior division and once in the Senior division In 1979, he exhibited the grand champion market hog in the county.

Beam, a senior at Twin Valley High School, Morgantown, is presently employed on his father's commercial farrow-to-finish operation His responsibilities as over-all herdsman for the 60-sow operation include record-keeping for farrowings, feeding rations, and breeding cycles Along with his barn duties, Beam also helps with crop work

After graduation, Beam plans to attend Penn State, majoring in Animal Production He hopes to return to the home farm after college and continue building a successful swine operation

Presenting the production test awards for best evaluation on-foot and on-rail was Max Smith, Lancaster County Extension Agent

The on-foot award went to Mark Nestleroth of Dutch Valley Farms, Manheim, for his top score of 42 7 out of a possible 50 points Kreider Mum Farm received the carcass award with a score of 58.56 percent red meat on their entry

Following his presentations, Smith also received an award from the Association's president, Abe Fisher. Noting the retiring County Agent said he plans to have a small garden as a hobby, the Swine Producers' chief rewarded Smith's dedication and service over the years with a small, but potent, supply of liquid hog manure — just dipped from the pit —SM

County seeks $1.5 million for Conestoga farm projects

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County Coordinating Committee consisting of all local USDA agencies has filed an application to the Conservation and Environmental Protection Division of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service for funds to install conservation measures in the headwaters of the Conestoga River in northeast Lancaster County.

The amount of funds is approximately $1.5 million which, if approved, will be spent on critical areas to solve the pollution problems of the River that are attributed to agricultural non-point sources.

The funds, appropriated under the Rural Clean Water Program, will provide an incentive to farmers of up to $50,000 per farm during the next 10 years.

This money will be contracted through the Lancaster County ASC Committee with the Soil Conservation Service having the technical responsibility in the field in laying out practices and providing the design work and specifications The County Extension Office and the Soil Conservation District will provide information and education.

The Conestoga Headwaters Rural Clean Water Project will include the following townships: West Cocalico, East Cocalico, Brecknock, Caernarvon and parts of Clay, West Earl, Earl, and East Earl Townships. There are a total of 1250 farms in the project area with 400 farms in the more critical areas.

The criteria for establishing the critical areas are:

(1) Those farms adjacent to the major streams within the Conestoga Headwaters Assn ;

(2) Those farms adjacent to small tributaries within the watershed;

(3) Livestock farms having an animal unit density greater than 1.5 animal units per acre; and

(4) Those farms using high rates of commercially supplied nutrients and pesticides on all or most of their land.

If the project is approved and funds are provided for the establishment of practices on these farms, the result should be an improvement in public health, economics, and recreation. Public health benefits would result from control of nitrites in surface and underground waters.

Control of non-point source sewage and animal wastes would reduce bacteriological contamination of ground water and reduce contamination of surface streams.

Extension Association

Weaver said even more information will be needed in the future, including more financial management information, and more information on estate planning, energy preservation of agricultural land and drought survival

Robert Kindig, a dairy farmer and member of the Extension Board Service, also spoke of the need for the Extension to provide unbiased information and a unified team approach. "Extension is an obvious place to look for advice "

Citing the Dairy Herd Improvement Association as an example of a valuable Extension program, Kindig pointed out that the increase in production of cows on official test in Lancaster County amounts to $16,000,000 annually This, coupled with the genetic influence of cows through this program, adds up to about $20,000,000 in benefits to the county each year

"These results help the farmer as well as the consumer," Kindig noted "More production and more efficiency helps keep down the rising cost of food." He pointed out that the export of farm products also works to offset the value of imports

He concluded, "Never minimized the importance of strong agricultural extension programs "

Capital Region Extension Administrator Marion Deppen led a standing applause to recognize County Extension Director M.M Smith who will retire at the end of March Deppen noted that Smith has been leading extension programs for 44 years, a record not matched by any other extension worker in Pennsylvania. He also said that permission has been given to hire another agricultural extension agent, and a search committee is being formed. An appointment of the County Extension Director will be made sometime in mid-March

Deppen reported on a "Citizen's Viewpoint" survey in which Lancaster County came out as the number one place to live out of the state's 67 counties Deppen added, "Lancaster County is a special place in America, and with the blessings come responsibilities."

He said that while the Extension program originates at Penn State, "all the action is out here." He cited the Expanded Foods and Nutrition Program as a one to one program which is doing "very effective work" in promoting better health and a better life.

Deppen announced that soon "perishable extension information" will be available through television by way of a black box purchased by the producer and telephone numbers to dial with up-to-the minute tips and weather reports. "This has tremendous possibilities," Deppen reported

Also during the meeting, five directors were elected to serve on the Board. They are: Katherine Fry, Manheim R7; Carlton Groff, Kirkwood R1; Robert Kindig, Conestoga R1; Kenneth Meck, Willow Street R1; and Doris Zimmerman, Ephrata R1

TO RECOGNIZE FERTILIZER VALUE IN MANURE

With the heavy livestock and poultry population in this part of the country, the fertilizer value of manure becomes a big budget items With fertilizer prices on the increase, great savings can be made when this livestock and poultry by-product is properly handled. The average manure from farm animals will contain about five pounds of nitrogen, five pounds of phosphorus, and nine pounds of potash per ton Poultry manure is much high and will average 23-38-32 depending upon the type of droppings and litter content To get the most fertilizer value from manure it should be stored out of the weather, or applied and incorporated into the topsoil Manure that is applied daily during the fall and winter and remains on top of the ground will lose most of its fertilizer value Local farmers are urged to calculate the fertilizer value of the manure when buying other commercial fertilizers.

TO AIM FOR HIGHER YIELDS

Greater output per acre must be the goal in the future. We only have so much land, but most agronomists feel that greater yields are in the future The farmer should know his soils and meet the needs Also, use quality seeds and get the work done on time. Timing is very important on all practices for higher yields Disease and insect control is a "must" for greater yields With the pressure for maximum food and fiber output per acre growing each year, we need top management practices for higher yields and greater profits Be a "Johnny On The Spot" and get the jobs done when and how they should be— that's good farm management

Stone calls for strong reserve, loan rates

WASHINGTON, D.C — The nation's farmers and consumers would benefit from a strong farmer-held reserve and realistic commodity loan program, George W Stone, president of the National Farmers Union, told President Reagan during a White House meeting last Friday

"In order to keep a balanced supply of food, we need realistic loan rates and a strong farmer-held grain reserve. Loan rates set at realistic levels would help prevent the boom and bust cycle in the markets and in the long run would help both farmers and consumers, the president of the Denver-based family farm organization said

Stone told President Reagan that farmers could appreciate the need for a balanced federal budget and the need to reduce inflation. "But we are very concerned about the survival of family farming," Stone added.

Stone noted that Reagan Administration representatives also attending the meeting, stressed the need for cutting the federal budget to bring the budget back into balance

"President Reagan told us that everyone was going to have to share in the budget reductions, that no one would be exempted," Stone added

Turning to the issue of the Soviet grain embargo, Stone said that a continuation of the embargo would have the effect of essentially yielding the Soviet export market to countries like Argentina, which has a feed grain surplus compared with last year.

Special Trade Representative William Brock indicated that the Reagan Administration would seek to open us new trade areas "The export market is a two way street We (the United States), can't put a wall up around ourselves," he said

Stone indicated that the dairy support program will be looked at as an area for budget cutting "It's going to be very tough to keep the dairy program we have now," Stone said.

Twenty farm and commodity organizations were represented at the meeting In addition to Ambassador Brock, Agriculture Secretary John Block and members of the Office of Management and Budget attended the meeting.

Elizabeth Dole and Vice-President George Bush were also in attendance

Lancaster Pomona Grange opposes Thornburgh fuel tax

LANCASTER — The January meeting of Lancaster County Pomona Grange started with a delicious covered dish dinner, after which the regular meeting was held with Master Clifford Holloway, Jr presiding

Two resolutions were presented and passed

Whereas, Governor Thornburgh is asking for a percentage gas tax in place of the present cents per gallon tax And,

Whereas, a percentage tax would increase the amount per gallon tax with every rise in the price of gasoline, thereby placing an unfair tax burden on those who must use gasoline to carry on their daily activities.

Be it resolved, that Lancaster County Pomona Grange 71 goes on record opposing the percentage gas tax

Also approved was a resolution honoring Max Smith

Whereas, Our County Agent Max Smith is retiring this year, after 44 years of continuous service to this community And

Whereas, his leadership has helped Lancaster County maintain its position as one of the top agricultural counties in the U S A And

Whereas his office was open to all, rural or urban, and with untiring devotion tried to answer the problems, large or small, to the best of his ability. And

Whereas, with his retirement, Our Extension Office is losing a true and loyal public servant.

Therefore, be it resolved, that Lancaster County Pomona Grange extend to Max our heartfelt thanks for a job well-done, and our hopes for a long and happy retirement

The committee concerning meeting dates came up with these ideas. that the picnic meeting be changed from the third Saturday of August to the third Saturday of July, but not until 1982; that the October meeting be changed from the third Saturday to the second Saturday, in order to get the resolutions to the State Grange earlier, that the Fifth Degree be conferred at a special meeting so that more time can be given for the business meeting and the regular program

They will again be presented at the April meeting and voted upon Discussion is invited

The resolution committee for the next meeting is J Everett Kreider, Joseph Hess and Laura McSparren. Mr. and Mrs Thomas Galbreath and Mr. and Mrs Richard Maule will visit area Pomonas

A Memorial Service was conducted for Sisters Rebecca Kirk, Edith Lamborn, Adeline Edwards, and Gladys Eby and Brother Lawrence Moore

One of the National Grange programs this year was to pick a citizen of the community who has done much to improve and involve themselves in the community.

Lancaster County Pomona picked for their man John Hoffman of Quarryville He has been active in the Medical Center, the Fair and many other projects.

Hoffman received a plaque signed by the National Master and Lecturer and the Pomona Master and Lecturer

Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman then presented a very interesting slide presentation of their trip to Spain and Portugal

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

If you are going to print the Pennsylvania grain prices at all then they should always be in the same identical location each week That's my opinion

I think page 3 beside the Chicago Grain Future is an excellent location & you usually but not always have it there

Today I couldn't find it anywhere at all

Consistency of location in a financial part of a paper is of the utmost importance.

I hope you do something about it

Tom Flory, Lancaster

Agronomist, brought the participants up-to-date on the new soil test interpretations and the use of sewage sludge as a fertilizer supplement

Willis 'Bill' McClellan, another Penn State Extension Agronomist, spoke to the group about herbicides One word of caution he delivered was certain herbicides can be potential bombs if not handled properly.

"If your spraying with Roundup in a galvanized tank, the chemicals react to produce hydrogen — an explosive. That would be one heck of a thing to be carrying around under your arm So be sure to use a stainless steel or plastic tank if your using this herbicide," he warned.

McClellan also advised the group to maintain soil pH's above 6 0 with proper liming when using triazine herbicides in order to get optimum results. He recommended applying one ton of lime every other year if cultivation methods are no-till or minimum tillage.

Two new herbicides approved for soybeans, McClellan noted, are Blazer, a post-emergent manufactured by Rohm & Haas, and Hoelon, another post-emergent made by BASF

[illegible] he commented these herbicides are "emergency materials" with expensive price tags. It's best to control the weeds before they emerge, he said

McClellan also shared with the group the fact he's seen a lot of winter annual weeds, such as chickweed and pepperweed, in alfalfa stands this year He recommended spraying with one pint per acre of Paraquat before the alfalfa breaks dormancy for control.

Dave Cote, of Chevron Chemical Company, reviewed his firm's experiences with no-till soybean trial plots in Lebanon and Lancaster Counties.

"We no-tilled about 100 acres of double crop soybeans following barley or wheat last summer. Our yields ranged anywhere from 22 to 34 bushels per acre, where conventionally tilled beans were yielding between 5 and 10 bushels per acre due to soil moisture evaporation "

Cote emphasized no-tilling beans saves fuel, soil, and moisture And on wetter fields, he noted, no-tilling beans allows harvesting without rutting the fields

"The organic matter on top of the ground acts like a buoy for harvesting equipment," he said

Whether a farmer tries no-till beans depends primarily on planter availability, Cote explained His company used a Lilliston 710, the only one of its kind in the U S , for last summer's plots. To keep the planting and data consistent, the company hired one person to do all the planting and used the same tractor to pull their planter in every plot

Seeding was done at the rate of 80 pounds per acre, although Cote confessed he would have preferred 100 pounds per acre seeding rate The variety of soybeans was chosen by each producer, he noted.

Cote explained the beans were planted in 7 inch rows — the planter put down 18 at a time This narrow plant row spacing gives maximum weed control with the maximum number of plants for maximum yield, he said

No-till corn planters can be used instead of a no-till soybean planter, Cote said

"Because these planters are set for 30 inch rows, farmers are planting one sweep and then doubling back to plant between the rows. But, the 15 inch rows seem to be too wide for shading and good weed control."

In their trials, Cote said they used two soil tests to be sure the soil pH was high enough. They sprayed the small grain fields with Paraquat "in place of plowing", he noted, and went with the higher recommended rate of residual herbicides for best weed control

For area farmers interested in trying some no-till soybeans, Cote announced two planters are available in the area

"A Moore Drill is available for rent from Heisey Equipment and Evergreen Tractor Company has a Tye Drill for sale. Both these firms are in Lebanon County. The Tye distributer in the area is Hamilton equipment in Ephrata," Cote concluded

Roland Freund, Farm Management Specialist from Penn State, reviewed methods of budgeting and keeping track of expenses He emphasized the importance of knowing what fertilizer is still out in the fields from last year.

"The $3 spent on a soil test kit can be made up in savings on one acre of corn," he said "And you can save some bucks on herbicides by putting a few more dollars in lime "

John Weidman of Pioneer Seed Company cautioned the group on overplanting in relation to fertility, soil fertility imbalances, problems with late plantings, and difficulties arising from planting either too deep or too shallow.

"In the future, we'll be seeing taller corn with more upright leaves in the area which will be planted thicker," he concluded. " But we won't be seeing varieties in our area, necessarily, with more than one ear "—SM

Dauphin farmland map now available

HARRISBURG — "The Dauphin County Important Farmlands Map is now available for public distribution," announced Joel Myers, District Conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service in Dauphin County

Important Farmlands Maps identify prime lands as well as other important farmlands within a county.

Myers explained the maps are produced by SCS to provide landowners and local units of governments with information for making land use decisions.

The map has farmlands divided into three categories, prime farmlands, which include 118,740 acres or 36 percent of the total land area of Dauphin County; lands of statwide importance, productive soils with some limitations covering 58,870 acres or 18 percent and lands of local importance which include 16,920 acres or 3 percent of the county

require accreditation of grower groups and would set up procedures for mediation by the State Agriculture Department in case of disputes

The bill's prime sponsor is Ted Stuban, Berwick He has strong PFA support.

HB 105, a sunset bill for state agencies, passed the House overwhelmingly. Prime sponsor is James J. Gallen, Shillington

HB 105 would establish a legislative auditor to review over 75 state agencies and make recommendations to the state on whether their existence should be renewed.

In reviewing the proposed state budget, PFA said it figures the Ag Department will suffer a three percent funding cutback PFA said it fears a cutback in ag research, cutbacks in promotion of state-grown farm goods, and furloughs of 50 Department employees

The Dog Law Enforcement Bureau may bear the brunt of manpower reductions Dog law officers supervise payment of indemnities to owners of livestock and poultry destroyed by dogs as well as enforce dog licensing laws.

The Department's complement of 637 employees already is 36 short of full manpower

The State Grange, reviewing HB 143, the ag areas bill, said it sees several areas where the measure could be improved.

Grangers say they would like a seven-year review period to make HB 143 uniform with Clean and Green. They fear the measure makes it easy to get into a district but difficult to get out

"We support the general concept of HB 143 but think it could be improved," State Master Charles Wismer said.

Grangers say there is no provision for penalties should someone opt out of the district before the review period is up, nor are there real incentives to get into a district in the first place.

"If the legislature can't come up with benefits, and that implies spending some money, then how will local townships or counties do anything?" Wismer asked.

Supporters of the measure say it is intended only as a vehicle to allow establishment of ag districts Particulars can be worked out on a local basis

Wismer indicated the Grange will not oppose the bill. "Let it pass and those who want it can use it," he said, adding that it probably will not effect 50 percent of the state's farmers

The Grange also voiced opposition to Land Grant college status for Lincoln University

That group said it sees establishing a second land grant school in Pennsylavnia as an effort to "rob Peter to pay Paul "

A measure to make Lincoln University an 1890 Land Grant school (as compared to Penn State, an 1862 Land Grant school) is likely to be introduced this session.

Md. to open first hay auction

BUCKEYSTOWN, Md — Maryland's first public hay auction market is scheduled to open on February 19 in Frederick county. If successful, it will continue every Thursday, rain or shine, beginning at 1 p.m.

Sale site is the Mullinix Grain and Fertilizer Company at 3810 Ballenger Creek Pike, about one-fourth of a mile west of the Eastalco Aluminum Company plant west of Buckeystown

Potential buyers and sellers should begin registering at 11 a.m on sale day All buying must be done by numbers

The auction was established as a public service jointly by the Extension Service and the Frederick county Farm Bureau It will be operated by the Willowdale Auction Company of Jefferson Besides hay, the market will handle straw, ear corn and firewood.

Firewood will be sold by the cord, while other commodities will be sold by the ton Weights will be determined prior to the auction on a state-certified scale

All sales will be in truckload lots The definition includes farm trucks, pickups and trailers

Sellers will be charged a registration fee of $3 per truckload, and there will be a three percent commission charge on gross sales for all commodities The selling price will include free delivery to buyers within a 10-mile radius Longer hauls can be negotiated between buyers and sellers

Sale statistics will be published during the week following each sale in Lancaster Farming and in the Maryland Feed and Grain Report, a weekly newsletter of the state Department of Agriculture in Annapolis.

The proposed Maryland hay auction has been patterned after similar auction sales which have existed for many years in neighboring Pennsylvania. It was created especially to fill the needs of small and part-time farmers, reports Terry E. Poole, Extension agricultural agent in Frederick county

People noted that in the past Frederick county hay was often shipped to nearby Pennsylvnaia auction markets and trucked home again by Frederick county buyers

"Having our own local market should eliminate this unnecessary expense," he remarked

Rule cards and other sale information will be available in printed form this week from the Frederick county office of the Extension Service or from the Mullinix Grain and Fertilizer Company

Perdue charged with anti-competitive acts

SALISBURY, Md — Franklin P Perdue and Perdue Farms, Inc , Salisbury, Md , were charged Wednesday with cutting off supplies of poultry and poultry products to distributors who continue to sell a competitive brand, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture official.

"Perdue was charged by the U S Department of Justice, at USDA's request, with violating the Packers and Stockyards Act by directly and indirectly threatening customers who refuse to stop buying poultry from a Perdue competitor," said James L. Smith, a packers and stockyards official of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Perdue is one of the largest poultry suppliers on the east coast.

Smith said the complaint, filed in the U.S District Court for the Eastern District of New York, asked the court to order Perdue Farms to offer its brand of poultry to former customers who had been cut off for handling a competitive brand.

The order sought would also prohibit Perdue from engaging in such practices in the future

"The complaint describes Perdue Farms as the dominant seller of premium-priced, advertised, branded poultry and poultry products in the greater New York City area," Smith said.

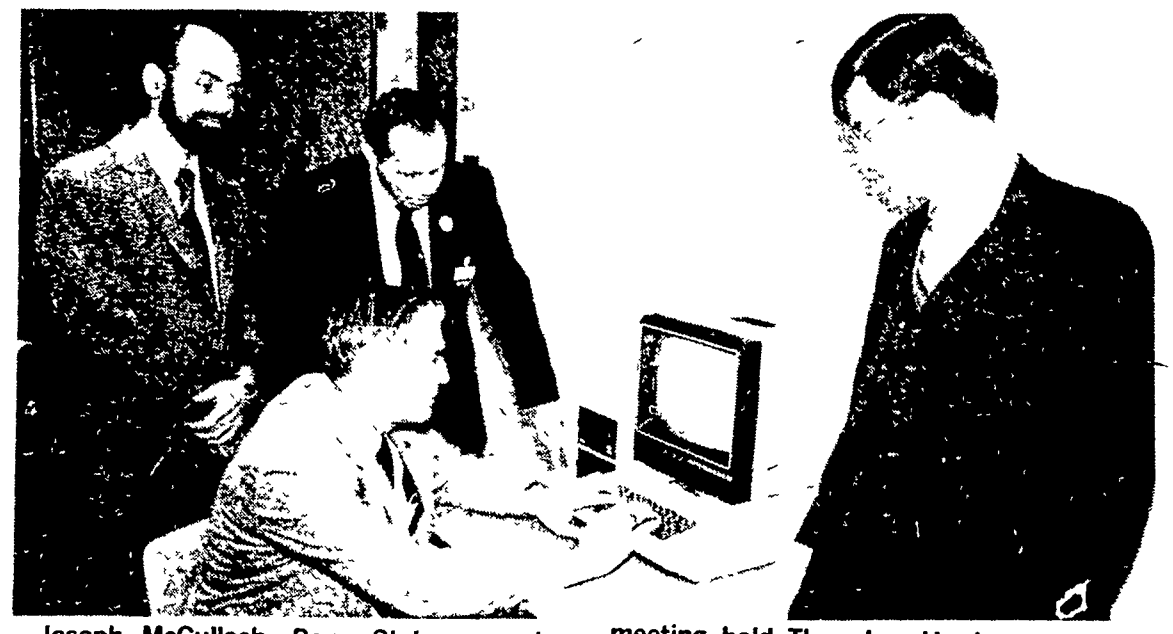
Poultrymen take look at the future

Prices for a computer like this one dropped from over $1 million in 1955 to $10,000 in 1975 Poultrymen at Thursday's poultry industry computer workshop learned a system like this Radio Shack TRS-80 Model II can be purchased today for about $5000. It has a greater capacity than the old million dollar models The machine was computing a poultry ration



Joseph McCulloch, Penn State computer specialist, gave about 50 Lancaster poultrymen an overview of small computer applications for their operations at a special meeting held Thursday. Hardware and software are available to do everything from keeping flock records to printing weekly paychecks.

Dealers hold meeting

LANCASTER — Show-Ease Stall Co , 573 Willow Rd., Lancaster, held a dealers meeting last Friday

There were 22 dealers and their wives from Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York and Ohio present.

They toured the shop facilities and went over new items including new style free hanging free stall, lever rows with self locking and self locking manuel, gates and panneling and hinges available

A short fellowship followed with dinner at the Historic Strasburg where they were entertained by Real Happiness from Ronks

Three top dealers were awarded gifts and all the ladies received a hand quilted pillow made by Mrs John Moore All dealers received a gift.

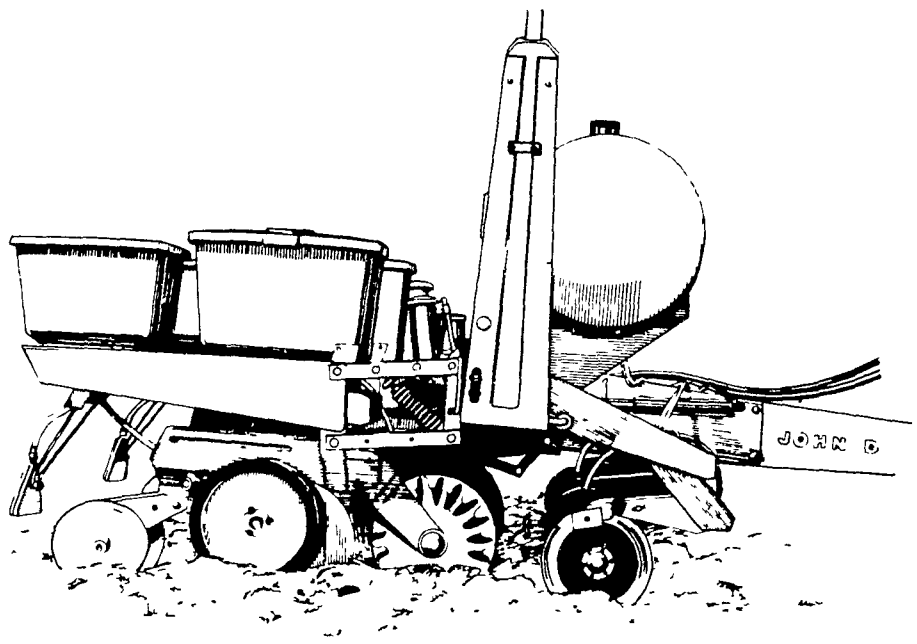
Save fuel, time, moisture and soil with John Deere's Max-Emerge™ Conservation Planter



John Deere's Max-Emerge Conservation Planters, available in 4-row adjustable (30- to 40-inch rows), 6-row narrow or wide, and 8-row narrow models, give you a rugged planter you can rely on in conditions like sod or stubble

Heavy-duty springs help transfer weight from the 7x7-inch frame to each planting unit to keep coulters in the ground The coulter, fluted or ripple, cuts in a path ahead of the Tru-Vee™ opener with the cutting depth of both controlled by the depth-gauging wheels Optional cast-iron firming wheels firm soil around seed in extra-tough conditions

Whether you would like to try minimum- or no tillage planting, stop in for more information on the Conservation Planters from John Deere

A beefy response to your long-term needs

The 4440 is indeed a powerful performer But just as important, it has the strength to back up that power in the field From stem to stern, it's beefier than its predecessor There's a bigger-displacement engine, new engine cooling system, bigger transmission/hydraulic oil cooling system, multi-pinion differential, wider final drives, and bigger drive axles These are just a few of the points we'd like to cover when you stop by the store and ask for more information on the 4440

PFA Region 6 holds annual membership day

BY JANE BRESEE
Staff Correspondent

- WILKES BARRE — The Membership Rally Day for Region 6, comprised of 12 northeast counties, of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, was held February 4 at the Sheraton Crossgates in Wilkes Barre

According to Jeff Patton, regional organization director, the region achieved a gain of 170 members, the largest numberical gain in the state Total farm family membership for the region is 3749

Patton, acting as moderator, set a happy mood for the entire meeting by congratulating the membership chairmen from each of the eight organizations present. Ted Hack of Columbia County was awarded the coveted King Pin for signing up 10 new members.

Milford Kinsman and Perl Shores, co-chairmen of the Bradford-Sullivan county group, reported 101 new members had been added making a total of 930

Columbia County boasted a gain of nine percent, bringing their total membership from a goal of 358 to 420

Other membership chairmen present were "Boots" Chapin of Luzerne County; Archie Fennell of Northampton-Monroe; Warren Snyder of Schuylkill-Carbon, Jim Barber of Susquehanna County, and Bob Bailey of Wayne County

Richard Denison, Manager of the Farm Business Analysis Service of the PFA, announced a new trust service from the FMBA Service which will enable a member to name PFA as trustee or executor in his will.

It can help reduce estate taxes so heirs receive maximum benefits of the estate, and can serve as another tool to help preserve the family farm, he said.

Denison, the featured morning speaker, also stated he felt PFA had matured greatly since its inception in 1950 because of its great accomplishments in legislation, information, and services to its members

Following the luncheon, the featured speaker, Gray Boam, manager of Synfuel Enery Corporation, told how his company is planning to operate the nations largest ethanol production plant to be built at Nanticoke within the next two years

According to Boam, the production of ethanol will be highly profitable in this area because the plant will have cheap fuel immediately available A 50 year supply of a residue left from mining anthracite coal sells for $1 to $2 a ton.

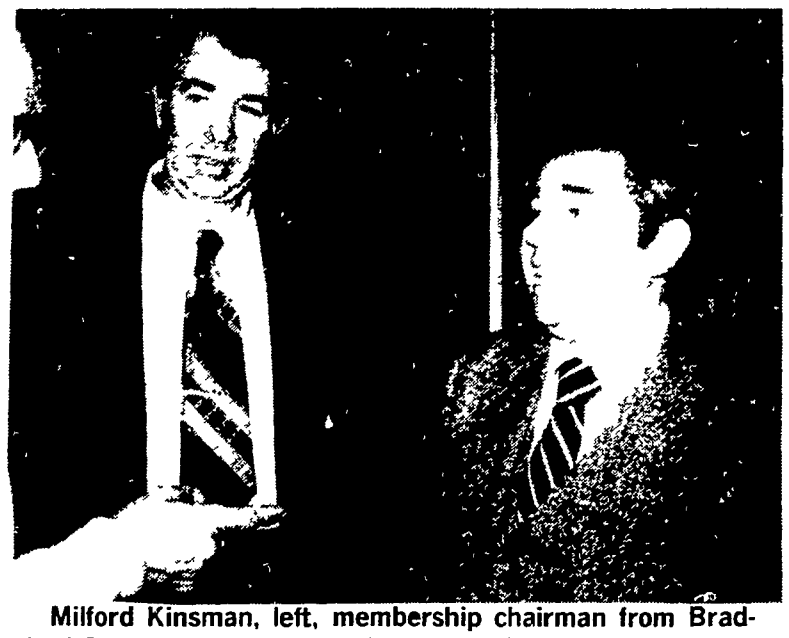
The only drawback might be that not enough corn would be available in Pennsylvania and it would have to be shipped in from the west at great expense Boam stated that there were 425,000 acres of land unused in Pennsylvania which if cultivated could help supply the plant with the needed 1400 ton per day.

Boam also expressed optimism that the by-product of the process, brewers grain, could be sold or swapped for corn at a great advantage to the Pennsylvania farming industry

Keith Eckel, and Chris Wolff, both directors of the PFA briefly congratulated the 75 membership workers present.

Also attending were Russell Gunton, and Robert Holmes of the Rural Affairs Department of the Department of Agriculture with offices in Tunkhannock.

Chris Wolff, PFA state director from Columbia County, and a Democrat, takes a ribbing from Republican Keith Eckel, state director from Lackawanna County.



Milford Kinsman, left, membership chairman from Bradford County, listens to questions asked Gary Boam, manager of Synfuel Corporation, who was the featured speaker at the Membership Rally held recently at the Sheraton Crossgates in Wilkes-Bare.

Recent rains help, won't cure drought

LANDISVILLE — Rain this week was a blessed relief from literally months of dry conditions.

The National Weather Service in Harrisburg reported as much as 3.5 inches of precipitation fell in the Susquehanna Valley between Williamsport and the Maryland line

In the Southern areas, less rain seemed to fall than in the Upper Susquehanna. Just under one inch was reported at the Landisville Research Station.

John Yocum reported 0.76 inches of rain Tuesday evening and Wednesday until 4 p.m. From Wednesday afternoon through Thursday morning an additional 0.19 inches of rain and sleet came down.

Because most soils in the area were frozen, the water is not going to soak too deep into the ground.

Yocum said the recent moisture will help small grains since the surface inches of most soil profiles were pretty dry until this week.

But, he added, it probably did little to help subsoil and groundwater levels The water simply could not penetrate the frozen ground.

Yocum reports the Lancaster County area is quite deficit in moisture, as is the rest of Southeastern Pennsylvania.

Once the soil thaws we will need frequent rain, Yocum said.

He explained that heavier soils will move water toward the surface — if the water ever gets into the subsoil

He said this spring's field crops may not be in as much danger from drought stress as it first would appear.

If we get regular rainfall throughout the growing season, crops like corn, small grains and potatoes will have enough moisture to produce good yields.

On the other hand, deep-rooted crops may be in trouble. These would include fruit trees and alfalfa plantings.

Those crops will need deeper recharging of the soil water content.

Yocum said he doubts whether the recent storms did much, if anything, to recharge wells used both for homes and livestock.

"Their need is critical," he said.

The National Weather Service's long-term forecast Friday morning called for a chance of precipitation over the weekend with clearing later in the weekend and early next week.

Unless we have several more downpours in late February and early March like the one we had this week, farmers this spring may find themselves torn between praying for rain for the soil and hoping for clear weather to do fieldwork.—CH

HARVESTORE® SYSTEMS REPRESENT..."THE PERFECT CIRCLE"

HARVESTORE Systems total automation capabilities provide a system for today's modern farming operation with provision for the computerized world of tomorrow

Thousands of progressive farmers have installed HARVESTORE feeding systems, HARVESTORE automation and SLURRYSTORE liquid manure handling systems

HARVESTORE Systems represent the "Perfect Circle " The circle starts with natural, home-grown feeds processed through oxygen-limiting, flow-through structures fed to top-quality animals Then livestock manure, rich in natural, organic fertilizers is stored and processed in a SLURRYSTORE At the right time, slurry manure is applied to the fields producing abundant, rich forage and grain to start the circle all over

High-priced, scarce energy sources are driving the cost of animal feeds and fertilizers through the roof Let us show you how HARVESTORE Systems are supplying thousands of good farmers with cost and labor reductions which, when combined with tax savings benefits, mean a reasonably quick return of total investment

Ephrata Area Young Farmers hold banquet

BY CURT HARLER

MT. AIRY — The Ephrata Area Young Farmers Association honored several members at its annual meeting held Saturday night.

Appreciation awards were presented to two local men, and several short talks were given.

Representative Noah Wenger, from the 99th legislative district, was presented one of the appreciation awards.

He was cited for his help to agriculture in the state House of Representatives. A Denver farmer, Wenger is in his third term as representative and serves as vice chairman of the house ag committee.

Also honored was DHIA supervisor Moses Martin, Ephrata.

Martin has served the Ephrata area as a DHIA tester for 24 years He also compiles the records for the EAYFA annual dairy awards program.

This year, Russell L. Kline received the award for dairy herd improvement and top herd average in both milk and butterfat.

His string shows a herd average of 19,527 pounds milk and 717 pounds fat. That represents an increase of 2050 pounds milk and 59 fat over last year.

Kline's top management green grass and elbow grease were cited as reasons for success.

Second high top herd average went to Gerald Martin. His cows produced 17,586 pounds milk, 643 fat.

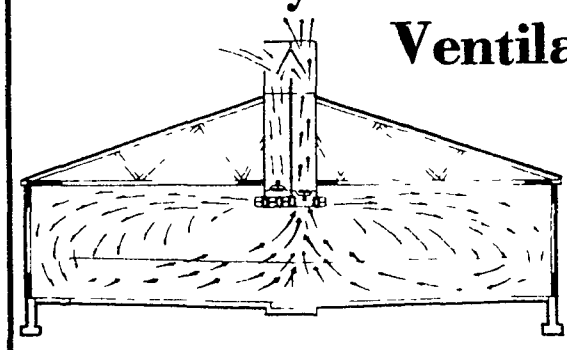
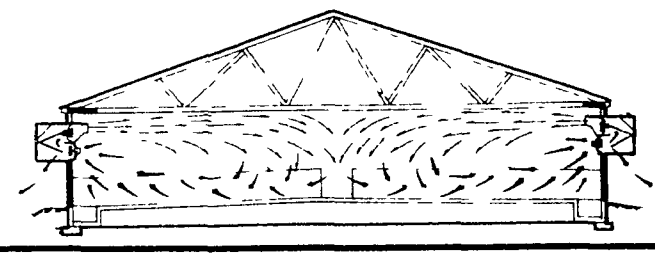
'MARTIN-AIR' PATENT PENDING

Fully Automatic Total Confinement Ventilation Systems





A unique air blending process provides even temperatures and controlled, draft-free air flow

- Reduce animal stress
- End temperature fluctuations
- Reduce drug costs
- Reduce incidence of pneumonia and disease
- Reduce labor
- Lower condensation
- Confine manuring

Why The 'Martin-air' System is best for you

The success of Martin-air systems rests on a different concept than that used by most ventilation designs Others work by exhausting air completely then drawing cold air from outside—usually at the other end of the barn Martin-air units use an exclusive damper system which mixes fresh air and exhaust air so the output of the unit is never more than 4°F different from the room temperature. And, at any given spot in a properly designed barn, the temperature should seldom vary more than 1°.

The Martin-air principle is simple and effective. Thermostats control fan speed and a dampered mixing chamber to blend fresh air with warm air. Constant circulation throughout the building maintains uniform temperature, eliminates drafts and reduces condensation to provide a dry environment.

'Martin-air' can fill your specific needs

No matter what your livestock confinement requirements, a Martin-air System can be designed and installed to fulfill your needs. Systems are designed to create a stable, draft-free environment based on building architecture, insulation, number of animals, and all heat sources Successful installations are operating in many calf barns, dairy houses, hog, poultry and rabbit operations and even horse barns.

Martin-air units are available in a wide range of ceiling or wall-mount models and each installation is carefully designed by ventilation specialists.

Martin-air ventilation can be installed in any existing building you may be using for livestock confinement, even old bank barns.

pounds milk represents an increase of 1421 pounds over the previous year.

Second high herd improvement in butterfat was earned by R W and R.K. Burkholder. Their DHIA report shows production of 562 pounds fat, an increase of 46 pounds over the previous year.

James Hess was honored as the group's outstanding poultryman.

He recently expanded his flock from 12,000 to 36,000 hens. Eggs are shipped to R.W. Sauder, Lititz.

In addition to the birds, Hess also has steers and hogs on his 120 acre operation.

Top beef producer for the year was Melvin Nolt.

Outstanding swine producer award went to Terry Scheetz.

He produces 900 market hogs on his 400 acre farming operation Sheetz has been evaluating the results from a less typical livestock enterprise: he raises 110 rabbit does, too

In addition to being named Vice President, Clark Stauffer, Rl Ephrata, gathered several honors

Stauffer was named EAYFA's Outstanding Young Farmer under 30.

He also took first place in the grain corn production class He made 152 bushels of Pioneer 3184 per acre. He planted 38-inch rows at 21,900 plants per acre

Clark Stauffer, right, was honored as the Ephrata Area's Outstanding Young Farmer Under 30 and also took the top corn grain producer honors. Other award winners included, from right, Mahlon Eberly, active member award; Warren Bollinger, Outstanding Young Farmer over 30; Earl G Martin, second place corn grain winner; and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Graybill, outstanding community service award.

Hog manure from his 110 sow farrow-to-finish operation helped the grain grow In addition, Stauffer keeps steers and broilers on his 80 acre farm

Finishing as second high corn grain producer to Stauffer was Earl G Martin

Martin also used Pioneer 3186, but he planted in 30-inch rows and had a population of 19,600 plants per acre to make his 145 bushel yield

Outstanding Young Farmer over 30 was presented to Warren Bollinger

Potter Holstein Club elects directors

ULYSSES — Kevin Risser, Genesee, and Jack Thomas, Ulysses, were elected directors at the annual dinner meeting of the Potter County Holstein Club, held Monday, at the Penn York Camp, Ulysses. Fifty-nine persons attended.

Risser and Thomas were chosen to replace Robert Greene, Roulette, and Titus Risser, Genesee, whose terms expired.

Jay Gooch, Coudersport RD, state director, gave a report that the State Championship Show will be held at Bloomsburg, September 2 and reminded members that there were changes in the base dates for showing.

Doug Hershey, membership coordinator of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, spoke and showed slides on how to promote and sell registered Holsteins.

The following door prizes were awarded· jumper cables from Ulysses Agway to Jack Knowlton; vice grips from Genesee Hardware to Kris Smoker; milk replacer from Coudersport Agway to Gay Hamilton; milk replacer from Vigortone by George and Bonnie Barker to Shirley Tice, and a fire extinguisher from Coudersport Agway to David Smoker.

Tom Gooch, Keystone Harvestore salesman, awarded Harvestore hats to Dan Tice and George Barker, a salt and pepper set to Bonnie Barker and a thermos to Wayne Torrey Semen from United Semen Exchange representative, Jay Gooch, was awarded to David Angood and Leon Tice; Youngs' Treat and Grow calf medicine from Gordon Prior to Jon Vincent and a box of felt tip pens from the Cooperative Extension Service to Dennis Watson.

Following the dinner meeting a board of directors' meeting was held to reorganize for the year.

Officers elected were Kevin Risser, chairman; Ivan Kibbe Jr., Harrison Valley; vice chairman; Alvin Miller, Ulysses, secretary-treasurer; Jay Gooch, Coudersport RD, state director and sales chairman; Dennis Smoker, Genesee, show chairman; Jack Thomas, Ulysses, youth chairman; Sam Crossley, news reporter; George Barker, Ulysses, breed improvement chairman; Tom Kibbe, Harrison Valley, special activities chairman and Jay Gooch, membership chairman. Selected for the show committee were Dennis Smoker, Jay Gooch and Kevin Risser. .

The next meeting of the Potter County Holstein board of directors will be March 23, at 8 p.m. at the Ulysses Bank. Plans will be made for summer activities and judges will be selected for the dairy shows.

Fruit, vegetable growers to organize summer market

PHILADELPHIA — The farmers in the Philadelphia Tailgate Market Coalition have extended an invitation to any interested vegetable or fruit growers to attend the spring organizational meeting.

This meeting will take place in Philadelphia at the Archdioces Building, located at 222 N. 17th Street on Friday, February 20, 1981.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. We need a few more vegetable growers this year since two new market locations will be opened

The people in the city have been eager and grateful for the fresh, higher quality prodcue brought in by the farmers.

Any farmer who would be interested in this marketing program and attending this meeting should contact either Frank Stiles, chairperson, of Monroeville, N J. at 609/881-3395, or John Shenk, secretary-treasurer of Lititz, at 717/626-6194

A dairyman, Bollinger has a milking herd of 50 cows on his 100 acre farm. But he is successfully raising more than corn and milk.

Bollinger has two sons and one daughter who all earned the Keystone Farmer Degree.

Outstanding Community Service Award was presented to Mr and Mrs. Donald Graybill, operators of Triple G market.

They were cited for their support of a number of community projects, especially their work with FFA and 4-H.

Active member award went to Mahlon Eberly, a past vice president and president of EAYFA Eberly also has served as PR director, delegate to the state convention, and chairman of the group's refreshment stand fund-raising project.

Curtis Martin, who farms about 65 acres, was honored as the American Farmer Degree award winner. The award was presented to his father.

A gift certificate was presented to Young Farmer Advisor Charles Ackley and his wife Joy in appreciation for work done and support given in the previous year

Retiring President Rick Pfautz was honored by the group for the work he did.

Pfautz passed the gavel to new President Gerald R. Martin, R1 Ephrata. Other officers include Clark Stauffer, vice president; Philip Leininger, R2 Denver, Secreatry; Ray Beyer, R4 Lititz, treasurer, and Gary Eberly, R1 Stevens, public relations director.

Brief talks were given by State FFA Secretary Judy Zimmerman and Cloister FFA Chapter President Tim High.

But the Cloister FFA may have bitten off a bit more than they can chew when they challenged the championship EAYFA volleyball team to a match at some future date.

Earl Stauffer, who Tuesday took over as President of the Pennsylvania Young Farmers, told the group they can expect a color magazine, "Pennsylvania Young Farmer" twice a year, once in the winter and once after the summer meeting

He also invited all members to the National Young Farmer Institute being held this year in Hershey.

Dates for the National Meeting are December 5 to 9.

Outgoing Region II Vice President Tom Zartman, freshly returned from the California Young Farmer Convention, said fund-raising activities for the National Institute are underway

Local ag businessmen will be contacted to raise the estimated $226,000 needed to allow Pennsylvania to host a successful Institute, he said

WIC BEDDING CHOPPER

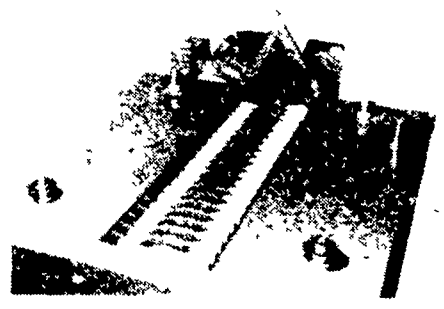
No Competitor Can Beat The WIC CHOPPER For Performance And Cost

The Wic bedding chopper chops straw, hay or corn fodder and spreads it uniformly under your cows, all in a single operation. When you use chopped bedding, you save on straw and your cows stay much cleaner. On top of that, cleaning up is a breeze...

All models of Wic's bedding chopper have four rows of knives insuring a better spreading action

Wic has also forseen an adjustable grill in 5 positions to avoid overloading the motor while using different bedding such as damp straw old hay etc

With a simple adjustment that either speeds up or reduces the rotation of the tub you can cut the bedding to the desired length Wic the futuristic chopper now!



FRAME steel monocoque paint
BARREL plastic 3/16" thick
WHEELS 2 pneumatic of 16"
WHEELS 1 swiveling
BRAKE on wheel swiveling
CAPACITY 1 bale/50 seconds approx
DIMENSIONS width 31" (80 cm) (without handle) length 45" (115 cm)
DIMENSIONS height 55" (140 cm)
WEIGHT 440 lb (200 kg)

WIC MOTORIZED SILAGE WAGON WITH HYDROSTATIC SPEED CONTROL

★ Regular Feed Discharge or 40" High Feed Discharge ★ Electric or Gas Operated

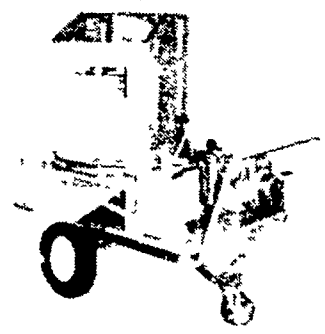
ELECTRIC BEDDING CHOPPER

Wic also makes an electric 200 volt a c chopper or a 24 volt d c battery operated chopper including an automatic charger These two models are equipped in the factory with a manual starter panel and are protected by fuses to diminish risk of accidents

Very quiet these bedding choppers are mostly used on small or medium sized farm As well as being mobile the 220 volt a c model can be installed stationary Motor 220 volt a c 3 h p 24 volt d c 21/2 h p



GAS BEDDING CHOPPER

The gas powered bedding chopper is the most popular on the market It s operation is simple and it handles easily Equipped with a Honda 4 stroke gas engine the Wic bedding chopper insures maximum out put while in use

Motor 5 7 or 10 h p 4 stroke Honda

POWER TAKE OFF BEDDING CHOPPER

Wic has perfected a three point hitch PTO chopper activated by the power of your tractor Easy to install it is ideal for free stalls or in strawberry fields for mulching purposes

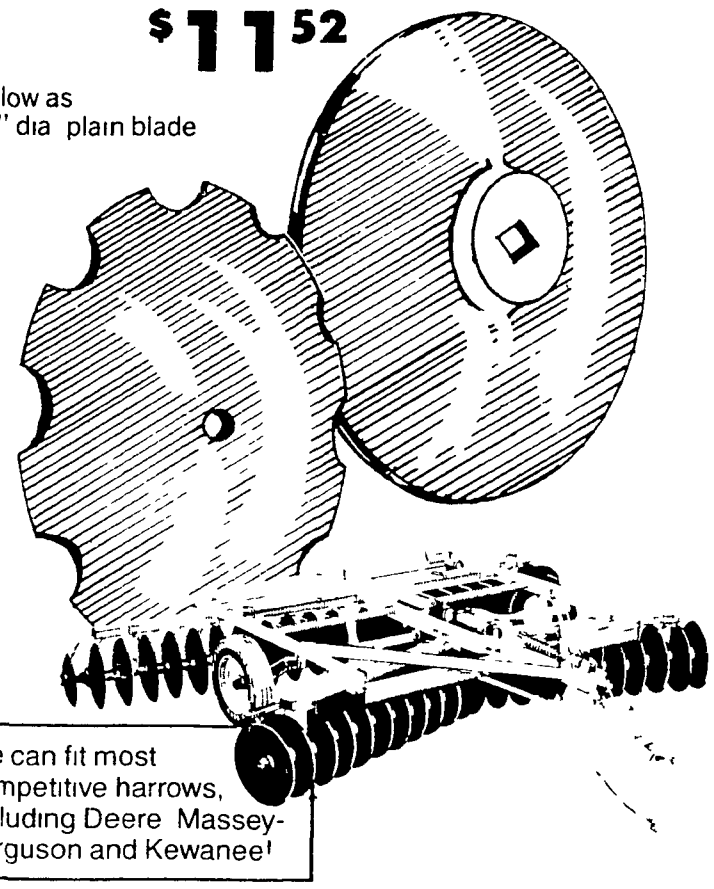
Get quality IH blades for your disk harrow at value prices.

Give your harrow a cutting edge for profit.

Full concavity blades,
plain and notched

$11.52

As low as
18" dia plain blade



We can fit most competitive harrows, including Deere Massey-Ferguson and Kewanee!

There's a difference in disk blades. USDA Tillage Lab tests showed that IH crimped center blades not only are tough and long lasting, but also require less drawbar pull than many others. That means savings in time and fuel, too. Come see. We have a full stock and can fit all IH disk harrows as well as most other makes. Get IH quality and save!

GUNITE Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite Below are some of the properties of Gunite
1 Excellent bonding
2 High Density
3 Extreme strength and hardness
4 High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration
Reseal and re strengthen your silo wi h Gunite

VR's Baron Leaves Williams In The Dust.

VR's Baron consistently out-performs Williams And it does it on all soil types under most conditions VR's Baron is a high-yielding blend with good emergence and excellent standability Plus it won't shatter and it resists phytophthora

When you buy VR's Baron, you're getting seed quality in the bag We won't ship it unless we're sure of at least 90% germination How well VR's Baron works for you depends on the weather, which you can't control and your own management practices which you can We recommend 125 000 seeds per acre and 7 to 36 inch rows VR's Baron adapts well to solid seeding and is very good for double cropping You'll get high pods and well-filled rows

Remember VR Seeds set the standard for the soybean seed industry ten years ago when it introduced Vigor Rated Seeds" That's why we sell VR seeds instead of some lesser brand Contact your Stanford Seed dealer and find out what you can expect from VR's Baron soybean seeds

GOOD NEWS

Chrysler's "Interest Equalization" Program Has Been Extended!!

TO INCLUDE ALL 1981 CARS, TRUCKS, AND IMPORTS!!

This is a Special Limited Offer, to help you beat high interest rates, and could end at any time ... so buy now while you can still save 7% off the sticker price of a new Dodge, in addition to Jack's Special Low Price.

PICK YOUR OWN PAYMENT

You are the only one who knows how much you can afford to pay per month ... so decide how much cash you want to put down, or estimate the value of your trade-in, and deduct it from the sale price. Then add 6% state sales tax to get your balance to be financed. See the chart below and pick your payment. You can raise it or lower it by adjusting your down payment. Put more down, pay less per month.

Time to get those seeds ordered

P.L. Rohrer's new store at Smoketown will offer the convenience of self-service for this year's customers.

Homestead Notes

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

Now is the time when serious gardeners are busy studying their seed catalogues selecting which delicious vegetables will grace tables next summer. It is also the time for writing our orders and sending them to their favorite distributors.

In Lancaster County, P L Rohrer & Bro , Inc. has long been symbolic of the very finest in seeds, and at this time of the year, their garden seed operation is in full swing.

Seven people are now employed in the garden department, weighing, packaging and displaying the seeds on the shelves in the store. An innovation this year will be self-service in an extensively re-designed retail store. Garden seed Manager Clarence Rohrer says he hopes the new concept will meet with customer approval.

In 1980 Rohrer sold over 80,000 pounds of garden seeds, and Rohrer says, "We are the biggest seed house locally. No one else buys the volume of seed from the suppliers that we do."

Garden seed sales have increased dramatically in the last few years,, after having dropped "way back," according to Rohrer. He says, "It's an economy thing Last year they referred to them as 'survival gardens.' " He said the only year that surpassed last year in volume was during World War II when victory gardens were popular.

Mail orders, which account for 20 percent of the total volume of business, are just beginning to come in. When 200 are accumulated they will begin mailing the seeds as far away as the Midwest, Idaho and California. Most of the mail orders are repeat customers. Rohrer says, "When I go over the orders the names are so familiar." He added that mail orders increased for the first time last year after "hanging dropping" previously

Direct sales to about 125 dealers account for an additional 45 percent of Rohrer's seed business and the remainder of the seeds are sold from the familiar Smoketown store

The largest volume of business in the seed department comes in March Rohrer says, "We give advice all day long. We have capable clerks who can answer all the questions " After the rush, the department will go back to having just two fulltime employees.

A large part of their wholsale seeds come from Ferry Morse in California which supplies the "fine" seeds, and from Roger Brothers in Idaho, which supplies peas, beans and corn. A salesman from Ferry Morse recently told Rohrer that P.L. Rohrer has been buying from them for over 50 years.

As the man in charge of ordering seeds to sell, Rohrer must be something of a clairvoyant to determine just which kind and how many seeds he will need. Contract orders for 1982 seeds will be signed by the end of April. Rohrer makes light of any special predicting ability on his part saying, "I just check my records and my inventory lists to determine what I need. It's really a guessing game for the growers who must translate orders into the number of acres they need to plant."

There are many favorites which are big sellers year after year. The biggest seller in the business is sweet corn, and Silver Queen is the undisputed leader in sweet corn. White corn has always been popular in this county, and Rohrer recalls when farmers were accused of selling early field corn if they tried to sell yellow corn at market. He even recalls signs prohibiting the sale of yellow corn.

Hybrids changed that attitude to the extent that Rohrer says, "We sold mostly yellow corn for years " Now he declares that Silver Queen is the unchallenged leader, adding, "I hardly sell any Evergreen anymore "

In green beans the leader is Tendergreen, with other stringless types selling well.

Another leading seller for Rohrer is sugar peas. Rohrer said, "For years sugar peas were a local thing. They could be found only in Lancaster and Berks County. Now you can go into the finest restaurant anywhere and eat them but you don't ask for sugar peas, you ask for snow peas. I presume the Pennsylvania Dutch Reformed brought the seed with them from the old country " Rohrer's now sell about 4,000 pounds of sugar peas.

A newcomer in the field is the sugar snap pea, available only for the past two years. It has quickly become a favorite because of its versatility. "People like it because they can eat it mature or immature. There are so many recipes for sugar snap peas," Rohrer says.

Will they overtake the market for sugar peas? "Not as long as they grow six to eight feet tall," Rohrer replies. "If growers can get them to 30 inches then it may change."

Rohrer compares the sugar snap pea to a hull pea, although growers like to call them a totally new vegetable, Rohrer says they are like the "sickle pea" he remembers from his youth.

For sugar snap pea fans, however, this year will be a slim one. Rohrer states, "There was almost a total crop failure. They were ready to harvest them in Idaho and they had two weeks of rain followed by sleet and up to six inches of snow."

Other tastes of his customers have changed through the years. Rohrer notes that more greens are being sold now, and items like mustard greens, collards and okra have been added in just the last few years.

Herbs are also getting to be popular time in his business. "Last year was the first year I carried herbs," Rohrer says.

Of course, there are always new products to be selected, Ronrer said he relies upon his seed suppliers, periodicals and the All-American Selection Committee for recommendations about new items. Usually he limits new seeds to no more than two or three per year.

Rohrer has seen many changes since he began with the business at age 19 in 1935. "Hybrids came out for vegetables of all kinds. This made the biggest difference. It offers better yield, better quality and more disease resistance." Some vegetables like peas and beans cannot be hybridized. Hybrids also cost more.

Customers come largely from rural and suburban areas, and Rohrer says with a smile that he is now serving people whose fathers he sold seeds to many years ago

P.L Rohrer, Clarence's father, started the seed business in 1914, after purchasing it from Glick's nursery where he had worked for several years Two years later his brother J L joined him, forming the partnership P L. Rohrer and Brother The operation was run strictly as a seed house for years and years, according to Rohrer

It is presently owned by a corporation composed of descendants of P L Rohrer. Clarence is secretary of the corporation. From the seed business it has expanded to bulk spreading, seed cleaning, and the retail store has now expanded from seeds and chemicals to a fairly complete line of garden supplies

Rohrer says, It's a one stop thing They can get all the items they need at one time " The expanded line includes such things as flower pots and tree wraps.

Rohrer recalls when it was convenient for farmers to come for their farm seeds and bring their wife's garden seed order along

Another change over the years is that almost all of Rohrer's needs are trucked to their Smoketown location Rohrer remembers when he and his brothers would go to Bird-in-Hand and open up freight cars 'We used to unload four or five trainloads a week." he states There were also occasional trips to the Philadelphia docks to unload rye grass seed. But trains went out, he said, when trucking

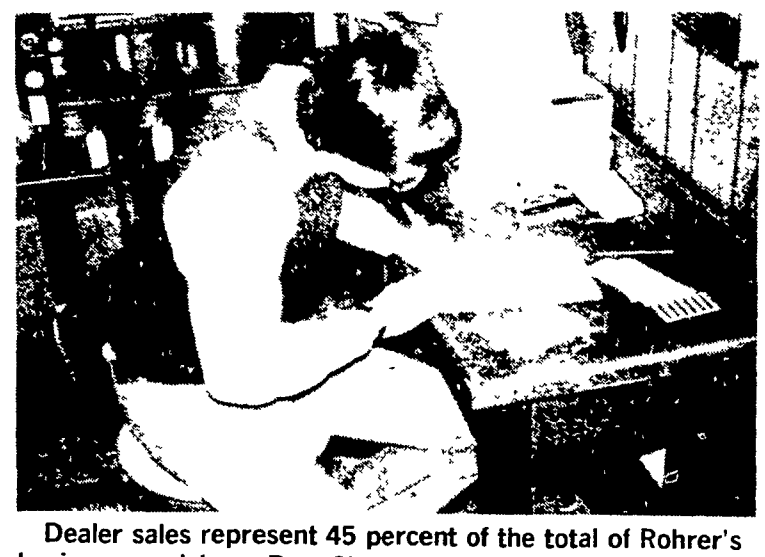
Gary Bender demonstrates a machine which assists in the packaging of the large volume of seeds.



Dealer sales represent 45 percent of the total of Rohrer's business, and here Don Cheuvront writes tags which will direct seeds to the proper dealer.

Garden Seed Manager Clarence Rohrer fills an order in the redesigned retail store which now offers customers self-service.

companies came in and worked hard at doing a good job

Rohrer says that he feels gardening is more than a necessity for many people, adding that most of his senior citizen customers do it for the enjoyment and therapy benefits

It's obvious that he's proud of his business and enjoys the work It's not a luxury business It is a necessary business and it keeps the economy going '

Rohrer is predicting another good year for sales Now if the weather will cooperate, and if our backs don't give out too soon, the rest of us can expect another year of luscious homegrown vegetables

Lancaster soil survey 90% complete

LANCASTER — Soil Scientists of the U S D A Soil Conservation Service have now walked over, mapped, and classified the soil of 90 percent of the land in Lancaster County

Soil Survey Party Leader Boyd Custer reports that 546,000 acres of land were soil surveyed in 1980 The soil survey is part of the technical assistance provided by SCS

Uses of the soil survey range from farm soil management to management of large areas of public lands to the construction of houses in suburban areas

The main use of soil surveys can be grouped under conservation planning, land evaluation, engineering uses of soil, planning and conduct of research, and general education on natural resources

Town and city people have an interest in the soil and sometimes have soil problems, too, Custer pointed out

Information gained from the soil survey applies to a small lot as well as to a large farm," he said

The soil properties that affect farm and woodland uses are the same ones that affect the suitability of soil for urban purposes Whether you plan to dig a basement or a drainage canal, install septic tank field, or build a road, the kind of soil is important Soil characteristics, like depth, texture, permeability, wetness, overflow hazard, slope, and erosion conditions greatly affect the cost and degree of success "

In addition to mapping, soil samples are collected and studied in laboratories of the Pennsylvania State University, Pennsylvania Department of Transportation and SCS These tests determine the ability of the soil to produce crops, absorb sewage affluent, support buildings and roads, and many other uses

The completed maps and laboratory tests with interpretations are published on a county basis as a soil survey report

LACTO-CAL?

BECAUSE...

★ LACTO-CAL is a highly absorbable source of energy necessary for high milk and butterfat production.
★ LACTO-CAL is palatable to cows.
★ LACTO-CAL is an excellent dust control and lubricant for grist mixing.
★ LACTO-CAL is a special blend of vegetable oils that have a specific arrangement of fatty acids, having different bonds and chain lengths, thus improving feed efficiency.

Valentine's Day! A day for sweethearts and a day for young people you say Not so Love is the most important emotion in our lives and colors our dealings with everyone we meet

In a family a relationship between a grandparent and a grandchild can be as important as between a husband and a wife. The influence that an older person has on a child affect them all through their life. Simply remembering a childhood experience can bring a smile to many a face.

Many times grandparents are more understanding than parents-whether due to age or lack of pressure in daily life I can't say

Love can span a continent and as we've often heard "absence makes the heart grow fonder" When we are with family members everyday, we often don't speak what is in our heart. Being apart forces us to express our thoughts in words through letters.

I guess what I'm trying to say is try to express your love, whether it is a pat on the head for your child or a hug for your spouse Making a special dessert for Valentine can add to a festive mood.

I had a sister who was born on February 14 and we baked a cake in a small heart-shaped tin pan and iced it with pink frosting for all of her twelve years. And I remember.

So you might want to remember an old lace Valentine that you've stored away from years past or bettter yet do something nice for someone you love and build a happy memory today

Women's committee plans

LANCASTER — The Women's Committee for the Lancaster County Farmers Association met recently to plan events for the 1981 calendar year.

Among the various goals for the coming year are a Farm City Festival, a lady's day out scheduled for April, a Health and Safety Seminar, March 5, a family picnic for the summer months and a youth conference at Lockhaven in June.

Readers will be able to watch for more details in future issues of Lancaster Farming.

The committee, under the direction of Becky Wivell, chairperson, is composed of the following members: Marty Bixler, Shirley Garner, Svea Hoover, Linda Kreider, Ruth Newcomer, Sheryl Newcomer, Jenny Rank, Esther Stolzfus, Joyce Eby, Helen Wivell, Mariam Brenneman and Carolynne Wanner who is also the chairperson of the Farm City Festival.

GOURMET POT ROAST

3 1/2 - 4 pound beef pot roast, round or blade bone
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon whole thyme
dash of pepper
1/4 cup butter
2 medium onions, sliced (about 2 cups)
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 cup dry red wine
3 medium carrots, pared and cut into 3-inch pieces
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed cream of celery soup
3/4 cup dairy sour cream

Trim excess fat from roast Combine flour, salt, thyme and pepper; coat meat with mixture. In a Dutch oven, large skillet or roasting pan, melt butter Slowly brown meat on both sides. Add onion, garlic and 1/2 cup wine Cover tightly and simmer slowly 1 hour and 30 minutes or cook covered in preheated 350 degree oven 1 hour and 30 minutes Arrange potatoes and carrots around roast. Combine soup and remaining 1/2 cup wine, pour over meat and vegetables Cover and cook an additional 1 hour more or until meat and vegetables are tender. Remove meat and vegetables to heated platter To prepare gravy. stir sour cream into sauce remaining in pan and heat to serving temperature (Do not boil) Spoon some of gravy over meat and pass remainder Makes 6 servings

COCONUT-ALMOND CREAM PUDDING

2 T (2 envelopes) unflavored gelatin
2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup whipping cream
2/3 cup flaked coconut
1/3 cup chopped almonds
1/4 teaspoon almond extract

In a 1 1/2 quart saucepan soften gelatin in 1 cup milk. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved Remove from heat and add remaining 1 cup milk, sugar and salt, stir until dissolved Chill until partially set (gels quickly) Whip cream until stiff Fold whipped cream, coconut, almonds and almond extract into gelatin Turn into 5 to 6 cup mold. Chill until firm. Serve with Cherry Sauce. 6-8 servings

CHERRY SAUCE

1 can (1 pound) red sour pitted cherries
1/4 cup sugar
1 T. cornstarch
2 T. kirsch (optional)
3-4 drops red food color

Drain cherries reserving juice. In a 1 1/2 quart saucepan, combine sugar and cornstarch, gradually stir in cherry juice combined with enough water to make 1 cup liquid Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened, boil 2 minutes Stir in cherries, kisch and food color. Chill

RED VELVET CAKE

1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs unbeaten
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup butter milk
2 1/2 cups cake flour
add 2 T cocoa
4 T red food coloring
1 1/2 teaspoons soda in 1 T vinegar

Don't overbake Bake at 350 degrees

Icing

1 cup milk
5 level T flour

Cook until thick Be sure it is cold, then add
1 cup 10x sugar
1 cup butter creamed
1 teaspoon vanilla

VALENTINE CHERRY-CHEESE PIZZA PIE

Pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie
1 - 8 ounce package cream cheese, softened
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/3 cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 - 1 pound 5 ounce cans cherry pie filling

On lightly floured surface, roll pastry to 14 inch circle, place in a 13-inch pizza pan Flute edges, prick crust Bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes Do not overbake. Blend cream cheese and sugar, add eggs and beat well Add nuts and vanilla Pour into partially baked crust and bake in a 350 degree oven for 10 minutes more, cool

Spread cherry pie filling over baked filling crust Whip two cups of heavy cream, add sugar to taste A few drops of red food coloring and lightly stirred into whipped cream will give a marbalized effect when put on top of cherry pie filling Shape whipped cream to look like a Valentine heart for the occasion. Chill and serve Cut in wedges

FIESTA PORK CHOPS

2 pork loin chops, cut 1-inch thick
1 can (10 ounces) tomato puree
1/3 cup long grain rice
1/4 cup chopped onion
3 T chopped ripe olives
2 canned green chilies, seeded and chopped
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 cup (one ounce) shredded Monterey Jack cheese avocado slices

HAM 'N CHEESE CASSEROLE

1 package (8 ounce) medium noodles
2 T butter
2 T all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon basil leaves
2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
1 1/2 cups cubed cooked ham
1/4 cup choppd green pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees Cook noodles according to package directions, drain well Melt butter in a 1-quart saucepan, blend in flour and pepper Cook over low heat until mixture is smooth Remove from heat Stir in milk and basil Heat to boiling, stirring constantly Boil and stir 1 minute Add 1 1/2 cups cheese, stir just until melted Serve

CREAMY HOT POTATO SALAD WITH FRANKS

1 T butter
1/4 cup sliced green onions
1/4 cup green pepper strips
1 pound frankfurter, cut in 1-inch pieces
4 cups cubed cooked potatoes
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 T flour
1 cup (4 ounce) shredded Cheddar cheese

In skillet melt butter, saute onions, green pepper and frankfurters 5 minutes. Add potatoes, sprinkle with salt Cover and heat over low heat 15-20 minutes Meanwhile combine sour cream and flour; stir into skillet mixture Heat 5 additional minutes (Do not boil) Sprinkle cheese on top, heat a few minutes to melt cheese slightly Serve

Farmers Supply offers wide seed selection

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

LANCASTER — It may be too early to plant seeds, but it's not too early to plan, and stores in the garden seed business are gearing up now for the onslaught which will begin in the next few weeks, continuing into early summer

Farmers Supply, 215 East Fulton Street, Lancaster, is busy now packaging seeds and checking inventory Ted Alspach, manager and owner, is enthusiastic about the upcoming season

He says, "We foresee a good spring. We have been hearing comments and reading periodicals all of which seem to agree that it will be a busy spring. We've now hit a plateau as far as volume, but as the price of food increases on the market, hopefully there will be an increase in seed sales. Besides saving money, people know there's nothing better than a fresh vegetable. Many people plant a garden for therapy. If they have a bad ticker they may plant a few seeds and pull weeds"

Alspach says that Saturday in the Spring are sometimes "bedlam," but adds, "We just take them (customers) one at a time" They also extend store hours to accommodate the extra numbers

Farmers Supply is one of just a few firms in the area which packages its own seeds, something customers have come to rely on "We get our seeds in We buy in the tons in bulk," Alspach says There are now two retired people who will package all their seeds by hand

While garden and field seeds are very important at this time of the year, Farmers Supply also carries an extensive line of lawn and garden care items, along with bulk pet feed and bird feed Alspach says, "We have everything the farmer needs, except livestock and feed"

In addition to the farmer and gardener trade, Farmers Supply supplies building contractors with a wide variety of needs, including such items as wire mesh, an extensive selection of special nails and the largest variety of Goldblatt tools in the immediate area This business accounts for half the total volume.

Alspach is justifiably proud of the service offered by Farmers Supply. "We have good people and fellows from the farm who know what they're talking about If we don't know the answers we have access to them." He sees service as the primary distinction between his store and some of the larger chain stores which offer many of the same items But he credits the "friendly competition" with keeping prices low for customers.

Alspach wants happy customers and successful gardens, so he says, "We offer as many aides as we can for the gardener We give free sheets with instructions and hints about gardening"

Farmers Supply will also deliver anywhere in Lancaster county for a minimum $5.00 order, or a $10.00 order of garden seeds. 'We have three trucks on the road. We hit the southern end first where it gets warm a few days earlier, then move north," Alspach relates

Orders begin coming in volume - and going out - at the end of February or the beginning of March. Helping along the seed order business is an order sheet mailed to about 40,000 boxholders throughout the county The order forms list most of the extensive inventory available through Farmers Supply

Of course there are big favorites among customers, with peas, beans and corn making up the biggest volume of sales Silver Queen is the most popular corn, although Alpsach says he notices other varieties making a gain. Most of their seeds are purchased through the Charles Hart Company which acts as "legman" Alspach said

Although they carry seeds for almost any plants, they also will have a complete line of bedding plants available and Alspach says he recommends buying plants for items like kohl crops and tomatoes.

He also mentions that there are new varieties available each year, often with improvements over the previous varieties Alspach said he talks with growers and checks the market before going ahead with new items He also tries new varieties in his own garden for firsthand experience. He laughs about his tomato experiment, where he carefully planted six different kinds which all ended up in Maple Grove swimming pool when his garden flooded

Right now, Alspach says the "hottest vegetable" is the sugar snap pea, which he says is doing "fantastic." According to Alspach it is popular because 'you get tons of fruit from the plant and it is delicious cooked or raw." Nevertheless he predicts there will always be a big local market for the regular sugar pea, because 'some people still like the small, flat pea "

Sugar peas can be one of the earliest vegetables planted because the seeds resist cold weather Alspach said he has known people to "scratch the frost and put in sugar peas "

He noted that people in Lancaster County tend to be conservative "The people like an old standby."

Planning in a farm and garden supply business can be risky, as Alspach points out, "We try to think three to six months ahead."

Alspach has been at Farmers Supply for five years and has now taken over the interest in the firm from A. Lloyd Groff, one of the original owners and founders. John McGrann, the other founder, is now deceased.

The business started with seeds and other farm supplies, but was well known as the largest toy dealer around. Alspach says the firm got out of the toy business when discounters came into the picture and then got into the building contractor supply business as a way of stretching income throughout the year. In the garden business, spring, summer and fall are healthy seasons, but things can be a little lean in the winter

From December on, Farmers Supply now does brisk business supplying the needs of tobacco growers.

Alspach got to know the business when he went there for supplies as a worker for a construction company Eventually he made Groff an offer, and has come to love his new enterprise. He said, "I can't learn everything overnight,

Farmers Supply

and Mr. Groff has been of immeasurable help to me in the business end, helping me learn accounting, bookkeeping and ordering "

He makes it clear that he is happy with the business, and works hard at keeping it successful "I am happy with things the way they are, but I don't want to be afraid to change and grow with the economy " He says he doesn't mind the long hours because, "I love it· I am my own boss "

Although he contends that his business is feeling the effects of a bad economy like any other business, he adds. "The depressed housing market hurts, but we are holding our own. People are spending more for tools which will last longer. And since people are spending a lot more time at home, they are spending more money on their homes and lawns "

Alspach says most of their sales are repeat customers, adding, "We've been very fortunate. We have very good rapport with the customers. Lancaster Countains are excellent repeat customers." Farmer accounts outnumber other accounts in that part of the business.

Obviously the attention to service accounts for the repeat customers. Farmers Supply is successfully catering to the needs of the farmer, the homeowner and the home gardener.

HOW TO CHOOSE A COOKBOOK

What makes one cookbook better than another? Recipes are important, but a good cookbook must contain other information. A cookbook should be your "kitchen encyclopedia" — containing information on meal planning, foods in general, nutrition, food buying, preparation and storage, as well as recipes

Here are a few things to keep in mind when you are selecting a cookbook — either for yourself or to give as a gift

Organization is important Some cookbooks are arranged by menu rather than by food types Unless this type has a detailed index, you may find it difficult and time consuming to locate a specific recipe

A good, basic cookbook should offer a balanced selection of recipes A collection of specialty books is nice, but you still need the basics

Are the recipes easy to understand? Are the ingredients readily available or are they exotic items you won't use again? Are ingredients listed in order of use? Is the yield for each recipe given?

How is the book put together? Will it lie open flat for use and stand upright on a shelf during storage? Will it stand up to a bit of wear and tear and a few dribbles?

Other desirable features include list of equivalent measures and ingredient substitutes, definitions of terms used in cooking, temperature definitions, equipment and utensils used in a well-equipped kitchen; guides for cooking and reasons for common failures, illustrations or descriptions of final products, "how-to-do it" pictures, tips on buying and storing, suggestions for planning and preparing foods in large quantities, and descriptions of measuring techniques

FOR MANY AMERICANS, A NUTRITIOUS DIET MEANS A GAIN IN WEIGHT

Did you ever think of your diet as a jigsaw puzzle? The pieces, adequate amount of edibles from the basic four food groups, must all fit together within the border, that limited amount of calories you can eat without gaining weight

Puzzle pieces in disarray mean you aren't getting enough nutrients or you are gaining excess pounds

For more than half the U S population, the puzzle pieces aren t snapping into place According to information presented at the 1981 Agricultural Outlook Conference in Washington, D C , the average American woman is eating 1,520 calories a day This is nearly 25 percent less than the 2,000 calories she needs for adequate nutrition How can she get the nutrients she needs without gaining weight?

This problem has sparked interest in a fairly new concept — nutrient density. Nutrient dense foods are those with a high ratio of nutrients per serving to the calories for that same serving Broccoli and citrus fruits are good examples So is broiled chicken But if you dip the chicken in batter and deep fat fry it, that piece of chicken is no longer considered to be anywhere near as dense in nutrients.

The nutrients are still there, but the calorie count has jumped Remember, it is the nutrients per calorie, not just nutrients that makes a food nutrient dense.

Consumers especially women need to become aware of this concept and include nutrient dense foods from each of the four food groups in their daily diets

Foods in the new fifth food group, mostly high in fat, sugar or alcohol, have a very low nutrient density. They should be avoided as much as possible by that half of the American population who now can't get the nutrients their bodies need without gaining weight

The Farmer Automatic 4 Deck Cage System

A system well devised and constructed for an uncomplicated and economical operation, modern and advanced, it will help you to gain your well deserved maximum return on your investment.

More layers per square foot of building space, more than any other system on the market today, 10,000 layers per 285 cage row

Lower maximum cage height, even lower than most 3 deck systems (6'8" max height, 4'6" max width)

No special and costly floor or pit construction

The 4 deck system can be installed in an existing building, without costly conversion or remodeling problems

Double or even triple your current building capacity

Automatic manure removal, giving an odor free environment, healthier animals, more pleasant and healthier working conditions

Higher bird concentration assures a comfortable, energy saving temperature during cold season

Summer ventilation is easier to accomplish because of the absence of ammonia and other fumes

Energy Saving Design
Only 3 fractional horsepower motors per row accomplish the automatic feeding, automatic egg conveying and automatic manure removal

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

A timely pre-Valentine's Day press release from the West Coast brings distressing news even the cost of being in love has been zapped by the inflation bug, at the rate of something like 419 percent since 1950.

Statistics from an economist — they never did strike me as being very romantic — support this bit of depressing, but not surprising, information.

Champagne for toasting your Valentine is now bringing $50 per bottle, up from the 50's price of $12, roses go for up to $48 per dozen, instead of $5, and even the cost of marriage licenses has gone up.

Come, come now. At the risk of sounding like a Class I cheapskate, there are less expensive ways to show your affection for your Valentine

My Valentine, I know, wouldn't be caught carrying home a bottle of anything that costs $50, unless it was to perk up a sick cow. What he would do is lovingly offer me a bucket brimming with clusters of juicy, fat elderberries, knowing full well I'll start them up into a batch of homemade wine.

And roses? Ah, yes, seems I do remember getting roses a time or two. Pale pink and dewy, they were, fresh from the roadside bank below the electric pole and scented with the sweetest fragrance Mother Nature bestows on her wild flowers.

Candy? Sure! You see, we have this terrific grease and motor oil supplier who maintains the tradition of leaving a handful of candy bars behind with each customer's order.

Thus, at least twice a year I can figure on a gift of candy, if I can grab one before the kids find them up in the cupboard

No, my Valentine has given me other things much more precious and wonderful, a comfortable if not elaborate farm home, all the pets I could ever hope for, a yard for trees and flowers, open fields for walking, not to mention my two favorite little Valentines ripping around the house.

He gives me his patience and understanding, never grumbling when I pull off super-stupid tricks like dragging the whole family to the wrong county for a farm program I must attend or forgetting to record a tax check in the stub of the checkbook.

He adds excitement to my life sharing our love of traveling, buying me my own new canoe paddle and allowing me to be farther in debt than I'd ever dreamed possible

One of my fiercest rivals for his affections says it best. She's just a tiny girl, this niece, blond and blue-eyed, who crawls up on his lap, puts her arms 'round his neck, gazes adoringly in his eyes and proclaims, "Butch, you're the bestest!"

And he really is

Happy Valentine's Day!

The farmer's many roles

Two weeks ago we decided the farmer had many roles that of producer, business manager, mechanic, veterinarian, meteorologist, student, accountant, and carpenter Well, John Martin wrote another definition of a farmer for us See how well his compares to yours John also feels a farmer is an electrician Can you add any more to the list?

A farmer is one of the many people who works for his own living He also works for other people by selling milk, meat, etc Some farmers are interested in their work and others are not Every one is different, so that means that different farmers are interested in different things Someone may be interested in cows, pigs, and chickens, while others have goats, sheep, and horses Any farmer would want to live in the country where there is much land to grow crops rather than in the city where there isn t much land

"Bread baking is simple"

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

LEBANON — With winter now in full, blustery force, it is the perfect time to fill your cozy home with the aroma of freshly baked bread You'll be a heroine to your family when they find the taste is as good as the smell

Alletta Schadler, Lebanon County extension home economist, offered tips this week to would-be bread bakers, designed to be helpful to the beginner as well as the experienced baker.

Schadler said, "Bread baking is very simple " Basic ingredients include yeast and something to feed the yeast, usually sugar, salt which controls the rate at which yeast rises; and flour

Since yeast is a living thing, Schadler pointed out that if the liquid added during the mixing process is too hot it will kill the yeast or cause the dough to rise too fast which will result in its collapse If the temperature of the liquid is too low, nothing will happen, because the yeast will not have been activated

Yeast should be dissolved in water which is slightly warm on the wrist, and a warmed crockery bowl is best to do the mixing in If a recipe calls for yeast mixed with the flour, water can be used which feels hot to the arm

Active dry yeast is the most commonly used yeast, but compressed yeast can also be used Compressed yeast has a short shelf life, and although it can be frozen, it must be used once it is thawed

Mixing the dough properly is very important to the overall success of the bread, according to Schadler She explained that the protein in wheat flour gets long and stringy which accounts for the bread dough's rising It is very important to use flour that has gluten, and to handle the dough in such a way as to develop the gluten " Gluten acts to trap gas bubbles released by the yeast, thus causing the rising effect

Dough should be mixed the full amount of time specified in the recipe, and kneading should also be done to the maximum stated time. The mixing and the kneading develops the gluten which will aid in the rising proces.

With the many kinds of flour now available, it may be a mystery to a novice how to go about purchasing flour for bread baking Schadler pointed out that all-purpose flower is good for any kind of bread Bread flour, now readily available, contains more gluten than regular all-purpose flour, so gives a more springy loaf "It does a very nice job,' says Schadler "You do not need as much bread flour "

Occident flour, a brand name, has some barley flour added, and also does a nice job with bread It, too, has a higher gluten content then all-purpose flour

Whole wheat flour, or graham flour, can be used in any recipe which calls for all-purpose flour, and will give a heavier, more moist loaf. It can be substituted cup for cup in a recipe

Many other kinds of flour are available, including buckwheat and rye, which add flavor and nutrition, but which have no gluten Schadler cautions, "Don't try to make a loaf of rye bread without using some wheat flour It won't do anything " She says at least one half the amount of flour should be in wheat flour, and the more the shift in proportion the heavier the loaf will be

Schadler also cautioned, "When buying specialty bread the consumer should try to purchase from stores which have a volume of business because wheat flour can get rancid, since the wheat germ oil is still in it "

Another tip she offered is, "Don't bother wasting time sifting flour for bread Most recipes call for an approximately measure Go by how it feels Different flours absorb moisture at different rates, depending upon what kind of flour it is, how old it is and other conditions "

In kneading the dough, Schadler comments 'Don't use a lot of flour; knead it as moist as possible Develop a rhythm as you work " She points out that whole wheat and rye dough will feel different from white dough

Rising times are important, but Schadler said that most doughs need to rise an hour to double in bulk, the requirement for the first rising The second rising time will be shorter, and smaller pieces of dough will require shorter rising times

If you are interrupted in the rising process, Schadler pointed out that it is possible to punch down the dough and let it rise again more than one time However, she added that there is a limit to the number of times this can be done and still have a successful product Rather, she suggested punching the dough down, refrigerating it for several hours or overnight, then bringing it to room temperature and proceeding with the recipe

The shortening in the dough is important in increasing the "keeping ' ability of the bread, but the type of shortening used is personal preference Lard, butter and shortening may impart a different flavor, and butter or margarine could cause some difficulty in a recipe which doesn t specify them as the shortening because of the 'liquid fraction" when they are melted

Schadler pointed out that it is sometimes easier to work with the dough if it is allowed to rest" for a short period after it has been punched down She also said that bread should be shaped into loaves the same width as the pan for the most successful and most attractive loaf Bread pans should be half full of dough before the second rising to obtain the best appearance

To check bread for doneness, the bread should be removed from the pan and tapped lightly on the bottom A hollow sound indicates it is finished Brushing the top of a loaf with butter while hot will make a soft crust

Schadler demonstrated a "triple braided loaf" which includes white, rye and whole wheat dough, and can be made either on a cookie sheet or in a pan. She said, It has a delightful texture, and can be sliced very thin and keeps very well "

The recipe follows It makes an attractive brunch loaf, and offers the experience of working with three different doughs and three different flavors

THREE-COLOR BRAIDED LOAF

2 packages active dry yeast
2⅓ cup warm water (110 degrees)
2⅓ cup all-purpose flour
1 T salt
2 T honey
4 T soft margarine
1 cup all-purpose flour

Whole Wheat:

2 T molasses
2 T wheat germ
1⅓ cup whole wheat flour

Rye:

2 T cocoa
1½ teaspoons caraway seed
1⅓ cup rye flour
2 T molasses

White· 1⅓ cup all-purpose flour

Dissolve yeast in water in large mixer bowl Stir in other main batter ingredients Beat to blend, beat 4 minutes on medium speed Scrape bowl often Add 1 more cup flour. Beat on high for 4 more minutes. Divide batter into thirds - about 1¼ cups each and put in 3 bowls and treat as follows.

For Whole Wheat Dough - add molasses, wheat germ and whole wheat flour Stir to mix. Turn out onto board and knead until smooth - add all-purpose flour as needed to prevent sticking. Put in greased bowl to raise until doubled in bulk

Pumpernickle Dough - add molasses, cocoa, caraway seed and rye flour. Knead until smooth Add all-purpose flour as needed Place in greased bowl to rise and double in bulk

White Dough - to last bowl, add remaining 1⅓ cup all-purpose

Is fluid seeding for you?

HERSHEY — Fluid seeding is a relatively new technique whereby seed is mixed in a gel carrier and pumped through a planter into a furrow in the soil, reports Donald R Daum, Extension Agricultural Engineer, Penn State.

J.G. Elliott, from the Weed Research Organization near Oxford, England, is given credit for originating the concept in 1963 Research was started at the National Vegetable Research Station in England during the early 1970's. Since then research has been conducted in Canada as well as the United States

The gel and equipment is now commercially available and is in limited use.

Fluid seeding of pre-germinated seeds (known as chitted seeds in England) involves several steps seed germination in controlled optimum environmental conditions, mixing selected germinated seeds with a gel media to protect and suspend the seeds for distribution, sowing the seeds and gel with a specialized fluid seeder

"Nearly all experience in fluid seeding to date is with vegetables because the research was done by people working with vegetables and the greatest advantages appear to be with vegetables," says Daum

Some of the advantages of fluid seeding include:

—Quicker seedling emergence - four days after planting pregerminated tomato, lettuce, cucumber, cabbage, and okra seeds in 75°F soil, over 90 percent of the plants were up compared to 30 percent for lettuce, 5 percent for cabbage, and no emergence for the other dry sown seeds;

—Uniform emergence - pregerminating overcomes the problem of germinating seed in soil, especially in cool temperatures Also, pregerminated seeds can be separated from nongerminating seeds prior to planting, so only viable seeds are planted;

—Earlier harvest - the quick emergence leads to faster development and maturity However, the time interval decreases considerably from emergence to harvest,

—Increased yield - many crops show an increased yield over dry sown seeds Tomatoes produced 15.7 tons/acre compared to 9.6 tons/acre for conventional seeding; the transplanted crop yielded 18 tons/acre. Carrots showed an 18 percent increase and onions produced 10 percent more weight. Most of these increases are due to improved stands,

—Cheaper and quicker transplants - by sowing pregerminated seeds the transplants can be grown at lower temperature, saving energy; in some cases plants can be grown outside in plastic tunnels; and

—Additives can be used - presently, research is active in this area, possiblities include pesticides, growth regulations, nutrients, and soil amendments

Disadvantages are.

—Frost damage - the seedlings may emerge so quickly that frost may damage them with early planting;

—Seeds killed - if too much gel is used, seeds may die before they emerge from the gel from lack of oxygen;

—Gel mixing problems - high pH or hard water causes problems in mixing the powder and liquid to form the gel. Distilled water required in some cases;

—Seed committed to grow - once seed is imbibed (soaked) or pregerminated it is committed to growing Such seed can be held up to two weeks by keeping it moist and cool (40°F.) However, once the seed is mixed in the gel it can be held only 3 to 4 days without major loss of viability;

—Germination time and equipment - time to pregerminate the seed varies from 24 hours to three days for tomatoes to seven days for celery The seed must be held at the temperature appropriate for the species and rinsed every 12 hours to remove a naturally produced growth inhibitor; and

—Requires specialized planting equipment - the planter must have a pump that will deliver the desired quantity of the gel-seed mix without damaging the radicles (roots) A special dispenser is necessary for single seed planting

Fluid seeders are commercially available and are in use in Ohio and California. These planters are manufactured in Canada and England.

For field operation, the planting units are tool-bar mounted with attachments available to plant through plastic mulch and to place anti-crustant material over the seed. Lightweight push units are available for the home gardener or hobby farmer Fluid seeders are also available for planting single seeds into soilless blocks for growing transplants

"More field research is needed to determine feasibility under Pennsylvania conditions," concedes Daum "The technique shows real promise for hard to establish crops, earlier and more uniform emergence, and increased yields. We should at least experiment with fluid seeding. It may be a golden egg for vegetable growers."

Who speaks for agriculture?

CHICAGO — S Glenn Ellenberger, a retired county extension director of Lehigh County, Penn , said: "How in the world do you get people in agriculture to speak with one tongue?"

"We have a lot of independence in agriculture There are many different organizations cropping up–and sometimes they don't even talk with each other," the panelist said, who had been in extension for 34 years and lives in Allentown He added. "It has to be farmers telling their own story The rest of us in agriculture are just paid people doing our jobs. You people out in the field somhow have to get together to tell non-farm people your story."

Women on the farm represent a signficant resource in speaking out for agriculture.

That's the thinking of Elaine Stuhr, one of the farmer-panelists from Bradshaw, Neb , who participated in the most recent International Harvester's Farm Forum panels on the topic of "Who Should Speak for Agriculture?"

"I think we have more leadership from women in rural areas these days," Stuhr said, who farms with her husband 600 acres of corn, milo, and wheat

"In our local area, we are starting on the ground level becoming informed, getting involved politically and running for local offices," said the editor of the national Women Involved In Farm Economics (WIFE) newsletter and a national steering committee member.

"More women should become involved After all, they are usually partners in the farming operation and often have more time than their husbands to do letter-writing, telephoning and speaking out," she added

Allan Aves, of Kirkland, Ill , who was president of the American Soybeam Association and the DeKalb County Farm Bureau," agreed "Women can do an awful lot of good They should be on more boards of directors They are a real untapped resources "

Aves, another of the nine panelists to particpate, pointed to the difficulty that commodity more boards of directors They are a real untapped resource "

Aves, another of the nine panelists to participate, pointed to the difficulty that commodity organizations have in speaking out for agriculture "There is no way they can go out and demand high soybean prices and still represent the poultry producer who wants lower priced soybeans So we need the commodity organizations to stock up for the individual groups," said Aves, who farms 1,750 acres with one son

While agriculture's strength lies in its diversity, farmers and their organizations nonetheless need to speak with more of a unified voice to influence urban America, other panelists stressed

"I think it's right that our organizations disagree," said David D Diehl, a panelist from Dansville, Mich , who farms 4,700 acres in partnership with his two sons and son-in-law. "But I think we could have a common interest," he added. "I'm encouraged because in the last few years, some of the organizatons that don't agree in many ways are starting to get together. Really, we're all after one thing–and that's a decent living from agriculture," said Diehl, a member of Farm Bureau and [illegible] of the Michigan Department of Agriculture

Tommy Kersey, who farms 7,200 acres in a family operation with his father and two brothers in Unadilla, Ga , said "Eventually, we're going to have to find a way to come together "

"Everyone else has Farmers have to realize they are not competing against each other. We have to find a way to speak out about the things we agree on and a way to reach agreement on the things we differ about," the state leader in the American Agriculture Movement added. However, getting farm organizations to work together has special problems.

"We need to solicit help from ag-related businesses," said Gene Smallidge, of Hastings, Minn "Even though farmers are only three per cent of the population, we could have one of the most effective lobbies in the country if we could get sympathetic assistance from all these who livelihood depends on agriculture," added the panelist, who farms 580 acres and custom-farms 300 acres

Regarding the role of the educational institution in speaking out for agriculture, Dean H O Kunkel of the College of Agriculture, Texas A & M Universty, College Station, commented What a university needs to do is speak about agriculture–in every way possible. We in the colleges cannot take advocacy positions--although many times we would very much like to do so. Farmers and the people in agriculture are going to have to do the speaking."

Today, farm organizations seem to be taking a more active role in speaking out for agriculture, said Teresa Shafer, of Grimes, Ia "For a while, everybody just sat back and took whatever came their way. But over the last two years the farm organizations seem to have regained some of their vitality.

"People have started to realize that nothing is going to happen unless they work for it," said the panelist, who farms 925 acres with her husband's family, as well as helps operate a large cattle herd and hog operation. Active in the Cowbelles and Farm Bureau, she

Feed efficiency spells hog profits

NEWARK, Del. — Feed efficiency and profit are closely related when you're raising any meat animal. For the pork producer, profit is tied closely to the number of pigs weaned from a sow herd annually and how much feed it takes to grow a pound of pork.

A hog using four pounds of feed for each pound of liveweight gain needs 720 pounds of feed to grow from 40 to 220 pounds. A hog that requires three pounds of feed per pound of gain will consume only 540 pounds of feed to reach slaughter weight. That's 180 pounds less feed.

Assume that feed costs $160 a ton. Then the more efficient hog has consumed $14.40 less feed than the 4:1 ratio animal.

At that price, says University of Delaware extension livestock specialist Richard Fowler, a producer with 100 sows marketing 1,600 pigs per year will spend $13,040 less on feed by raising the more efficient feed converters.

Looked at another way, this is $13,040 more profit.

Feed conversion on a nationwide basis is probably around four or five to one, says Fowler. Producers can improve on this poor conversion by making feeder adjustments, using complete balanced rations, and by such things as removing corn cobs from their swine feed.

The biggest change can come from using better boars — those with feed efficiency records of 3 0 pounds or less. The better the feed efficiency of the boar, the greater his impact on your herd's efficiency rating.

The economics of swine production aren't very exciting, admits Fowler. High-priced boars don't fit into the commercial producer's thinking at all. But high-priced boars with good records are an investment, not a cost.

Huge jumps in feed efficiency won't happen with one boar. His offspring, when mated to a second high-performing boar, will produce pigs with markedly improved records in the trait of feed efficiency. The third generation of gilts represents almost 90 percent new genetic material.

With the careful selection of performance tested boars, these can really turn the profit picture into the black for you — just by saving feed

For example, if you're weaning 16 pigs per sow annually and have a feed efficiency of 4.2, your direct production costs run about 39 cents a pound.

Improve feed efficiency to 3.2 and these costs drop to 33 cents a pound. Increase pigs per sow per year to 20 and direct costs drop to 31 cents per pound of pig produced.

Direct costs don't include taxes, insurance, depreciation, principal and interest costs.

The breed of boar doesn't matter as much as his individual record, says Fowler.

Trial results from 20 test stations rank Duroc, Yorkshire, Hampshire, Spotted, Chester White, Poland China, Berkshire, and American Landrace from best to poorest in feed efficiency. The leading breed had a 2.52 pounds of feed per pound of gain record; the lowest breed was 2.79. The fact is, there are outstanding individuals in all breeds. Commercial swine producers should continue to crossbreed using white breeds for mothering ability and the dark breeds for growth rate and feed efficiency.

Growth rate and feed efficiency are important to profit, but so are traits like fertility and mothering ability Continue to select replacement gilts with good underlines and those from large litters.

Producers looking for sources of production tested boars may contact their local extension office, or the Extension Livestock Specialist, Animal Science Department, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19711.

Who speaks

added: "We've got to get out and speak out."

Noting that more farmers need to get involved, Nelson Meyer, who farms approximately 500 acres of cotton, grain, and pasture near Needville, Tex , said. "There are plenty of organizations now if farmers would participate at the grassroots level and let the organizations help them." He added, however, "If we get too many organizations, we will have people opposing each other and it will be harder to speak with a unified voice."

Also in Farm Forum the value of a coalition was discussed, as a way for farm organizations to work together.

An example is the "economic summit meeting" concept involving Nebraska's farm organizations. Today, twelve organizations are currently represented, including American Agriculture Movement, Farm Bureau, National Farmers Organization, and Farmers Union, plus commodity and special interest farm groups.

"Sometimes it seems like nothing is accomplished," said Duane Nuenberg, a Cozad, Nebraska farmer. "But it helps to get to know members of other groups personally. We get a better understanding of how the various groups of work and what their politics are. There are many things we can't agree on, but we hope to keep trying,"

Addressing the need to develop rural leadership, the panelists also discussed the Kellogg Farmers Study Program.

Funded by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich., this program has trained over 800 rural leaders in programs in five states.

In the program, farmers have traveled to see state government in action, view life in inner cities or look at how big cities functioned, as well as visit our nation's capital and the various regulatory agencies.

Farm Forum is published quarterly and is distributed to 600,000 farmers and agri-influentials throughout the U.S. to provide a forum on issues of concern to agriculture.

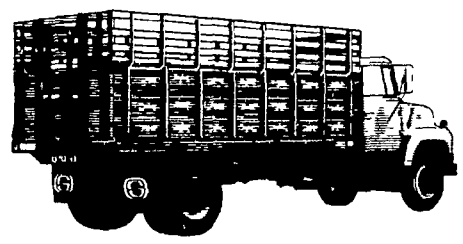
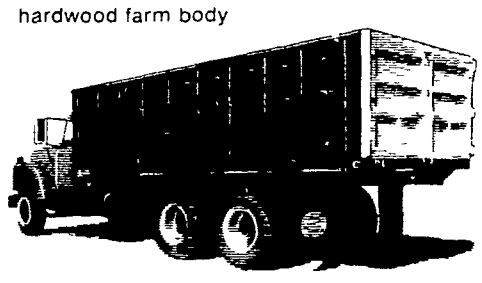
Bigger Than Ever, Better Than Ever

Precision engineered roll formed 52" high steel sides provide greater capacity at less cost.

We've built rugged truck bodies for over 50 years and today we're continuing that tradition That's the reason you can't make a better investment than an Omaha Standard steel or hardwood farm body





■ One-piece roll formed steel sides with built in tarp rail Available in 28 40 and 52 extra-capacity heights all with maximum corrugation for maximum strength

■ 40 and 48 hardwood sides also available the truck body Omaha Standard built its reputation on

■ The toughest platform in the business— laminated wood smooth steel or tread plate

■ Easy-conversion hardwood upper racks greater flex and life than steel fold down racks

■ A full line of rugged gates all engineered to make your job easier

Omaha Standard Hoists

■ Seven precision-engineered scissor hoists from 4 to 34 tons for bodies 8 to 24

Olympic Series twin telescopic hoists with greater torsional stability for bodies 16' to 24' and 15 to 43 ton capacity

Omaha Standard bodies and hoists time-tested on thousands of farms throughout the United States and Canada

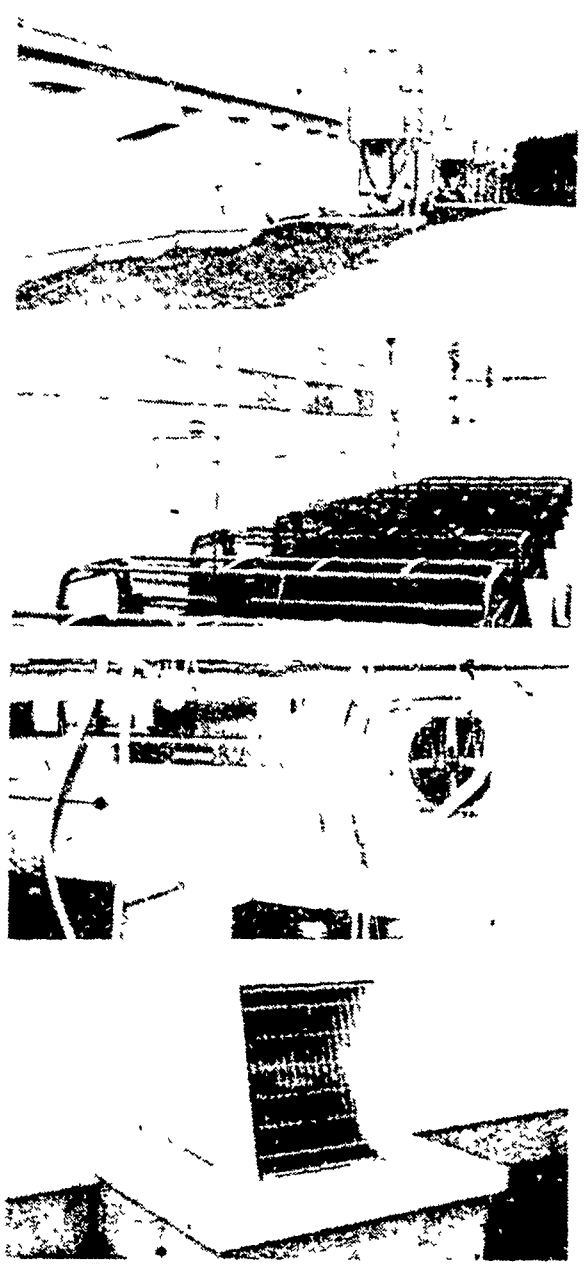
VENTILATION

Chore-Time Air Systems Gives You Year-Round, Day-In & Day Out Comfort For Your Hogs!

THURSDAY, I
At The Host
Route 30 East c

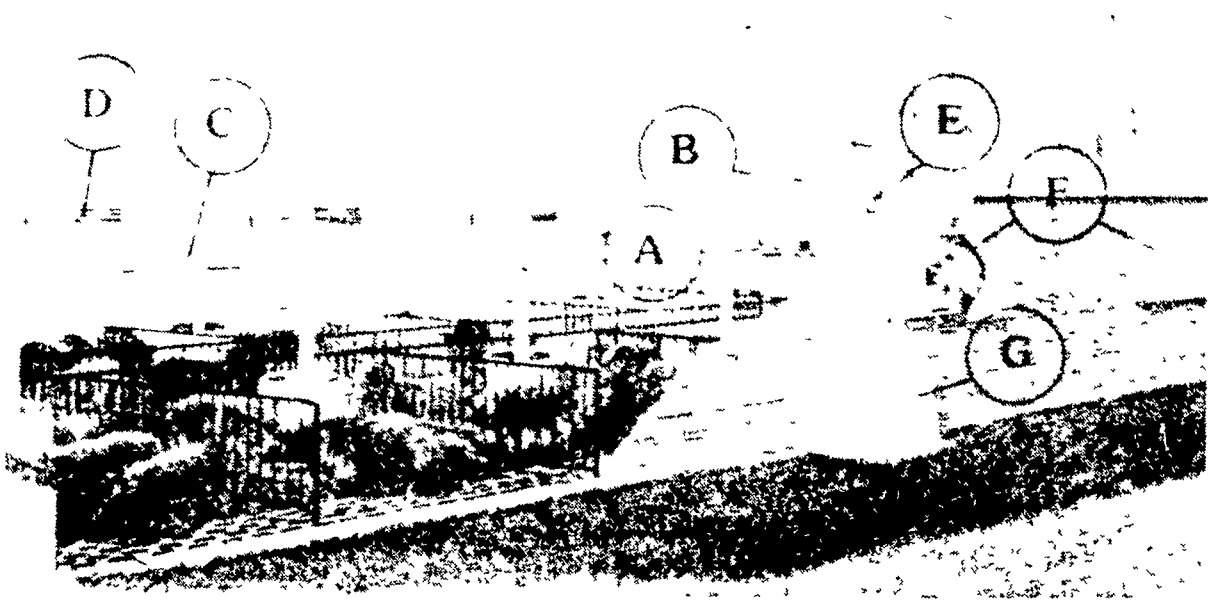


If your hogs can feel extremes of heat or cold—you're not getting the greatest efficiency from them, or from what you're feeding them. If they're hot in summer, they can't gain efficiently or fast enough. If they're cold in winter, they're burning feed to keep warm.

So you may be paying for a modern ventilation system and still not getting one.

Chore-Time's environmental control system is not complicated or difficult to understand if you realize what it does: It's designed simply to control air flow and air volume at all times. The result? 1) It evens out temperatures in all parts of a building all year long. 2) It provides comfort during summer's hot, humid weather. 3) It provides healthful air flow in winter, but prevents cold drafts and cold areas in a building.

The result is faster gains, less costly gains, better use of valuable feed, more efficient use of your labor—better profits.



here's how it works

See cut away of typical building above Static Monitor (A) reads the static pressure in building using bottle (B) mounted in attic or outside of building as a "Dampening chamber" Static Monitor sends signal to (C) Inlet Power Pack which operates (D) Air Inlets Inlet openings are controlled to maintain the correct velocity of air System is designed to 'swirl' air to maintain uniform temperature and humidity in all parts of the building Fan Control (E) operates Variable Speed Fans (F) — allowing for large air flow in hot weather minimal flow in cold weather

Fans serve as 'air pumps' to expel 'spent' air from building at a controlled rate For hot weather additional fans can be operated by regular thermostats so they turn on or off as needed Many hog operators also use fans expelled air from manure pit (G) for less odor and manure gases in livestock living areas

Thomasville club looks ahead

THOMASVILLE — Leaders of the Thomasville 4-H club explained the projects they teach and the requirements for completing them at the recent meeting of the club

Project explanations were given on rifle and handyman by Roy Thompson, photography, Emilie Welsh, dairy foods, candlemaking and sewing, Nancy Eisenhart, Stamp club, Dave Haskins; horticulture, wildlife and forestry, Carol Haskins, crocheting, Jean Roth, ceramics, Helen Horn, Micro-mini tractor club, Lanny Zeigler, and cake decorating, cooking for beginners, Jolene Smallwood

Reports given at the meeting were National 4-H Congress by Carol Haskins; Farm Show, Mike Welsh, roller skating party, Diane Lang, officers training, Susan Eisenhart and County Council, Beverly Eisenhart

Several members of the club will be participating in the "Spring Fling," a five-county 4-H activity being held at the York County 4-H Center, near Bair on February 21 from 9 to 9 which includes workshops and a dance

Serving on the club exhibit committee are Mike Welsh, Mike Parr, Neil and Shane Seidenstricker, Diane and Angie Lang, Bridgette Boyer and Tim Jowanowitch

Members serving on the community service committee are Mike Parr, Neil and Shane Seidenstricker, Bridgette Boyer, Grace Brodbeck, Angie and Diane Lang, Steve, Susan and Nancy Eisenhart, Robert and Jon Haskins, Julie Kline, Courtney and Allison Cable, Doreen and Darren Smallwood, Debbie Leibhart, Shelly, Stephanie, and Patty Lehigh, Eric Cable, Jon Bentzel, Tim and Trini Jowanowitch and Mike Welsh

The next meeting of the club will be held at the county 4-H Skating Party on February 24 at Delco Plaza

Raise a capon

PENN STATE — It takes a tough kid to raise a tender capon (borrowed from Frank Perdue of Salisbury, MD - No kidding, the 4-H capon project is one of our most comprehensive projects and work intensive also A ten year old can earn 2 to 6 dollars an hour for their efforts with the project This includes time spent by parents helping dress birds

Capon production involves daily care and feeding of the birds while being alert for predator control, parasite damage or other health problems with the birds Many youngsters find it best to feed some oats with the growing mash the last six weeks before market

- Processing (selecting-killing-dressing) is a lot of hard work where parent, child and any other volunteers can help pull feathers, draw birds and get em oven ready

Marketing is the real challenge if you do not have one established, because only a few people know what a capon is People successful with capons spend one hour per day on marketing 4-H members must knock on doors and use the telephone to tell buyers how tender, flavorful, and juicy capon is Each year 30,000 4-H capons are sold for 350,000 dollars during the fall season Two ton of these go at auction for $3/lb or $12,000

The work is great but so is the reward If you sell all the birds you start as Grade A dressed, oven-ready capons for $1.40 a pound and if you do well with the production, processing and marketing, by the time the birds reach 20 weeks of age or before, each capon sold should bring several dollars return to labor and management Range in net to labor and management in 1979 was 0 to $7 per bird

How to avoid creeping green alfalfa

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

BAIR — That green out in your alfalfa fields this summer may not all be valuable dry matter. If the green crawls, creeps or flies, you'd better take a closer look.

And, according to Stan Gesel, Penn State entomologist, if the green is walking sideways, you've probably got potato leafhoppers and most likely a problem in the making.

Leafhoppers, which do not winter here but migrate in from the South about June 1, are only about an eighth-inch long, wedge-shaped and a yellow-green color. But this tiny insect can wreak havoc to hay stands, especially new seedlings.

A yellowing of alfalfa leaves is one outward sign of leafhopper infestation. The insect stings the leaf, sucks out plant juices and leaves behind the real culprit, a toxic material that plugs up the system of internal vessels that feeds the leaves. Plants become stunted in growth, have lowered disease resistance and may eventually die.

Just one leafhopper per alfalfa stem can result in a two percent protein and 10 percent hay crop weight loss, or about $19 per acre in yield and quality losses

Since spray costs run an estimated $8 per acre, forage producers must watch closely to determine when infestations are at the level where spraying is an economic investment

Gesel recommends checking the pest populations with a sweep net, taking 20 sweeps at each of five different locations in the field being studied.

Sweep the net in a 180-degree half circle, sort of a one-handed golf swing, into the first three-or four inches of the alfalfa stand.

Hold the insects in the net and empty them into a large paper bag Fasten the bag top tightly closed and sit it in the sun for about a half-hour. The heat from the sun will kill the insects so that they can be counted. For quicker results, sit the bag in a very low, 120 degree oven for five minutes

Charts with infestation damage levels and spray recommendation programs are available through the county agriculture extension offices

"Don't cut back on alfalfa seed costs, that's too small a hay cost input to be scrimping on," voiced two of the forage seminar speakers, economist Donald Dum and agronomist John Baylor, both of Penn State.

Seed and pest control costs are actually two of the lowest dollar inputs per acre of alfalfa hay, according to data these two specialists have accumulated over several years of research in forages.

Forage producers can expect to spend $145 per acre just to establish an alfalfa stand, so each year that a field can be kept profitably productive will stretch the initial investment And, it takes another $226 annually per acre just to operate that hay stand, almost 40 percent of that in machinery costs Fertilizers and lime claim another 20 percent of the annual operating costs, while labor and land investment contribute a third

Low yields from poor stands and high machinery overheads boost the cost of operating each acre The economist's data shows that 3.6 tons of hay per acre are needed just to break even, based on 1979 cost inputs

But top hay producers in the state, says agronomist John Baylor, are harvesting twice that tonnage. Baylor's figures stem from his work with the Pennsylvania Alfalfa Growers program.

This Penn State research, reported to be probably the best in-depth forage study in the country, is a six-year cooperative effort between the University and hay growers from across the state who pencil-pushed detailed cost and yield data on their alfalfa acreages.

The top 10 producers in the study averaged about seven and one-half tons per acre of hay equivalent in both 1979 and 1980, or about one and one-half tons protein and four and one-half tons total dependable nutrients

Most of these top yields were on tested limestone soil, all conventionally seeded except for one no-till, and planted in a variety of seed types

Each of the top yields had one notable thing in common they used liberal quantities of manure in rotation.

Most stands made four cuttings and one produced five, and production went for both haylage and dry hay

Cutting intervals were mostly at 35 to 40 days, with a slightly longer period allowed before the last cutting.

The test stands also required fewer sprayings, which the researchers attributed to an all-around better management program. Best yields came mostly from fields in their first full year of production.

Baylor noted that these top yields had an exceptionally high nutrient removal rate, showing the importance of maintaining high fertility levels on hay crops

He especially stressed a regular soil test program and abundant levels of phosphorus and potassium.

Trial research data also emphasized the need to watch trace nutrients carefully, particularly boran and sulfur, which often are present at only marginal levels.

Holstein Assn. sets local classification schedule

LANCASTER — The classification program undertaken each year by the National Holstein Association is underway.

Each month different counties in Area I, which comprises most of the Northeast, will be visited on a regular schedule by herd classifiers.

Last month the counties in Delaware and Eastern Maryland were classified. Below is a state-by-state and county-by-county listing of when other Area I Holstein Association members can expect classifiers to visit their area.

For specific dates and hours in your county, contact your Holstein Association fieldman or the local office in Harrisburg

Wool growers choose new chairman

KAYCEE, Wyo. — Don Meike of Kaycee, Wyoming is the new Chairman of the Board of the National Wool Growers Association, elected at their 116th annual meeting in San Antonio last week. Meike has served in several positions of leadership prior to his election and previously served as President of the Wyoming Wool Growers Association

"There is a great deal of opportunity in the sheep industry of the future," Meike said, "and I look forward to the continued progress of the industry.

The Meike family ranches are near Kaycee in central Wyoming on the Powder River

IN other action at the NWGA convention, Norman Rousselot of Sonora, Texas was elected Vice Chairman of the Board; Steve Gillmor of Salt Lake City, Utah was elected Secretary; and Bob Geaney of Myrtle Point, Oregon was elected Treasurer.

INTRODUCING FOUR NEW TRACTORS FROM ALLIS CHALMERS
(83 6080 4WD PTO HP*)
(83 6080 2WD PTO HP*)
(63 6060 4 WD PTO HP*)
(63 6060 2WD PTO hp*)

Meet the four new powerhouses from Allis Chalmers The new 6080 s with a powerful 83 PTO HP And the new 6060 s power packed with 63 PTO HP Each in two wheel drive and four wheel drive models Four rugged hard charging machines that are built by Allis Chalmers to take on all your farm tasks Plow disk plant cultivate mow and more Versatility to do it all on the farm with the power to make it easy

Power that starts with an Allis Chalmers four cylinder direct injection diesel engine Turbocharged in the 6060 s turbocharged and intercooled in the 6080 s Here s high performance power years of reliability and excellent fuel economy

This is the same Allis Chalmers diesel engine field proven for years in powering other Allis Chalmers machines like Gleaner combines You can count on its dependability and its reserve power system with outstanding torque back up to pull you through tough spots

When you need additional traction and power you ve got it with the 6060 and 6080 four wheel drive models Punch in this gutsy added traction package and go Mechanical four wheel drive pulling power pure and simple

Transfer power into pull with a 12 forward speed transmission in the 6080 s 8 forward speeds in the 6060 s Each with many speeds in the work range between 2 0 and 6 5 mph Large planetary final drives handle the load and do it effortlessly

Big tractor features continue with wet disc brakes and mechanical differential lock A category II 3 point hitch with Traction Booster lower link draft sensing and extendable lower links A big capacity open center hydraulic system Independent PTO of 540 rpm in the 6060 540/1000 rpm in the 6080

The new 6080 s and 6060 s Built to take on all your farm tasks with the power to make them easy

See your Allis Chalmers dealer for a close look at these four new powerhouse tractors

HOMELITE®

Homelite® Centrifugal Pumps

1 EP215-1 One of two new self priming agricultural pumps • Pump body impeller and volute made of corrosion-resistant thermoplastic • Handles liquid fertilizers herbicides pesticides and other salt and alkaline solutions which normally damage conventional aluminum and cast iron pumps • Engine replaced by a pedestal and drive shaft assembly allowing choice of driving power source • Output capacity is variable up to 6 000 g p h through a 1½ suction discharge • Total head up to 110 • Carbon ceramic shaft seals with stainless steel and Buna N rubber* parts • Weight 10 lbs (pump only)

2. EP 220-1 This model also gives you a choice of driving power source such as electric motor or PTO shafts • Variable output capacity up to 9 600 g p h with a 2 suction discharge • Rugged injection molded thermoplastic pump body impeller and volute easily handles herbicides pesticides and other salt and alkaline solutions • Self priming design has built in check valve to provide quick repriming after pump shutdown • Disassembles with a screwdriver • Shaft seals have stainless steel and Buna N rubber* parts • Total head up to 110 • Weight 10 lbs (pump only)

3 AP 215-1 Rugged thermoplastic pumps are ideal for farm and industrial use designed to pump liquid fertilizers herbicides pesticides and other salt and alkaline solutions • High output capacity of 6 000 g p h through a 1½ suction discharge • Four cycle single cylinder engine develops 3 h p • Automatic rewind starter • Magnetic ignition for fast starts • Pump impeller volute and body reinforced polyester thermoplastic to resist internal corrosion • Self priming design uses built in check valve and carbon ceramic shaft seals with stainless steel and Buna N rubber* parts • Weight 32 lbs

4 AP 220-1 Economical to operate and maintain with an output capacity of 8 400 g p h with a 2 suction discharge ideal for pumping liquid fertilizers and pesticides • Pump body impeller and volute are reinforced polyester thermoplastic to resist corrosion • Fast self priming design with check valve gives a 5 ft suction lift in 15 sec • Total head up to 94 ft • Carbon ceramic shaft seals made of stainless steel and Buna N rubber* • Powered by a 4 cycle single cylinder engine with splash type lubrication • High voltage magneto ignition system • Washable foam air cleaner • Weight 32 lbs

Cecil County to hold winter farm meetings

ELKTON, Md — Electrifying Cecil County farmers into the subject area of 'Stray Voltage Problems with Dairy Cows" will be Larry Stewart of the University of Maryland's Agricultural Engineering Department during the 1981 Dairy Day Dairy Day is Tuesday, February 17, during the Cecil County Farmer's Winter Meetings.

The same week, Cecil County farmers will be eager to return to the Calvert Grange Hall located on Route 273, to hear Galen Dively, University of Maryland Extension Entomologist and one of the national authorities on I P M. (Integrated Pest Management) speak on a controversial statewide subject of Soil Systemics.

Dively will focus his subject material to the economical justification of application or non-application of soil systemics i e. Furadan, Mocap, Counter and Thimet

The Cecil County Dairy and Agronomy Extension Advisory Councils planned two outstanding educational days - Tuesday, February 17 (Dairy Day), and Thursday, February 19 (Agronomy Day) for the Cecil County farmers

The planning committees believe that the subject matter presented during these two days will help the Cecil County farmer keep abreast of current trends and management ideas

For further information concerning the Cecil County Agricultural Winter Meetings, see or call one of the advisory members listed below or Joy Myers or Ted Haas of the University of Maryland Extension Service Phone 301/398-0200, Ext 181, or 301/658-4041, Ext 181 for the extension office in Elkton, Md

The following Cecil County farmers comprised the two advisory councils for 1981. Dairy Day - Tom Crothers, Robbie England, Bill Haines, Wayne McCoy, Carl Stafford, and George Tyson, Agronomy Day - George McDonald, William Spry, Wayne Stafford, and George and Ronnie Underwood

Sheepmen to study lamb pricing

SAN ANTONIO, Tex — Discussions at the recent National Wool Growers Association meeting in San Antonio, Texas centered around the disastrous plunge recently experienced in the lamb pricing structure nationwide

The NWGA is the nation's oldest livestock organization, representing 100,000 sheep producers in the United States

A spokesman for the organization admitted they were not sure why the pricing structure collapsed, and could not say why in some cases the price of lambs dropped 50 per cent in a six-week period But, the spokesman added, the NWGA was intent on preventing a similar situation in the future

Stewart Cruickshank, president of the Idaho Wool Growers Assn and Chairman of the NWGA Lamb Committee, said there is no clear-cut explanation for the recent fluctuation, but that the NWGA would attempt to mobolize an ad hoc group to investigate and evaluate what happened, and to try to prevent a recurrence

"It has cost our industry literally millions of dollars," said Cruickshank, "and we just cannot affort that kind of situation."

In other action at the convention, the sheepmen agreed to ask President Reagan for his assistance in the area of animal damage control

The White House will be asked to transfer the Animal Damage Control Program from the U S Dept of Interior to the U S Dept of Agriculture by Executive Order Legislative efforts to transfer this program last fall were unsuccessful when the subject became enbroiled in a jurisdictional dispute in a joint House-Senate conference committee

Joe Helle of Dillon, Montana, chairman of the NWGA Animal Damage Control Committee, said that sheepmen will be faced with the dismal prospect of a minimum control program during the upcoming lambing season because of the present structure of the program in the Dept of Interior

He also noted the quickest way to remedy this situation was simply by executive transfer of the program from Interior to the USDA

The NWGA will hold a Board meeting in Washington, D C early in April to discuss this and other issues with newly-elected Congressional leaders and top appointees in the Reagan administration

New spectro-computer can save $60 on dairy feed bills

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

BAIR — Now that we have it, where should we go with it?

In a nutshell, that's the question John Shenk, Penn State ag researcher, posed to forage producers after demonstrating a promising management tool at the February 3 York forage seminar.

That tool is the mobile infrared spectro computer, a complete and compact feed analysis lab installed in a van Equipped with computer terminal, infrared light scanner, a weighing system and microwave oven for drying wet materials, the unit can read and print out an analysis of feed materials in less than two minutes.

Development of the forage analysis computer took five years to study and experimentation and cost a half-million dollars. Shenk estimates it would take $75,000 to put a comparably-equipped van operator on the road full time, serving a group of farmers who would subscribe to the analysis service on a regular, perhaps monthly, basis

"The average dairyman could increase profits $60 to $80 per cow with ready access to this machine," figures Shenk. A $20 to $30 charge per cow per year would seem a reasonable amount for the service.

Calculating a step further, Shenk says it would take a sign-up representing 2500 cows to make the van operation a profitable venture With average family-size herds of 57 cows, one van would have to do feed analyses for only 44 herds to operate in the black.

"That's all it is, just a farm management tool," says John Shenk of the infrared spectro computer, introduced to York forage growers during the county hay clinic.

With an estimated half-million dairy cows in Pennsylvania, there's potential to keep numerous computers blinking away at silages, hay and grain materials

Shenk admits the feeders already doing a top-notch job will not be the operators to benefit the most from the space-age service They're already doing an obviously good job of feed ration balancing.

Those operations that would stand to gain the most from a regular analysis service are the large-number herds, where feed is used in large tonnages and forages can change rapidly in nutrient value

Value of the program depends solely on the accuracy of the feed samples For a true picture of the complete feeding program, all feeds must be tested, since the protein, fiber and TDN in silages must be balanced with that from grains and hay products.

Among the approximately 80 forage producers who came from as far away as Maryland for feed analysis, the computer evoked interest, praise and little doubt that the service will become an accepted part of future feeding programs

How soon, and just who will offer the service, remain the only real questions surrounding the establishment of regular analysis routes.

Some growers were delighted with their computerized forage report cards, while others scratched their heads over the results.

Frank Wilmot, Summit Hall Turf Farm in Gaithersburg, Maryland, came up with a 22 percent protein analysis on a mostly alfalfa with some bluegrass hay made in rotation with the farm's turf cropping.

"Food's an energy source and we can't afford to be as wasteful with it as we've been in the past," Wilmot mused after the meeting He sees the computer as having tremendous potential toward that purpose.

"I think it's neat!" was the reaction of Faith Peterson, who'd brought a sample of the forage for the family's cow-calf operation at New Oxford.

Forage growers clustered around Penn State ag researcher John Shenk and his infrared spectro computer as the mobile lab sampled and analyzed various forage products.

And another dairyman planned to go home and push a pencil, after the computer told him to stop feeding the high-moisture corn stored in his silos and start adding 40 percent supplement to his dairy ration, for recommended levels of protein.

The researchers are now drawing up guidelines for a pilot program to take the van on the road to the feedlots of the state's dairy and livestock operators. Funding of the continued program seems to be the only real roadblock that remains to infrared spectro computer's revolutionizing farm feeding.

In Touch With NFU

Getting the agricultural message across to our urban neighbors is a far-reaching goal for farmers, and one of the toughest chores ahead

Having the ideas heard above the roar of consumer groups' blasts against modern agriculture sometimes makes farm groups feel like their training mules — it takes a 2 x 4 to get any attention

On the other hand, urban dwellers seem to eat up the rhetoric spat out by consumer groups on how farmers are destroying nature's delicate balance with pesticides and herbicides, chemical fertilizer, and on and on

With well-planned and organized propaganda, consumers lead the way in preaching how modern agronomic practices are poisoning people and the meat is somehow desecrated with chemical additives and preservatives

So, how do you reach the millions of city-dwellers to set the record straight?

That question has been the stumbling block of numerous farm organizations, from conservation districts to unions Through media campaigns and speaking engagements, the communications gap has attempted to be spanned

But, how do you get people who've never seen a cow or a field of corn first hand to understand farming — or sympathize with the plight of the farmer?

Sometimes, the city-dweller seeks out information on farming — a rarity, of course, but an encouraging fact

Just last week, I recieved a post card from Ralph S. Rinker, 415 East 52nd Street (A-4E), New York, New York 10022 who actually subscribes to our farm publication and likes what he reads.

Mr. Rinker's request was for the address of the National Farmers' Union "I like their views on ag," he said

To keep our urban neighbors happy and informed, here's the address of not only the national organization, but the Pennsylvania Farmers' union address too

Man O Who?

Horses — most young children, especially of the female gender, love those four-legged creatures

And, I was no exception

When I was growing up on my parents' farm in Hershey, I used to dream of someday having a horse of my own — even a pony would do

I devoured anything written on horses during my trips to the library, and every television series or movie on the elegant equines was on my list of must-see's.

I was fortunate enough to have a neighbor, who also happened to be my best friend, who had a pony of her very own. The brown and white and black Shetland's name was Serina.

On those days when I was allowed to go to stay overnight at Julie's, I'd almost die with anticipation until she'd bring out the pony and we'd set to work brushing and brushing the defenseless thing Finally, after our elbows and arms ached and the pony was suffering from 'brush burns', we'd give her back to the pasture where she'd immediately roll in the mud

When it came time for bed, I'd brush my teeth and sprinkle water on my face — but I wouldn't wash my hands (I hope the dust didn't come off on the sheets now that I think back) I'd finally drift off into dreams of horses and ponies with Serina's sweet scent still lingering on my fingers

Other lessons on the equine world came from a burro and pony owned by an uncle in Lebanon County. Sunday trips 'down-home' were worth all the long gab sessions of the adults when Mom and Dad would stop in at Uncle Herman's and he'd saddle or hitch his four-legged fun

Finally, when I turned eleven-years-old, all my annual Christmas requests and birthday wishes came true My parents surprised my sister and me with a beautiful horse — his coat was chestnut red, his face was graced with a white race, star, and nip, and he had one white stocking. My mother picked the name Charlie Horse for him — I secretly prefered 'Lucky Star' but you know whose name stuck

Charlie and I grew up together He put up with a kid who made him swim in puddles and jump over barrels He patiently stood while I practiced gymnastics and stunts I'd seen at the State Police Rodeo — most times falling flat on my face

Charlie is now a quarter century old (about 125 human years) and has traveled and moved with me since my graduation from college to live in Berks County and Wayne County Now, until our farm's barn is readied, Charlie is back home again in Hershey — and he's still as frisky and full-of-heart as he was the first day I set eyes on him Even though he's a Quarter Horse, he's all thoroughbred

Speaking of Thoroughbreds, Jenny Cave of Dexter, New York has written to me for information on the greatest race horse that ever lived (and he was the same color as Charlie, with almost identical markings) — Man O' War

She writes·

"I'm in a program at my school called Learning Lab II and I'm going to write a book about Man O' War, the race horse.

I don't have enough information about him and I was wondering if you would help me get it. I'm waiting for a letter from the Jockey Club in New York City. And I'm going to write to Faraway Farm in Kentucky where Man O' War was retired.

Anything about horses will be greatly appreciated.

Jenny, I salute your ambition Writing a book about the greatest race horse in history is no small task. But, I caution you to be careful your book is your book and not someone else's ideas

To help you with reference material, I suggest you get in touch with your local and state libraries. There, you might sign out periodicals of the times when Man O' War was racing and standing at stud — thousands of magazine stories have been published on the famous red runner.

Our Lancaster Public Library's reference librarian Bob Graham cited several books containing facts on the great race horse As a matter of fact, one book is strictly on Man O' War — that's the title of a book written by Walter Farley, published by Random House, copyrighted in 1962

Several others include David Alexander's book, A Sound of Horses: The World of Racing from Eclipse to Kelso, published by Bobbs-Merrill, copyright 1966; Dick Francis' Sport of Queens, published by Harper, copyright 1969; Who's Who in Thoroughbred Racing by Ned Welch, printed by Northland Press, 1965, and David Woods' Fireside Book of Horse Racing, published by Simon and Schuster, 1963

That's a start Good luck — here's hoping you cross the finish line in record time

Pond Bank Installation

- NO ENERGY NEEDED
- Simple Installation
- Easy Maintenance

Pressure System Installation

Our Automatic Freeze-Proof Waterer was developed in Missouri with the help of Soil Conservation Service personnel. No external source of energy is required because the hardware in this waterer is designed to keep 100 gallons of water ice-free. The water supply can be a pond, dam, or pressure system. A specially built valve arm holds the intake valve above water so there is no backflow of livestock drinking water to the water supply.

N.Y. cattlemen to run performance tested sale

ITHACA, N Y — Forty-five or more performance tested bulls will be offered at the New York State Bull Test Sale at 7 p.m. May 1 at the Livestock Pavilion on the Cornell University campus at Ithaca

The bulls will have completed a 140 day test under uniform conditions at Cornell's research center at Harford All of the bulls are registered and will be available for service on a limited basis this summer

Forty-three breeders have 71 bulls enrolled in the test Those offered for the May 1 sale will have met certification requirements as to 140 day gain ration and weight per day of age ratio as well as a minimum frame score (three for British breeds and five for Continental breeds)

A committee will have appraised each bull for structural soundness and a Cornell veterinarian will have examined each bull for breeding soundness including rectal and scrotal palpitation and scrotal circumference measurement

Following the final weigh-in April 20 and 21 all performance information will be catalogued and made available on request to Bill Greene, Room 110, Morrison Hall, Ithaca, N.Y. 14853 or 607/256-7712

Bill Greene, livestock extension associate at Cornell, said the sale will offer excellent herd bull prospects for both registered and commercial breeders

Almost all beef breeds are represented in the Bull Test program which is sponsored by the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association, Cooperative Extension, the animal science department at Cornell University, and the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets

There are 29 Angus bulls, 17 Polled Hereford bulls, nine Simmental bulls, four Charolais bulls, four Red Angus bulls, two Shorthorn bulls, two Beefalo bulls, and one Welsh Black bull on the test.

The Bull Test gives the producer an opportunity to have his bull evaluated for economically important and genetic improving traits under uniform conditions.

The Bull Test Sale gives cattle producers of both registered and commercial cattle an opportunity using performance information to select herd sires that will upgrade their herds

"Better bulls will mean heavier calves for feeder sales and feedlot as well as better gaining and genetically improving breeding stock," Greene said.

The 1980 Bull Test Sale was marked by a capacity crowd, good prices, and the excellent quality of bulls offered The 1981 Bull Test Sale promises to be even better, he concluded

Lancaster District to meet

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County Conservation District will hold its cooperators meeting and banquet on Thursday evening, March 19

The annual gathering will be held at the Harvest Drive Motel and Restaurant, Intercourse Affair begins at 6 30 p.m

Guest speaker for the evening will be John R. Sheaffer, president of Sheaffer and Roland of Chicago, Illinois.

The engineering firm works with farmers and municipalities on environmental problems His firm designed the methane system at Mason-Dixon Farms in Adams County

Two regional marketing meetings set for early March

SELINSGROVE — A regional meeting for direct marketers will be held Monday, March 9, 1981 in the Community Room at Boscov's Shopping Mall, Selinsgrove.

If you are a direct marketer interested in programs related to advertising, promotion and pricing, then you may want to attend this meeting.

Ransom Blakeley, extension marketing specialist from Cornell University, will be the main speaker. Blakeley has worked as an educator and consultant to direct marketers for many years and has participated in conferences in several states throughout the country He is recognized as a leader in his profession.

At the Selinsgrove meeting Blakeley will speak on techniques for pricing farm products and developing effective advertising and promotion programs

Several experienced farm marketers also will share their experiences with advertising and promotion They are Mrs. Tom Styer, Lycoming County; Kathy Whitenight, Montour County; Jeanne Sierer,, Snyder County; and Ronald Rohrbach, Columbia County

Representatives from radio stations and newspaper publishers have been asked to tell how they can help direct marketers develop timely and effective advertising programs

Direct marketers will have the opportunity to hear Blakeley speak the following day, Tuesday, March 10, in Lackawanna County The meeting will be held in the Ramada Inn, Chinchilla.

Blakeley's discussions at that meeting will be concerned with farmer's markets and how they are organized and operate in New York State

Other speakers on the program are Carol and Robert Daniels, Carbon County, and Paul Shoemaker, Northampton County, They will discuss their pick-your-own operations and other special retail marketing programs.

Commercial exhibitors with products of interest to direct marketers will be present at each conference

Plan to make your reservations early. More details concerning the Selinsgrove meeting are available from Jeffrey Mizer, County Agent, Courthouse, Middleburg, PA 17842.

For the Chinchilla meeting, contact Tom Jurchak, County Agent, 200 Adams Avenue, Scranton, PA 18503.

Bargain bulls could be white elephants

STATE COLLEGE — Can you imagine paying hard earned cash for the opportunity to lose money? That is what most cow/calf producers are doing when they buy a "Bargain Bull," according to State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell

"One of the largest expenses at any one time is the purchase price of a bull," the Bucks County dairy farmer said "The buyer of an untested, low-price bull may get a false sense of security in lowering the cost of beef production In most instances, the kind of bull purchased has a far greater influence on the cost of production than just the purchase price "

Approximately 87 percent of the genetic make-up of a calf is determined by the last three generations of bulls used This factor can make a bull selection a make-or-break decision for the cow/calf producer

A total of 86 bulls from 63 differenct producers, representing six different breeds, began a performance testing program at the Department's Meat Animal Evaluation Center in October

"The primary purpose of the test is to identify those bulls that are genetically superior in the more efficient production of red meat.

At the end of the 84 days on tests, the Average Daily Grain for all the bulls at the center is an impressive 3.45 pounds per day. The Polled Herefords is 3 18 pounds per day

Twenty-seven Angus bulls have an average daily gain of 3 42 pounds per day The average daily gain for the 17 Simmentals is 3 71 pounds per day And the five Charolais bulls have an average daily gain of 3 88 pounds per day

The four Chianina bulls on test have an average daily gain of 3.79 pounds per day. The only purebred Limousin bull on test has a 3.11 pounds per day average daily gain.

"The test officially ends March 4 All bulls will be indexed and the top 75 percent will sell in Pennsylvania's 8th Performance Tested Bull Sale which will be held on Friday, March 27, 1981, starting at 12 noon," Hallowell said

March 13 from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16801

MDMU threatens Pa. sweet corn

HERSHEY — Maize dwarf mosaic virus has been recognized as a pathogen of corn in Pennsylvania since the early 1960's, reports John E Ayers, Department of Plant Pathology, at Penn State

At that time two strains were recognized, namely MDMV-A and MDMV-B MDMV-A was known as the Johnsongrass strain because of its ability to survive in this weed. MDMV-B became known as the non-Johnsongrass strain because it could not be reproduced in Johnsongrass.

When MDMV was first found in Pennsylvania, strain B was the most prevalent To date, no one has conclusively demonstrated how MDMV-B survives in the absence of corn, Ayers said

Reported damage attributed to MDMV seemed to decrease in the late 1960's and early 1970's in dent and sweet corn In recent years, MDMV has caused more concern, particularly among sweet corn growers

There are many examples of late planted, MDMV susceptible varieties that were severely damaged by the disease MDMV-B is no longer the major strain of the virus in the state. MDMV-A is now identified about as frequently as MDMV-B. This is assumed to be related to the spread of Johnsongrass.

Recent research has shown the growth stage of the plant at the time of infection is critical to the amount of yield loss realized. Experiments with Bonanza and Stylepak indicate that infections occurring near the time of pollination result in larger losses than infections occurring at earlier growth stages.

Other research suggests that disease incidence may not be a good indicator of the loss attained. Some varieties exhibit a low incidence of disease but show a greater reduction in yield when infected than do other varieties which exhibit high levels of disease.

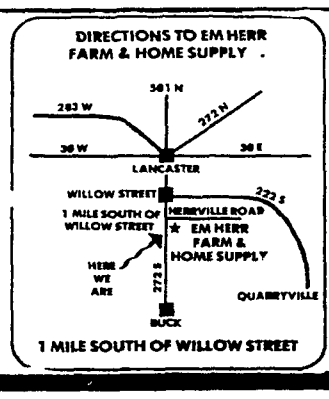
Serving The Industry Over 20 Years



Legislature will affect future of family farms

DOVER, Del. — Here, as across the nation, the future of the family farm is receiving public attention

The structure of agriculture is changing, points out Gerald F Vaughn, Delaware extension specialist in community and resource economics There is a pronounced trend toward fewer and larger farms, greater specialization in production, and more dependence on the nonfarm sector.

Thus, the 1980's may be a decade of key decisions on the family farm survival issue

Concerns about the structure of agriculture have both economic and social aspects Although there are wide differences of opinion on the importance of changes in the structure of agriculture, three issues appear to have become the focal point of concern efficiency, control, and social values

Efficiency gains, associated with larger and more highly integrated farm operations, vary widely from commodity to commodity In crop production it is generally believed that a single family farmer employing no more than one or two hired laborers is as efficient as larger scale operations

However, larger farms may have advantages in purchasing inputs and in marketing These advantages, plus the larger absolute net income associated with a larger volume of sales, have resulted in a continuing trend to larger farms

In livestock production, efficiency gains are associated with larger scale integrated production and marketing systems Such gains have been particularly apparent in the poultry industry and apparently exist in cattle feeding and hog production as well

Offsetting efficiency gains associated with large-scale farming are potential adverse effects of increased concentration of land ownership and control of production and marketing decisions As competitors in an industry become fewer in number, economic theory suggests that the acquire market power to raise prices

In addition, over time, added costs may be built into large-scale farming operations through nonprice forms of competition, complacency, and the lack of strong competitive pressures Such increased costs potentially exist if and where agricultural becomes highly unionized

Social concerns in the farm structure debate revolve around the merits of the family farm as a cultural institution, the importance of land ownership as a part of the family farm, and the impact of fewer and larger farms on rural communities

A California study shows that communities dominated by highly industrialized, integrated agriculture and concerned land ownership are characterized by a lower level of economic activity, fewer community services, less participation in political activities, and less participation in social and religious institutions

The weight our society places on these social considerations could have an important impact on the legislation Congress enacts affecting the future structure of agriculture.

Within the basic structure of American agriculture, three trends emerge, according to Vaughn First, a large and growing proportion of farm families earn a majority of their income from off-farm jobs The growth in off-farm employment has been fostered by increased availability of nonfarm jobs in rural areas and by participation of farm wives in the labor force

A second trend is the shift from family farms to larger-than-family farms and to industrialized farms The trend to larger-than-family farms appears to be occuring from within agriculture as expansion-oriented farmers continue to buy out smaller farmers

The trend to industrial farms is more pronounced in some commodities than in others For example, most of the poultry and processed fruit and vegetable industries have already moved to industrial farming Steps in the same direction are currently under way in hog and beef feeding

Crop production agriculture remains a stronghold of the family farm, but even here, the question arises If much of agriculture is composed of larger-than-family and industrial farms, can family farms survive in crop agriculture?

Third, while a characteristic of American agriculture has been ownership of one's farming operation, an increasing proportion of the farmers own only a portion of the land they farm

However, increasing nonfarm ownership is evident

While most legislation affecting family farmers was enacted in the interest of family farmers, it has often had just the opposite effect. Policymakers at work drafting legislation for the Food and Agriculture Act of 1981 are considering a number of alternative strategies for reversing the declining role of family farms in U S agriculture

For a fuller discussion of family farm policy issues, contact Gerald F Vaughn for Factsheet #4 of the series devoted to food and agricultural policy issues for the 1980's

The factsheet analyzes seven family farm survival policy alternatives that Congress may consider, 1 - free market, 2 - directing farm program benefits, 3 - taxation, 4 - antitrust and open market maintenance, 5 - control of entry, 6 - government services to family farms, and 7 - family farm cooperatives

A free copy may be obtained by writing to Vaughn at Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19711

Return on investment theme of meeting

HERSHEY — Badger Northland, the Kaukauna, Wisconsin based full line farmstead equipment manufacturer, held its eastern national sales meeting recently at the Hershey Convention Center

Over 350 dealers, distributors, representatives and wives attended the three day event which featured new and existing Badger equipment along with outside speakers who gave insight into the agricultural marketplace

The theme of the meeting, Return on Investment, stressed that agricultural equipment dealers such as Badger's would have to become increasingly aware of new farm management techniques in order to assist their farmer customers in the running of their operations In that the Pennsylvania area is heavy in dairy production, this segment was featured.

Highlights of the meeting included the introduction of Badger's new Feed Weigher-Mixer and other feeder equipment which will allow livestock raisers to mix high energy, complete blended rations right on their own farms

Other highlights included the exhibition of Badger's complete line right in the convention center

Awards were also given to outstanding Badger Dealers for sales efforts over the course of 1980 Awards were presented to the following dealers in the categories.

SOLID MANURE SYSTEMS Taul Equipment, Inc , Cecilia, KY, James G Manson, Fort Covington, NY

LIQUID MANURE SYSTEMS Taul Equipment, Inc , Cecilia, KY, Marcel Morissette, Inc , St. Claire, Quebec, Canada.

Attends milker school

LANCASTER — John A Keith, 121 E Lemon, Lancaster, has attended a week-long Milker Systems Seminar at Albert Lea, Minnesota, at the factory of Universal Milking Machine Division of Universal Cooperatives, Inc

Keith received training in the practical installation and servicing of pipeline milking systems, bulk coolers, automatic pipeline cleaning equipment, and the evaluation of detergents and cleaners

The week-long course covered basic fundamentals, planning of pipeline systems, installation problems and their solutions He was also trained in advanced practices of modern milking and good sanitation procedures.

Part of the seminar included inspection of modern installations on a number of dairy farms in a variety of situations. These included various types of systems and installations on both large and medium size farms where a good analysis of cost and efficiency factors were obtained

Other events tentatively slated by the York Holstein Association include an April bus tour to Perry County, the Summer Field Day and Picnic on July 22 at Bupplynn Farms, a county show, August 13 at the York Fairgrounds, and the annual meeting and banquet at Avalong Farms, October 23

Feed aid payments hit $66.1 million

WASHINGTON, D C — The $36 4 million received by U S livestock producers during December under the U S Department of Agriculture's emergency feed aid program brings to $66 1 million the amount of program payments in the first quarter of fiscal year 1981

The October through December payments are nearly triple the total paid out under the program during all of fiscal year 1980, according to Edward Hews, acting administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Hews said payments are heavy because of widespread drought conditions in the Midwest and the South

Hews said the $66 1 million in federal assistance has helped livestock producers buy 2 5 billion pounds of feed, about 44 million bushels corn equivalent

Participants may be reimbursed for up to 50 percent of the cost of feed purchased The maximum authorized amount of cost share assistance was increased Aug 11, 1980, from two cents to three cents per pound of grain equivalent

HERSHEY — Three Pennsylvania tomato growers were honored Tuesday during the 1981 Vegetable Conference, held here at the Convention Center

The State Champion Tomato Growers' Club annually recognizes growers who produce outstanding yields of tomatoes for processing The organization is sponsored by Penn State and the Tomato Processors of Pennsylvania

This year's winners include John E Mason, Erie County, Leon Epler Farms, Northumberland County, Raymond Martin, Snyder County.

Thomas Osborn, Erie County Extension Agent, was honored by the group for his contributions to the state's tomato industry.

In the Machine Harvest (75 to 99 acres) Division, John E. Mason, R1 Lake City produced 1617.07 tons of usable tomatoes on 84 acres to become the champion tomato grower. John averaged 19 25 tons per acre of usable, machine-harvested tomatoes for which he had contracted with Keystone Foods, Inc.; Welch Foods, Inc.; and Redwing Co , Inc

A combination of about ½ million Speedlings from Georgia and 35 acres of plug-mix seedlings were used in this operation with the varieties VF-134, US-28, and Early Red Rock" (PSU 5253 ERR) used in both categories Other varieties grown from Speedlings were C-37 and 77B-68 (US-68). Peto-80 was only used in the plug-mix seedlings

A small trial plot area established in cooperation with County Agent Tom Obourn included several promising numbered selections Most notable were C-38, 77-B-68 (just named and released as US-68), and Ferry Morse's F-6203.

C-38 yielded the equivalent of 42 1 T/A of reds, 3.1 T/A greens and 2.2 T/A rotted in a once-over, destructive harvest of 5 adjacent plants in a row (unreplicated) grown at a 5'x1' spacing (8712 plants/A). Using the same harvest sample method 77B-68 produced the equivalent of 32.3 T/A reds, 2.7 T/A greens, and 3.9 T/A rotted The calculated yields for E-6203 were 31 3 T/A reds, less than 1 T/A greens and 3.5 T/A rotted All grew under extremely wet conditions throughout most of the season

Because Speedlings hold longer in the flats, handle better, and produce a more uniform stand, all transplants this year were 'Speedling' types grown in Georgia

John rotates with field corn at least every two years but is attempting to rotate more and more of his tomato acreage annually with field corn However, in fields where he will plant tomatoes for a second consecutive year, he always sows a rye cover crop shortly after the first years' tomato harvest.

Rows were spaced 5 feet apart with all transplants set at 1 foot intervals and plug-mix drops set at 10 inches in the row. John uses a 3-row Mechanical Transplanter with standard fingers to set the Speedling transplants. In an average day (9 hours) he can plant 80,000 to 100,000 plants Two people follow the planter, mainly to keep the boxes filled with plants, also to watch for skips.

He can direct-seed about 1½ acres per hour with his 3-row Mechanical Plug-Mix Planter John increased his plug-mix acreage by 10 more acres this year, since he recently acquired the capability to irrigate about one-third or more of his total acreage. During a dry planting season irrigation is very essential for a good stand from the plug-mix plantings.

Mason explained no manures were applied and Penn State soil test recommendations for total lime and fertilizer needs were followed. A starter solution using 18 pounds of 10-52-8 in 200 gallons of water per acre was applied at planting time.

A week after planting, John side-dressed with 250 pounds of 10-20-20 per acre and at blossom time with 30 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre Plants were shallowcultivated about four times using a 3-row Nobil (Danish tine) cultivator.

For weed control in most transplanted fields a tank-mix of 1½ pints of Treflan plus 3 quarts of Tillam per acre was preplant incorporated to a depth of 3 inches; some fields received a preplant treatment of Devrinol

Approximately three weeks after transplanting ¼ pound at Metribuzin per acre was applied as a broadcast spray over the plants. When necessary, the Metribuzin application was repeated later in the season A combination of herbicides were used in the plug-mix operation, including Devrinol, Amiben and Metribuzin

Ethephon, used to stimulate the ripening process, was applied to all tomatoes at the highest labeled rate using a John Beam sprayer with a 45-foot wide boom. Insecticides and fungicides were also applied with this sprayer, using 50 to 60 gallons of water per acre as a carrier. Pesticides used included Guthion, Manzate, Parathion, Difolatan, Bravo, Systox, and Kocide. This was the first time John needed to use Kocide for Bacterial Speck control

Except for a few acres of hand-harvested tomatoes (not included in the above production figures), Mason used a 1971 model Button-Johnson with a total crew of 15 to machine-harvest all tomatoes The machine and 10 to 12 men and women sorters, supervised by wife Sue, operated for about 6 to 7 hours per day; sometimes harvesting over 100 tons a day. Harvesting began about 8.30 a.m and rarely went past 5 p.m with a 45 minute lunch break. This schedule was particularly suited to the women sorters who had school-age children.

For the first time all of the crop was harvested directly into bulk dumpers and then hauled to processing plants in bulk semi-trailers

Last year John won the Champion Tomato Grower Award for the Class 3 Machine Harvest category.

Leon Epler Farms

Leon Epler Farms, R1, Northumberland, produced 586.71 tons of usable tomatoes on 30 acres to become the Class 4 Machine Harvest Champion Tomato Grower for 1980 Epler Farms averaged 19 56 tons per acre usable, machine-harvested tomatoes for Furman Canning Co

Varieties and number of Georgia-grown transplants used were 129,000 US-141; 80,000 C-37; 26,000 Red Rock; 16,000 US-68 (formerly 77B-68) and 14,000 US-28. US-68 tended to shatter and fall off the vine prematurely under this season's hot, very-dry conditions and thus may not be grown on the farm next year.

Field Manager Dan Van Kirk indicated that the farm follows a three-year rotation pattern of winter wheat, sod (orchardgrass-timothy-clover mixture), and then either tomatoes or potatoes. The total farm operation consists of a large retail farm market; 30 acres tomatoes; 84 acres potatoes; 200 acres alfalfa; 300 to 350 acres field corn; a 20,000 layer poultry operation and 160 dairy cattle.

Transplanting began about May 15 and ended about May 29 using a 3-row transplanter comprised of two Powell units and a Holland unit, all with standard fingers. Spacing was 5 feet by 1 foot.

Van Kirk indicated that about 10 tons of poultry manure was applied to the sod during the summer of 1979 and that the tomato fields received 1½ tons of lime last fall. He followed Penn State soil test recommendations for fertilizer needs.

All fertilizer was applied broadcast prior to planting. No side-dressings were applied. A starter solution using 15 pounds of 16-32-16 in 275 gallons of water per acre was applied at planting time.

For weed control a tank-mix 3⅔ quarts of Tillam plus ½ pound of Sencor 50 WP per acre was preplant incorporated to a depth of 3 to 4 inches. About five weeks after transplanting, ¾ pound of Sencor 50 WP was applied as a broadcast spray over the plants. Since the weather had been sunny, warm, and dry immediately prior to the post Sencor treatment, no foliage injury was observed even at this ¾ pound rate. Plants were shallow cultivated about two weeks after planting and again after six to seven weeks.

Two timely overhead sprinkler irrigations were credited as being the most important cultural practice followed in growing this season's processing tomato crops. Two inches of irrigation was applied at blossom-time and 1½ inches in late July when most of the fruit was about the size of golf balls Since US-68 (formerly 77B-68) was the earliest maturing variety, it may not have received the irrigations soon enough because its fruit size was smaller than usual

The following insect and disease control spray program was used July 3 — Cygon 267 + Bravo tank-mix, July 24 — Copper Count N + Dithane M-45 tank-mix, August 14 — Kocide 101 + Dithane M-45 tank-mix

The copper sprays were included because there was a little Bacterial Speck early in the season According to Mr Van Kirk these sprays eliminated almost all Speck except for some on Red Rock at harvest time

Because of the hot, dry weather, less than 50 percent of the tomato fields received the normal ethephon application The earliest maturing 10 acres with the heaviest foliage received 6 pints of Ethrel per acre, the middle 10 acres received only 3 pints per acre and the latest maturing 10 acres received no Ethrel application Despite these scheduling treatments, all of the tomatoes were still harvested in a two-week period (August 28-September 13) because of the weather

A 1973 Model Button-Johnson self-propelled tomato harvester with an electronic sorter was used to harvest the crop The machine and 8 men and women sorters usually operated from about 7 a m to 5 p m with a 30-minute lunch break The tomatoes were harvested directly into the bulk semi-trailers used to haul them to the Furman plant

Although the dry, dusty conditions were hard on the sorters, these same conditions were very conducive to full operating machine efficiency

Leon Epler Farms previously grew processing tomatoes through 1968, then dropped the crop because of problems with migrant laborers They began growing tomatoes again in 1979 after buying the Button-Johnson harvester Next year they would like to expand their tomato acreage if they can receive a good contract price

Raymond Martin

Raymond Martin, R3, Selinsgrove, won the award for the highest tomato yield in the Class 4 Hand-Harvest competition for growers with 5 to 14 acres

Martin picked 159 01 tons of tomatoes for Furman Canning Co on 5 acres for a 31 80 per ton acre average yield Varieties grown were H-1370, C-37, US-141, US-28, Red Rock and Pik-Red (only 2000 plants) Georgia-grown transplants The latter [illegible] fresh-market variety which did not hold up well later in the season

Part of the 5-acre tomato crop followed a sod crop and part followed corn stubble Although Penn State soil test recommendations were followed for the commercial fertilizer and lime applications, liberal amounts of mixed cattle and horse manure were also applied Martin attempts to obtain a population of about 7000 plants per acre by spacing his transplants 5 feet between rows with 15 inches between plants in the row

At transplant time (May 12 to 26), Martin used a starter solution comprised of 3 pounds of 10-52-8 per 50 gallons of water Although a herbicide was used, Martin also cultivated and spot hoed the field Because of access to water from a creek nearby, several timely overhead sprinkler irrigations were applied to this crop The irrigations were probably the key to Raymond Martin s success this past season

For disease control Bravo was alternated with a tank-mix of Kocide 101 plus Dithane M-45 Diazinon, Guthion, and Sevin were used for insect control A boom sprayer was used for all pesticide applications.

Family and neighbors were employed to hand-harvest the crop Tomatoes were picked into 5/8 baskets and then dumped into a straight truck bed which was lined with polyethylene Since no ethephon was applied to ripen the crop, each field had to be picked four times The first delivery to Furman s was on August 14 and the last delivery was on September 30

Only the above three contestants entered this year's contest, therefore no entries were received in any of the other Classes

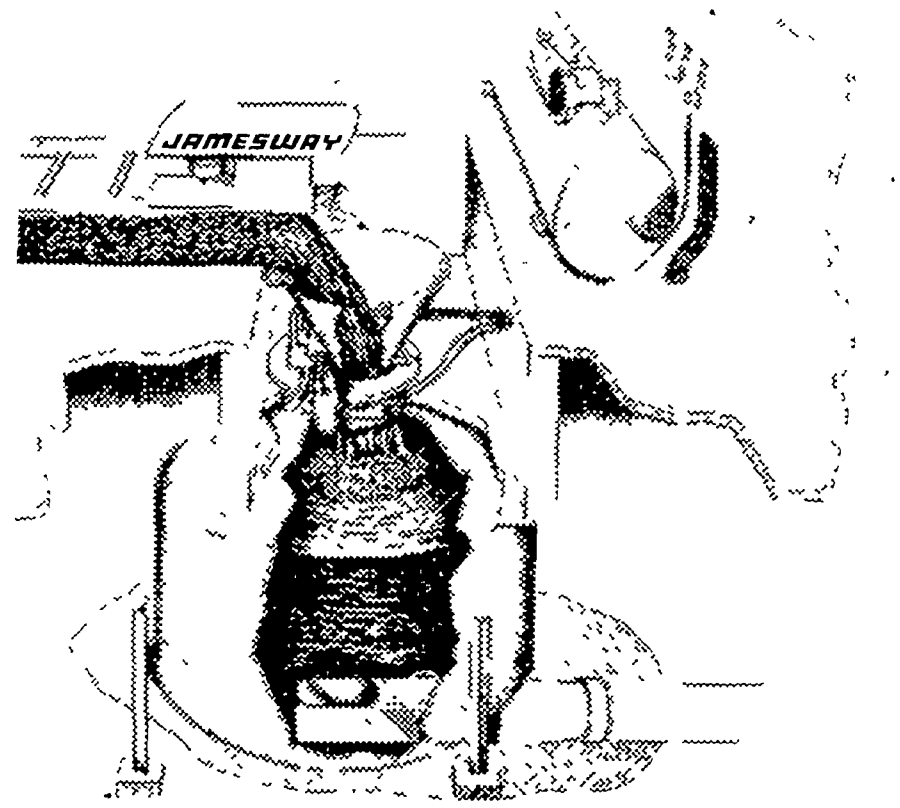
JAMESWAY® Air Pressure Manure Transfer System



Does hard work for you

Whatever your herd size—50, 150 or more—let air pressure move manure to storage in minutes. It's simple: your gutter cleaner, alley scraper or tractor-scraper, delivers manure "as is" to a steel holding tank. A twist of your wrist then seals the tank; manure agitates and moves to the storage basin, as much as 300 ft. away, for later spreading. No rams, gears, reducers or delays.

See us for systems and service that help make the good life better.

Ferretti discusses promising tomato varieties

HERSHEY — Most of the tomato varieties which appear to offer great promise for the 1980's will be for fresh market uses, some for processing and a few may be acceptable for both purposes, said Peter Ferretti of Penn State's Dept. of Horticulture

Many of the fresh market types can be termed multipurpose because they are equally acceptable for greenwraps, pinks or red ripes, he said

The first successful firm, large-fruited, small-vined tomato variety for fresh market use is Pik-Red (formerly Red Pak) It should be grown only on plastic mulch for early crops of pinks and red-ripes It was the first major tomato variety to show a large response to plastic mulch The newer varieties, Count, Duke, and Freedom also appear responsive to plastic mulching.

Jet Star is included primarly for comparative purposes It has soft fruit when compared to Pik-Red However, in tests under heavy stresses, it was the most productive all season

Baron has a smaller vine and is as early as Jet Star It is a heavy producer of jointless, firm, good flavored, large fruits, and may be used for a machine harvest process type A good Early Blight spray program is needed when growing this variety.

Early Bush 76 is similar to Baron but has a vine about twice as large (still a small, determinate vine), and has jointed fruit which are firmer It is a multi-purpose, non-machine harvest fresh market variety

In tests last year, Count was probably the best-performing tomato variety. Using the Agway Penetrometer test, it was as firm as Floradade even after eleven and fifteen days after picking It is a highly productive, multi-purpose variety for all fresh uses and possibly processing, since it is jointless and maintains its firmness.

Duke has larger fruits than any of the other new, jointless varieties. The fruit is quite firm and the vine is smaller than Count but larger than Baron or Early Bush It was also an impressive producer on black plastic mulch last season under wet conditions Fruit flavor is especially good Because of the very large fruit size, cat-facing could be more severe under poor growing conditions, said Ferretti.

Freedom has a somewhat larger vine than Count but still is determinate and fairly compact when compared to older varieties It is jointless and quite productive both unmulched and on black plastic mulch. It appears to ripen over a longer period than most of the above, so it may be especially good for pink-ripes, red ripes, and bedding plants sales to gardeners.

Calypso fruits are quite smooth and maintain a consistently uniform, medium-large fruit size for pink-ripe and red-ripe sales. The fruits tend to lose their firmness too quickly for extensive greenwrap use.

Royal Flush should be more widely grown for pink and red-ripe markets and as a bedding plant variety. It has no cracking or anthracnose and was the most productive fresh market variety in 1980 in Erie County despite the wet weather.

Floradade has become a "standard" greenwrap because of its extreme firmness. However, Floradade cautioned growers to go slowly with it because of only medium to medium-large fruit sizes. It appears to be far more promising as a machine or hand-harvest processing variety, he said.

Both Floradade and Count should be superior to Heinz 1370 for hand-harvest processing, according to Ferretti.

Ace-Hy is a late season tomato with about the same fruit size and yield as Duke and a vine size best described as vigorous but determinate (larger than Freedom).

In the strictly-processing varieties, Campbell 38 V, F was similar to C-37 but much more productive. In a once-over destructive harvest of 5 adjacent plants in Erie Co., the estimated yield was 42.1 T/A reds; 3.1 T/A greens; and 2.2 T/A rotted. Like C-37 it has medium-large fruit (4.26 oz.) which are jointless but hard to pull; good foliage; excellent crack resistance and good storage on the vine.

USDA hybrid 77-B-68 (just named and released as US-68), was the next highest in yield in Erie County with 32.3 T/A reds estimated from 5 adjacent plants, Ferretti reported. At Landisville it produced the highest yields (25 T/A mean) with the most reds (80 percent at the first picking on September 8). Fruits of this heavy, early yielder closely resembled Red Rock in internal and external characteristics, except that it is slightly smaller.

Ferry Morse's E6203 is an early variety with good yield potential. When grown in the Northumberland area, it was larger than Red Rock but not quite as firm In a once-over destructive harvest of 5 adjacent plants in Erie Co., it was third highest in yield with 31.3 T/A reds; less than 1 T/A green; and 3.5 T/A rotted.

In replicated Landisville yield plots, US-141 had the highest marketable tonnage over two harvests (26.7 T/A), except for Red Rock.

"Although the above varieties appear to be quite promising based on research data demonstration plot results, and prior experiences of some commercial vegetable growers, the ultimate value of a variety must be determined by the grower under management and environmental conditions. A small trial planting which includes current standards is always recommended before adopting any variety not previously grown," Ferretti concluded.

Penn Manor FFA wins contest

LITITZ — Penn Manor FFA took both the top team and individual honors at the Lancaster County Farm Mechanics Contest at Warwick High School.

The Warwick FFA finished in the runnerup team spot.

Topics covered in the contest included tractor maintenance, tractor operation, arc welding, power tool operation, small gas engine repair and forge work.

The competition featured 75 test questions, 24 problem solving activities and 12 demonstration skills.

Tomato diseases cost Pa. growers $$

HERSHEY — Bacterial speck and early blight are among the three most costly diseases of tomatoes in Pennsylvania, according to Alan A MacNab, of Penn State. Anthracnose fruit rot is the other major disease on processing tomatoes

Bacterial speck symptoms, caused by the bacterium Pseudomonas syringae pv. tomato, include tiny raised black specks on green and ripe fruit, and small dark spots associated with torn areas on leaves .Fruit symptoms result in serious grade reductions in fresh market tomatoes and green wraps, and are a problem in whole-pack processing tomatoes because the specks frequently can not be removed with the skin.

Bacterial speck is promoted by cool weather, relative humidity of at least 80 percent, a long dew period, blowing and splashing rain, and continuous culture of tomatoes.

The disease organism is thought to survive on seed, and overwinter in soil for one year.

Early blight, caused by the fungus Alternaria solani, is the most important defoliation disease of tomatoes. It is characterized by numerous 1/4- to 1/2-inch diameter leaf spots with concentric rings Leaf spots and evident defoliation appears first on the oldest leaves . Yield reductions of over 50 percent have occurred where disease is prevalent and control is not attempted

Early blight is promoted by long periods of high relative humidity (above 90 percent RH for 60 or more hours within 5 days), moderate to heavy rainfall (1 or more inches in 7 days), long leaf wetness periods from rain or dew, and moderate temperatures when leaves are wet (69 to 77 degrees Fahrenheit is optimum).

Controls include rotation, use of disease-free transplants produced from hot-water treated seed in pathogen-free soil, and use of appropriate fungicide programs, said MacNab

Speck has been controlled consistently by a tank mixture of maneb plus fixed copper where applications were made weekly and coverage was good, he pointed out Early blight is controlled by regular applications of Bravo, Difolantan, maneb, Polyram, and zinc-iron maneb. Costs of four spray programs expected to provide control of both speck and early blight range from slightly under $100 to nearly $200

Switch fertilizer tanks

to a Calumet vacuum tank with soil injector

Liquid hog manure can save thousands of dollars in commercial fertilizer costs. So it makes sense to preserve that value with good management.

That's why Calumet recommends pairing our vacuum tank with a 2 or 4-shank Calumet soil injector. Soil plow down retains about four times the nitrogen lost with surface spreading, plus reduces odor and runoff

Stop in to see the full line of Calumet vacuum tanks — in capacities from 1180 to 4500 gallons and choice of two vacuum pumps And ask about the benefits of using a Calumet 2 or 4-shank soil injector

Robin Earnest, the 1980 Milton Tomato Harvest Queen, was on hand to honor the top tomato growers during the Annual Vegetable Conference held this week in Hershey.

Tomato queen honors growers

HERSHEY — Seventeen-year-old Robin Earnest of R3 Milton wears the crown of a queen. Actually, she holds the title of 1980 Milton Tomato Harvest Festival Queen.

Robin, who is a senior at Milton High School, is the daughter of Norman and Nancy Bailey. Crowned last September, the blonde-haired, blue-eyed beauty served the tomato and vegetable industry on Tuesday during the annual meeting here by awarding recognition plaques to top tomato growers of the year.

Along with the annual meeting, Robin explained her responsibilities also included overseeing the week-long tomato festival held at Milton in September. She said the town puts on spaghetti dinners and even hosts a football game called the 'Tomato Bowl'.

After graduation from high school, Robin said she plans to attend nursing school in Reading

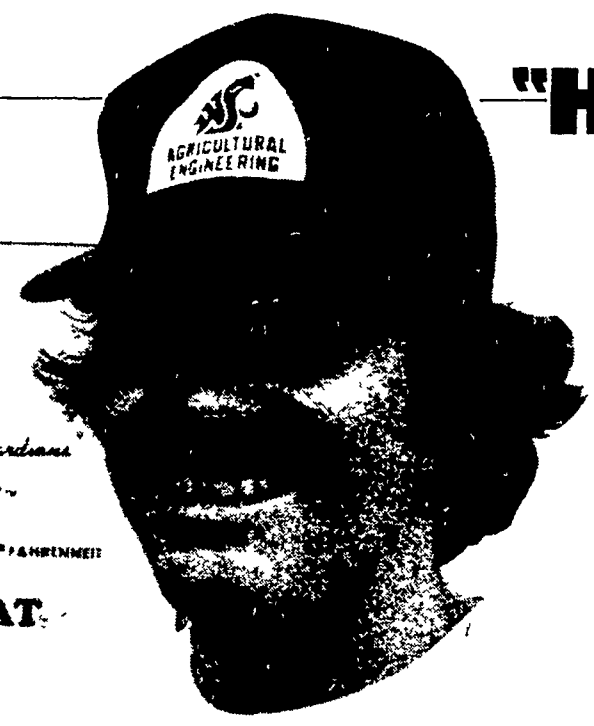
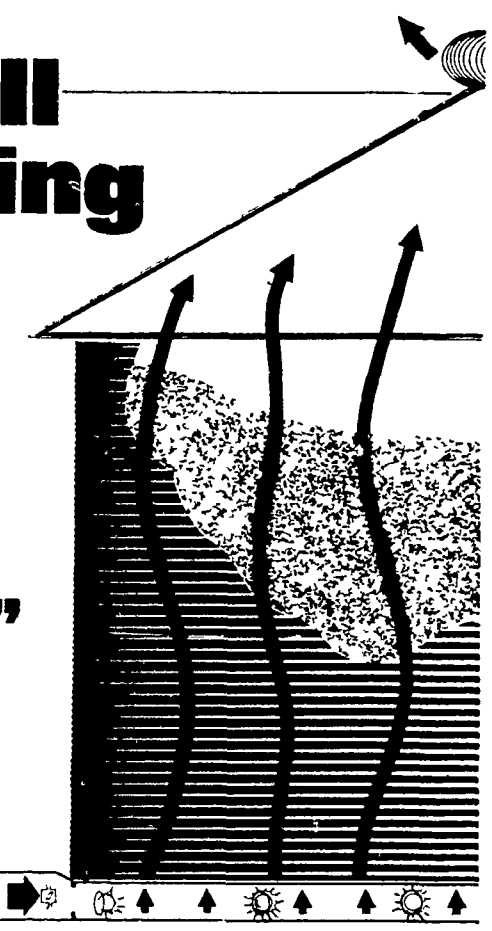
"Harvestall Chillcuring works. It is the most profitable part of my operation."





GREG ESHELMAN
Mohnton, PA

I really couldn't be more satisfied First of all I like the efficiency at harvest. With just two of us working, the entire harvest was nonstop

Then the 5¢ per bushel curing cost even included power for installation and our night light.

My buyer was quite impressed with my corn Test weight was from 57 to 58 lbs. That means I got an extra $300 per 25 ton truck load Even the drivers commented on the good quality

I'm an Ag Engineering student at Penn State, and we do a lot of work with drying systems Out of curiosity I ran the Harvestall design through our computers and found that, for the most important aspect of drying air flow, the Harvestall bin is the optimum design

Actually, the Harvestall is the most profitable part of my operation. With better marketing control I make an extra dollar per bushel For the farmer who needs storage or drying, the Harvestall Chillcuring system is the best investment I can think of

The Harvestall Chillcuring System

It's simple When grain comes out of the field it's a living seed So instead of destroying the seed with high heat, moisture is removed with natural air ventilation The grain keeps all its feed value, there is less shrinkage than with heat drying because only moisture is removed, not dry matter You'll never see white dust in Chillcured corn You actually save half of what you're used to losing in heat shrink

There's no gas or oil to buy. Natural air carries away heat and moisture as the corn releases it

Harvestall Chillcuring is a back-to-basics system that just simply makes good sense Find out more about it

Growers listen to latest on bean rots

HERSHEY — Bean root rots and pod rots are the two most important diseases on beans in Pennsylvania, according to Alan MacNab, of Penn State's Plant Pathology Department.

Bean root rots, characterized by root discoloration and rotting, can result in plant stunting, yellowing and dying of leaf margins, up to a 30 percent yield reduction, poorer quality pods, and a 30 percent increase in time required to grade harvested beans

Bean root rots are caused by three fungi that may affect plants separately or in combination.

Disease is most severe when beans are cropped continuously in the same field, a practice that allows buildup of the fungi in soil, and when conditions promote slow seed germination and plant growth such as poor drainage, wet soil, nutrient imbalance

Much research has been conducted to develop varieties with root rot resistance, with the ability to produce high yields and with high quality primarily by three researchers M. Dickson, New York; D. Hagedorn, Wisconsin, and Silbernagel, Washington.

Line 767, developed by Dickson, has good root rot resistance and produces good yield. Three newer New York lines (528, 543, and 547) are thought to have good quality.

Wisc. (RRR) 46, developed by Hagedorn, is the third and best of three lines (following #83 and 77) developed in Wisconsin. It has good root rot resistance and has the potential of producing high yields.

Some plant breeders believe varieties with useful root rot resistance soon will be available for commercial use.

—Rotate beans with other crops.

—Use well-drained soil.

—Seed as shallow as possible.

—Treat seed with thiram or captan.

—Use Demosan as an additional seed or soil treatment

—Provide adequate and balanced fertility levels.

—Avoid close cultivation that breaks roots.

—Plow under refuse soon after harvest.

Bean white mold pod rot, caused by the fungus Sclerotinia sclerotiorum, is a serious problem in wet seasons, reported MacNab The fungus causes a wet rot on plant stems and on pods; during wet conditions, a dense white mold develops on rotted areas.

Harvested beans are acceptable for processing only if less than 5 percent of pods are affected Above 5 percent, removal of rotted pods is not economically feasible.

During wet conditions, white mold can develop very rapidly A field with an acceptable level of white mold one day frequently can have an unacceptable level the following day.

Early harvests may help avoid white mold problems However, harvesting before most beans are mature results in lower yields

Benlate sprays are labeled for control of white mold on snap beans, he pointed out

Trials were conducted in commercial fields in 1979 and 1980 to help determine whether the spray program is effective and economical to use Sprays were applied with a boom sprayer equipped with three D4-25 hollow-cone Tee-Jet nozzles per row, one nozzle over the row and drop nozzles at each side of each row.

Disease occurred in 1979, a year with rainfall levels slightly above average, but not in 1980, a year with rainfall levels much below average. The recommended fungicide program resulted in a significant reduction in stalk rot (from 31.3 to 2.8 percent) and pod rot (from 2 3 to 0.1 percent), and a significant increase in yield (from 2 2 to 2.6 T/A)

The grower-cooperators compared cost of the spray program with value of increased yield associated with the spray treatment. Assuming: Benlate cost $12/pound, two applications would be made at the rate of 1 pound per acre, application cost is $4 per acre per application, price per ton of beans is $165, and yield is 2 tons per acre, it appears that a grower should spray to increase yield 0.2 tons per acre on 100 percent of the acreage, increase yield 0 5 tons per acre on 40 percent of the acreage, increase yield 1.0 tons per acre on 20 percent of the acreage; or prevent loss of beans (by rejection) from 10 percent of the acreage, concluded MacNab

"Our present recommendation for white mold control is to apply Benlate 50% WP at 1 lb./A when first blossoms open, and at 1 lb /A about 7 days later. Accurate timing and coverage are essential," he said.

How to plant, manage apple trees

HERSHEY — How do you plant and manage an apple tree in its first season?

This question was posed to Fred Amberg, a nurseryman from Geneva, New York His task was to translate and transfer his expertise gained over the years in Germany to the orchard people gathered together for the Pa. Horticultural Association's annual meeting.

In a dialect denoting his origins, Amberg advised the group to plan their orchards well ahead so they can adequately prepare planting sites and order sufficient trees.

"You should begin at least two years ahead," he said. "You need to check for nematodes and then fumigate if necessary Those two years will allow enough time to get nutrient levels up to where they should be, with a pH of 6 to 6 5."

Amberg stressed the uselessnes of trying to fertilize trees by putting chemical nutrients in the planting hole He stated the lateral roots would be out of the 10-inch diameter auger hole in the first year —with the fertilizer out-of-reach — and the tap root doesn't take up the nutrients.

Adding a touch of humor, Amberg confessed nurserymen like to get trees out of their way as early as possible. So the trees usually arrive at the farm three weeks ahead of schedule

Growing serious, Amberg warned against storing the young trees in an apple storage facility until planting time

"Apples give off ethylene gas. This gas kills trees. Even one bushel of apples in your largest room will kill your trees," he stated.

Amberg advised the group to store the trees in a cool place, around 30 to 35 degrees Farenheit, with roots kept covered and moist Before planting, he recommended cutting out any suckers that may have started and checking the structure of the tree

"You should have at least 16 to 18 inches of root stock below the bud, with 8 inches of root This gives you enough room to play with in determining planting depth without the danger of exposing roots The stem should be straight — if not, send the tree back to the nurseryman and let him worry about what to do with it "

The methods used in planting trees in today's orchards, Amberg noted, include augering holes or using a 'tree planter'. The latter method, he said, tends to produce an undesirable hole with the outer edges dried out, especially when the holes are dug in the morning and the trees aren't planted until afternoon

Should the trees be watered after planting? "Yes," said Amberg, because water tends to fill up the holes between the roots and seems to help prevent 'replant' disease.

In closing, Amberg suggested staking all newly planted trees — a temporary wooden stake will suffice and should be driven in next to the trunk

Staking will help prevent funneling around the base of the trunk, a situation created by the wind whipping the young tree around and loosening the soil around the trunk, he said. It will also allow rooting to occur in the top six inches of soil at a faster rate, Amberg concluded, which will help the tree in total production potential over the years.—SM

Schuylkill to hold dairy day

CRESSONA — The Schuylkill County Extension Service will conduct an educational program for dairymen on Wednesday, March 4, 1981 at the Goodwill Fire Company Hall in Cressona.

Two Penn State University extension dairy specialists will be featured on the program.

Stephen B. Spencer will speak on the topics of Heard Health and Mastitis Control and will also make a presentation to update information on milking systems and energy conservation dairy equipment

Michael L. O'Connor will discuss various ways to improve dairy cow breeding efficiency, controlled heat periods and embryo transplants.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. and adjourn at 3 p m. Advance registration with a fee of $2.00 is required and can be made by contacting the Extension Office on or before February 24, 1981.

For further information contact J. Allan Shoener, County Agent - Agriculture, P O. Box 250, Schuylkill Haven, PA 17972 (telephone 717/385-3431).

Apple production increases

HERSHEY — Apple production is on the increase in Pennsylvania, stated Donald Ricks, Department of Ag Economics at Michigan State University. He was addressing a room filled with fruit producers during the 122nd Annual Meeting of the State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania, Inc here on Tuesday.

Ricks followed Anthony Rubino of Blue Goose Growers, Inc. of Hagerstown, Maryland on the program.

Rubino emphasized there is a new consumer generation today that doesn't like wax on apples, cucumbers, or color added to oranges Vegetable and fruit producers need to consider their market and keep their commodities desirable for the consumer, he said, especially since production and supply are increasing

Rick, using tree census data gathered at Michigan and in other states, predicted apple production to continue to expand despite acreage reductions.

He noted the growing numbers of younger trees, just beginning to reach bearing age. Of these trees, he stated 92 percent or greater are of the size-controlled varieties — growers are dozing out their old standard orchards.

The most popular apple with numbers on the rise, he stated, is the Red Delicious while older varieties, like Jonathan and York Imperial, are realizing a downward trend.

He pointed out dual purpose apples are increasing in number, whereas the the single-purpose processing apple is on its way out

Rick concluded by questioning the producers, asking "can we expand demand fast enough to keep profitable prices for our apples in light of increased production?"—SM

™ PSE Corp.

The Process

The ensiling process is best described as "the fermentation of plant carbohydrates by certain species of lactic acid bacteria "

Leaving the ensiling process completely to nature is, at best, a risky management practice Delayed or uncontrolled fermentation can substantially reduce silage tonnage and nutritive value

The addition of viable, selected probiotic organisms, to assist nature in the production of lactic, acetic, and propionic acid, speeds up the fermentation process assuring high yield palatability, and nutritive quality

Sila-Base is the effective, economical, and easy way to make sure your high-moisture feedstuffs are adequately preserved with the potential of improved quality Whether it's haylage, oatlage, corn, sorghum, alfalfa, or high-moisture grain silage in pit, trench, or upright silos, Sila-Base is best

The addition of Sila-Base in conjunction with good forage management practices including cutting the crop at the right stage of maturity, chopping with proper equipment, assuring correct dry matter/moisture balance, compacting forage adequately to enhance bacterial activity, will yield a high-quality feedstuff with a brighter color and better smell

The Product

Sila-Base is a dry granular product that won't bridge or cake when used in mechanical applicators, and spreads easily when broadcast by hand

Sila-Base is packaged in easy-to-handle 50 pounds bags Application through a mechanical applicator mounted at the cutter bar or blower, or by hand-broadcasting over the top of each load of silage at the following rates is recommended

THIS FARM FAMILY FINDS SECOND USE FOR TOUGH-BUILT RED BEDDING CHOPPER

Like every other dairy farmer, Carl and Jim Hostetter, RD 2, Annville, must sometimes feed first cutting alfalfa to their 82 milking cows. When they must, the Hostetters use the tough-built, red bedding chopper from US Farm Systems of Pennsylvania. This barn chopper cuts the hay stems into short lengths. And the cows appreciate the chopper's work. The high producing cows eat more hay. Give more milk. Leave less wasted hay in the manger.

"We used the bedding chopper to chop course hay to mix with our silage," Jim said. "And the cows increased production. With the short stems the cows ate more hay. And drank more water. Before we used the bedding chopper to cut the course hay, we had to remove and throw away at least four bales of hay each day."

Of course, the Hostetters use the red bedding chopper to chop bedding every day too. "We keep the cows noticeably cleaner," Jim said. "And we save labor. I can bed 82 cows in 20 minutes. Before we had the chopper, it took three men to shake out the straw by hand."

The Hostetters find the gasoline engine on the red bedding chopper uses only 1½ gallons of fuel in seven days of bedding 82 cows each day. For the fun of using figures, Jim says that's about 383 stalls per gallon.

"We were looking for a bedding chopper for a long time," the young dairyman said. "But we just didn't find one that completely satisfied us until dad saw the red bedding chopper at the All American Dairy Show in Harrisburg last fall. That's all it took. We liked the many different cut lengths we could get on the 'red one'. And since we have it, we certainly wouldn't want to go back to the old way of bedding cows."

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

New Castle County, Delaware, farmers face a real moral dilemma when it comes to their attitudes about a new landfill

No one wants a landfill, or dump as we used to call them, in the neighborhood And no one can blame the residents of southern New Castle county for not wanting one in their neighborhood The suggestion of several sites simply involves more people in the battle and poses a threat to more citizens

After the hearings are all held and the last citizen has been heard, it looks as though the Delaware Solid Waste Authority has the power to do whatever it wants to do anyway But maybe it s better that this governmental agency post its shopping list and then let the outcry begin

In that way, perhaps it can find the one least objectionable site and then develop it

But that s still not going to solve the problem, at least for those farmers and other concerned citizens who must coexist with it If we assume the Solid Waste Authority will listen to all of the pros and cons and then make the best possible decision and pay a fair market price for the selected site, do opponents still have an argument?

They probably do, but if they do, they must admit that the old argument that a farmer has the right to do anything he wants with his land just doesn't hold up For whatever he does with that land that isn t a traditional use upsets someone

Maybe he wants to buy junk cars and start a salvage yard, or maybe build mushroom houses, or how about a camp for juvenile delinquents?

A landfill is just one of many objectionable uses for agricultural land-one that a lot of agricultural folks can rally around, especially when the fill ingredients come from an urban area

Most farmers seem to take the position that they do have the right to use their land just about as they see fit If that means selling off some lots for housing, that's okay But as we've already seen throughout Delaware, that kind of strip development causes problems for other farmers

If they decide to develop a swine feeding operation that draws flies and smells bad, then they create problems for the entire area, and so some agency of the government steps in and reminds them of the rights of others. And maybe that's part of the key to this whole land-use problem

Maybe a farmer has the right to do whatever he wants with his land as long as that use doesn t interfere with the rights of other people, and if it does, maybe his rights aren't paramount

Taking that a step farther, if a government agency-in this case the Solid Waste Authority-is willing to pay for a parcel of land, that property then belongs to the agency

Do neighbors still have the right to object just as they would have objected to a smelly hog house? And does the landowner, simply because it's a government agency, have the right to ignore these objections any more than a private individual would?

Obviously, Wilmington's waste has to go somewhere and it probably costs less to put it in a landfill in southern New Castle County than anywhere else But is that the only criteria, and are those sites selected by the agency the only possibilities, or are those just the ones that it thinks are best?

Maybe someone has a better idea

Every time there's talk about farmland being used for something besides farming, there's a great hue and cry about the loss of agricultural productivity and yet farmers still want to maintain the right to sell their own farmland for residential development.

Is it any more harmful to agriculture to devote a few hundred acres to the solution of an urban disposal problem than it is to allow hundreds and hundreds of acres to be gobbled up for dwellings and farmettes for urban people who would like to live in the country?

It seems to me the loss of an acre of farmland is a net loss to agriculture regardless of the use. And if farmers object to landfills because they use farmland, they must also object to rural residences because of pollution, nuisance or other factors the same way they might object to some other nonagricultural use that causes a specific problem, then at least they're being consistent.

I suspect southern New Castle County is going to get a landfill whether it wants one or not. It's more a matter of site selection and price per acre. The county has posted its list of possibilities, and now it's up to the citizens to advise it as to the one least-objectionable location

Area farmers will no doubt have a lot to say during this process I just hope they remain consistent in their attitudes so as not to confuse folks even more in the whole area of farmland preservation

SCS president suggests water conservation

LEBANON — A leading State conservation official called for communities and landowners to consider all possible ways of returning waste water to the land to recharge declining ground water levels.

George Wolff of Lebanon County, President of the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, pointed out that the more land is paved over and the more home and agricultural wastes are piped away, the quicker the area will feel the effects of a drought Community officials and landowners must be innovative in finding ways to safely return waste water to the land

Spray irrigation of sewage effluent has been proven to be feasible by experiments at Penn State Caution must be used regarding hazardous chemicals, added Wolff, but this can be handled through monitoring and regulation

Spray irrigation can also be used to return animal waste to the soil and at the same time increase crop productivity. Wolff recommended that farmers with large numers of livestock develop an animal waste management system to assure proper and full utilization ►

Technical assistance is available through county conservation districts and cooperating agencies such as the Soil Conservation Service and the Cooperative Extension Service Financial cost share help is available through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service

Wolff summed it up with a personal observation "Two years ago sewers were installed in the area near my farm All this waste water is piped out of the neighborhood, and now people are having wells go dry that never went dry before, not even in the five-year drought of the 1960s

Ag Secretary pushes positive letter support

HARRISBURG — State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell Tuesday urged Pennsylvania milk producers in Federal Order areas to continue their use of the "Positive Letter" in 1981 to support milk promotion programs

Hallowell said, "It is vital that present milk promotion programs in the state be continued Questions have been raised concerning the effects of a statewide milk marketing order, but until such a program is in place, producers should continue to participate in existing promotion programs"

He noted producers in Federal Order 2 must renew their positive letters for another year beginning in April.

Milk producers in Pennsylvania's other two Federal Orders are urged to remain with their promotional programs, especially in view of anticipated record surpluses this spring

Hallowell noted the actual date at which the proposed Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Program may take effect is uncertain The process of drafting, public hearings and a referendum must be completed before such an order could be adopted for the industry.

"Budgeting and planning for the Federal Order areas for 1981 have been based on the continued support of Pennsylvania dairymen Producers should continue to support these agencies to prevent disruption of existing programs," Hallowell said

Nix, Bradley to head Farm Credit board

WASHINGTON, D C. — Wm Dale Nix, a rancher and cattle feeder from Dallas and Canadian, Texas, was elected chairman of the Federal Farm Credit Board at its meeting this week. Marvin R. Bradley of Speedway, Indiana, was elected vice chairman

Nix succeeds Ralph N Austin, Westcliffe, Colorado, and Bradley succeeds David C Waldrop, Newberry, North Carolina.

The Federal Farm Credit Board establishes policy for the Farm Credit System and the Farm Credit Administration, the independent Federal agency which supervises, regulates, and examines the System

Lending units of the System include the Federal Land Banks, which make long-term farm mortgage loans through Federal Land Bank Associations, the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks, which provide funds for short- and intermediate-term farm loans by local Production Credit Associations and other financing institutions, and the Banks for Cooperatives, which make loans of all kinds to agricultural, aquatic, and rural electric cooperatives The System has nearly $70 billion in loans outstanding

Nix operates a ranch and feeds cattle in commercial feedlots which finish cattle to slaughter weight. He is a former director and current member of the Canadian Production Credit Association and the Spearman-Pampa Federal Land Bank Association, a member of several cattlemen's organizations and the Farm Bureau, and a former member of the board of directors of the Farm Credit Banks of Texas.

He is a graduate of Texas A&M University in College Station with a B S degree in agricultural administration specializing in marketing and finance Nix represents the Tenth Farm Credit District, which serves Texas He was appointed to the Federal Farm Credit Board in 1977

Bradley was secretary-treasurer, chief financial officer and director of office services for the Indiana Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Inc , in Indianapolis before his retirement in 1977. He holds memberships in various Farm Bureau cooperatives and is the past president of the National Society of Accountants for Cooperatives

He has served on the Federal Farm Credit Board for five years and represents the Fourth Farm Credit District which serves Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee

Twelve of the 13 members of the Federal Farm Credit Board are appointed by the President of the United States with the advice and consent of the U.S. Senate

The 13th member is appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture and serves at the pleasure of the Secretary. Members serve part time, meeting regularly six times a year

Kenneth J. Auberger, deputy governor and chief examiner, Farm Credit Administration, was re-elected secretary to the board Auberger resides in Potomac, Maryland.

Tips to repair your home safely

YORK — The upkeep of any home can be costly if you have to call a professional plumber each time a faucet leaks, a light won't work or the toilet overflows With the right tools and some simple instructions almost any homeowner can do these things for him or herself says John Lamberson, home economist

Before you attempt any repairs know where the fuse box or circuit breaker box is in your home—know how to disconnect the main switch Know which lighting and convenience outlet circuits or fuses control each room or groups of outlets— label them!

Know where to shut off water at the main valve for the home. Know where you can turn off the hog water and valve on the cold water inlet to the water heater tank Also know if there are shut off valves to each hot and cold supply to the sink, toilet, (cold water onlyh) washer and dishwasher

If you have gas, know where you can turn off the supply to each appliance as well as to the whole house. If water pipes burst at or near an electrical appliance, do not step in the water until you have turned off the electricity. Then unplug the appliance before mopping up.

If the entire home is full of water, call the fire company The water could be charged with electricity And always unplug appliances before working on them

Penn State to promote ag training in Sri Lanka

UNIVERSITY PARK — Improvements in teaching, research, and outreach of agriculture in Sri Lanka, formerly Ceylon, will be the goal of several Penn State faculty members over the next five years Headquarters will be the University of Peradeniya near Kenday, the third largest city on this tropical island.

Largely an agricultural nation, Sri Lanka imports large amounts of food, especially rice The government has given high priority to self sufficiency in food production, says Robert H McAlexander, director of international programs at Penn State's College of Agriculture

Current programs at the University of Peradeniya stress teaching, with minimal research and extension efforts, McAlexander noted Penn State faculty members will assist in developing facilities, research, and courses of study They will also aid in training Sri Lanka students to work in agricultural development

"Our assistance will enable the faculty at Peradeniya to meet better the increasing demand for agriculturally trained individuals," Dr McAlexander stated

The work is already underway and is financed by the U S Agency for International Development and the Government of Sri Lanka Coordinating the project is the Academy for Educational Development, a non-profit organization located in Washington, D C

Specific goals are (1) to double the present 400 bachelor of science degree students by 1985, (2) to triple the number of 25 advanced degree candidates, and (3) to upgrade programs by improving both the courses of study and the faculty

Penn State is one of three universities involved in the technical assistance project The other two are Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University and Texas A & M University

Personnel in Penn State's Departments of Agronomy and Food Science are responsible for those portions of the project Several Penn State faculty members will spend time in Sri Lanka ranging from three months to two years

Several junior faculty members from the University of Peradeniya are studying at University Park for doctor of philosophy degrees Others are attending VPI and Texas A and M Plans call for 38 faculty members to study for doctor of philosphy degrees under this program

From years of involvement, this type of assistance has the greatest potential for making long-range impacts at minimal cost It will train native Sri Lankans to solve their own problems in agriculture and food production," McAlexander commented

He added the governments of developing countries must make a commitment to give high priority to agriculture and to education — a decision often lacking

About 70 percent of the Sri Lankans live in rural areas The major agricultural exports are tea, rubber, and coconuts These account for 70 percent of the foreign exchange earnings, made up 30 percent of the national income, and give employment to 20 percent of the work force

A considerable amount of rice is grown However, most of the rice is grown in small plots involving a large amount of human labor with little machinery Adjacent small plots are often planted at different times since there is inadequate labor to harvest large areas at one time.

While human labor is common, small two-wheeled tractors are noticeable These are used both in farming and for tansportation Animal agriculture includes beef and dairy cattle, water buffaloes, sheep, goats, chickens, and ducks — but not much food processing exists

The current aid project has a distinct opportunity for success," McAlexander said, although there are many obstacles and a long way to go Senior faculty members at Peradeniya have been trained abroad, in most cases, and realize the needs of their country. Junior faculty members and students are eager to learn and are receptive. There is a spirit of enthusiasm and friendliness"

Order 4 milk price $15.42

ALEXANDRIA, VA — Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D Shine Thursday announced a Class I milk price of $15.42 per hundredweight for March 1981.

This price is up three cents from the February price and is $1.27 above the March 1980 price.

Order No. 4 prices are announced for milk testing 3.5 percent butterfat, f o.b plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia, and also within 75 miles from the nearer of Washington, DC or Baltimore, MD.

There is also a six-cent direct-delivery differential applicable to producer milk received at plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia.

Shine announced a Class II milk price of $12 69 per hundredweight for January 1981 and a butterfat differential of 16 9 cents for the month. The Class II milk price is unchanged from the previous month while the butterfat differential decreased by one-tenth of a cent.

These class prices are based on the January 1981 Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price of $12 64 per hundredweight adjusted to a 3.5 percent butterfat content

The USDA reported that the wholesale price of Grade A butter at Chicago for January was $1 4725 per pound and the nonfat dry milk price was $ 9373 per pound, f o b plants in the Chicago area

The USDA announced an estimated 3 5 percent Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price of $12 80 per hundredweight for the month of March 1981, an increase of ten cents from the February estimate

Roadside market meeting to begin

GETTYSBURG — Rising energy costs indicate tough times ahead for direct-to-the-consumer marketers of farm products. So says John W. Gird, Extension energy programs specialist and agricultural engineering instructor at the University of Maryland.

Gird is expected to expand on this statement when he speaks Monday morning, February 16, at the 14th annual Maryland-Pennsylvania Roadside Marketing Conference.

The conference will run from Sunday evening through Tuesday afternoon, February 15 to 17 at the Sheraton Motor Inn, located two miles south of Gettysburg, on the business route of U.S. highway 15.

Gird points out that the direct marketing business is particularly sensitive to high energy costs because farmers are already faced with devoting 30 percent of their expense to fuel bills.

They must pass these higher costs of production on to consumers if they are to stay in business And fewer consumers may be willing to incur the additional time and gasoline expense to shop at roadside markets "off the beaten track."

"There are no simple solutions to problems raised by the energy outlook," Gird cautions. But he lists some suggestions which may help to make things easier for roadside marketers:

Carefully choose your location;

Collectivize into farmers markets;

Make plans for fuel conservation on tractor engines.

The roadside marketing conference is again sponsored by the Extension Service at Penn State and the University of Maryland, with support from an informal consortium of farmer-to-consumer marketing organizations in the two states.

Gird's talk will be part of a full Monday morning general session devoted to "Energy and the Direct Marketer." Other program topics will include estate planning and cost control.

Maryland residents may obtain additional information from county Extension agricultural agents or from Jarvis L Cain, Extension marketing specialist and professor of agricultural and resource economics at the University of Maryland in College Park; phone. 301/454-3807.

Drought workshop

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce and the Department of Environmental Resources are co-sponsoring a half-day workshop on February 24 in Harrisburg, to explore the problems caused by drought conditions which now exist in 50 of the state's 67 counties.

The session is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. in Harristown Building 2 at 333 Market Street. There is no charge, but because attendance is limited to 200 persons, those who would like to participate should call the State Chamber at 717/255-3268.

Subjects to be covered include the extent of the drought, the 1981 outlook, and methods for conserving industrial water usage. DER officials will discuss actions taken or contemplated by DER and the Delaware River Basin Commission, and local rationing plans presently being considered.

In addition, spokesmen will offer suggestions on how industries can conserve water usage.

Governor Dick Thornburgh declared a drought emergency in 50 Pennsylvania counties last November 16. As of January 16, 69 water systems in the state were experiencing severe water shortage problems, and 27 of them have instituted rationing plans.

DER has reported some water supplies have ebbed to 30-day reserves.

The last major drought to hit the Northeast lasted from September 1961 to September 1966, and affected 50 million people in 14 states. It increased unemployment, reduced crops, and led to a record number of forest fires.

Dairy-livestock day to run March 2

UNIVERSITY PARK — Dairy and livestock producers will have "their day" March 2 at Penn State

College of Agriculture staff members will host the first combined Dairy and Livestock Day, to be held in the J.O Keller Conference Center at University Park.

Registration is set for 9 a.m. March 2 with the program beginning at 9.30.

Dairy and Livestock Day features recent research findings at Penn State, according to the conference co-chairman, Lowell L Wilson. The event also gives farmers, scientists, and extension specialists an opportunity to discuss the results, he added.

This will be the first time for a combined Dairy and Livestock Day at Penn State, it was pointed out Previously, these biennial events were held as separate dairy and livestock days

The morning's general session March 2 will include two nationally prominent authorities on livestock prdouction and energy Robert H. Rumler, Executive Chairman of the Holstein Association of America, Brattleboro, VT, will discuss "Challenges and Opportunities in Animal Agriculture in the 80's"

Rodney O Martin, Director of Farm Systems Research and Development for Agway, Inc, of Syracuse, NY, will describe "Alternative Energy Sources and Energy Conservation in the 80's."

Afternoon topics will be divided into dairy, beef cattle, sheep, and swine sections. Up-to-date reports will describe research and demonstration projects carried out within the Department of Dairy and Animal Science

The annual Cattlemen's Banquet March 2 will feature an address by W T "Dub" Berry, Jr, Executive Vice President of the National Cattlemen's Association. Berry's topic will be "Financing and Marketing in the 1980's."

The 7 p m. banquet at Gatsbys, State College, requires a $12 pre-registration by February 26

The banquet fee should be mailed to 410 J O. Keller Conference Center, University Park, PA 16802 Make checks payable to the Pennsylvania State University and indicate for Cattlemen's Banquet.

Fulton Grange reviews meeting times, dates

OAKRYN — Thomas C. Galbreath, Master, presided at the regular meeting of Fulton Grange No. 66 Monday evening at the Grange Hall in Oakryn

A correction on the time of the Pennsylvania State Grange regional conference to be held at Kutztown February 28 was made. It will begin at 1 p m instead of 10 a m as was previously reported.

There is also a similar meeting at West Chester February 28 at 7:30 p.m.

Thomas C. Galbreath, chairman of the membership committee, reported that the committee, Mr. and Mrs. Aldus Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bradley, J. Everett Kreider, Clifford Holloway Jr , and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Galbreath, met Jan. 28th. The first four degrees will be conferred Saturday, April 25.

Clifford Holloway Jr., Chairman of the tour committee, reported the committee met February 6 and planned a one-day tour to Tangier Island in May and a three-day tour to Virginia in October. Others on that committee are Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kreider, Mr. and Mrs Charles McSparren, Mrs. Holloway and Mr. and Mrs William Rhoades.

Mrs. Thomas Galbreath, chairman of the Women's Activities committee, announced the sewing contest which ends April 15, the needlework and stuffed toys contest which end in August.

The prices for the April 4 turkey supper will be $5 for adults, $2.50 for children under 12 years and children under four years will be free.

Thomas Galbreath reported several Grange men spent two days the past week cutting down old trees on the hall grounds.

Resolutions of respect on the deaths of L.E. Moore and Mrs. Adaline P. Edwards were adopted.

The chairman of the Young Marrieds committee, Edward L. Zug, introduced Robert H. Kreider, who showed beautiful slides and told about a trip he was on last year which took him through the Netherlands, Belgium, Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy and Austria.

Harry Temple, Little Britain, will present a program on Crime Prevention at the next meeting, February 23.

The Classified Livestock Section Has Beastly Selections!

Smaller acreage, freeze mean higher veg prices

LITITZ — Smaller acreages of the major fresh vegetables, plus a damaging January freeze in Florida, will mean sharply higher prices this winter.

The index of prices received by farmers for fresh market vegetables stood at 250 (1967=100) in December 1980, compared with 196 a year earlier. The index is expected to increase further this winter, and prices may average 15 to 20 percent above a year ago.

Smaller supplies of canned and frozen vegetables, plus increased marketing costs, will keep prices for processed vegetable products also substantially above a year ago

The January 1, 1981, planted acreage of vegetables for fresh market was down four percent from a year ago Assuming average yields, output would have been six percent smaller than last year's bountiful harvests but still slightly above 1978 and 1979

Smaller production was expected for broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, sweet corn, escarole-endive, lettuce, spinach, and tomatoes But, prior to the freeze, larger production was expected for carrots, snap beans, eggplant, and green peppers.

On the nights of January 12 and 13, Florida temperatures dipped below freezing and remained there several hours. Further damage occurred January 19.

Generally, the damage to vegetables was greatest on the southwest coast and less severe south and east of Lake Okeechobee. Considerable acreage of tomatoes, green peppers, cucumbers, and squash was lost.

Total supplies of fresh vegetables from Florida during February and March could show a drop two or three times the six percent decline expected earlier.

Packs of canned vegetables in 1980 were substantially smaller than in 1979. Most notable were smaller packs of peas and tomatoes, following the burdensome packs of a year earlier.

The frozen vegetable industry also reported smaller packs, and January 1 stocks, at 1.7 billion pounds, were 12 percent smaller than a year ago

Thus, the total supply of processed vegetables for the 1980-81 marketing year is below a year earlier, and some items are in tight supply.

The ESS index of wholesale prices for canned vegetables in January averaged 219.3 (1967=100), 14 percent higher than a year ago. Prices are expected to remain substantially higher until the new pack gets under way next summer.

Fall potato production declined to 265 million cwt. in 1980, down 11 percent from 1979 and the smallest crop since 1973 Potato production was down 14 percent in the Eastern States, 12 percent in the Midwest, and 10 percent in the nine Western States

On January 1, 1981, 144 million cwt of potatoes remained to be sold, 18 percent less than a year ago and 26 percent less than in January 1979 Grower prices this season are the highest in several years

In December, the U S average price was $6 06 per cwt , compared with $3 52 a year ago

With production the smallest on record, grower prices for sweet potatoes during fall 1980 were also the highest in recent years. High raw product prices and a large carryover of canned sweet potatoes from the 1979 crop sharply reduced the pack in 1980, but total supplies will be sufficient for usual needs.

In 1980, the mushroom industry's steady growth was interrupted by large imports of canned mushrooms.

The U.S. International Trade Commission found that the imports were damaging the domestic industry, and the President imposed a schedule of tariffs, effective November 1, 1980, for the following three years It is too early to assess the tariffs' effects on the imports.

U.S production of dry edible beans rose in 1980 to a record 26.1 million cwt.—up 27 percent from 1979 and 38 percent from 1978 Nevertheless, prices for the 1980 crop have been higher, primarily because of large shipments to Mexico and a generally strong export market

Grange asks balanced approach to grain embargo

WASHINGTON, D C — In a letter to President Reagan, National Grange Master, Ed Anderson, has once again appealed for a more balanced approach in the handling of Soviet grain embargo.

Andersen said the Grange's support of the embargo is in jeopardy unless the Administration issues an embargo on all trade with the Soviet Union. Andersen said he is particularly concerned about the approval of export licenses to several major manufacturing companies to supply equipment to the Soviets to build a 3000 mile pipeline to transmit natural gas from Siberia to West Germany

Andersen told the President, "It is a gross inequity to American farmers to limit their export potential while at the same time allow another segment of the economy to conduct business as usual"

Andersen warned that dependence on Soviet gas supplies could make Western Europe vulnerable to the dictates of Moscow and open a wide range of international security and political issues.

He explained further that American assistance in the $15 billion pipeline project amounts to a direct subsidy to the Russian economy.

He said this subsidy comes at a time when the Soviet economy is engaged in an unprecedented buildup of military powr. Andersen said this shows a serious inconsistency and contradiction in foreign policy.

He said, "We are embargoing grain shipments to the Soviets because of their use of military power against their neighbors, while at the same time are ready to subsidize their military economy"

Be there for all five "turns of the vise" as Purina poultry experts show you how to release the financial pressures of commercial egg production.

This year's Commercial Egg Producers' Meeting deals with efficiency — how to make the most of your operation for a greater profit in 1981. Specifically, there will be five sessions, each dealing with practices and procedures that can make a difference in your operation.

The five topics are:

1. Tightening the gap between eggs laid and eggs marketed—without getting caught in the middle.
2. Realizing the effects of proper pullet management as they relate to subsequent layer production.
3. Turning a profit through egg size management control. (Methods for achieving and maximizing the ideal 48-lb. case weight.)
4. Getting a grip on some production proof that efficiency programs do pay.
5. Clamping down on the "hows", "whens" and "whys" of molting for more efficient layer management.

We look forward to an informative and worthwhile meeting. Hope you can be there for Operation Ease the Squeeze.
